CHICAGO, U.S. AIR HUB, NEEDS NEW PORT NEAR LOOP

City Leads World in Plane Trafic.

This is the seventh of a series of stories concerned with the interests of this city. Its text is "Make Chicago the First City in the World."

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Chicago is hub of America's greatest air lines and its municipal airport is the busiest center of air transport in the world. To maintain the city's position as "air trafic capital" the city builders say one imperative need is a downtown flying field that will land passengers close to the business center instead of ten miles out on the Cicero prairie.

Surprising developments that make the pioneers of flying blink as they contemplate them have occurred in Chicago. Following the old trade route, aviation focused on Chicago as a center as did the railroads. Trafic is growing at a rapid rate. As speeds increase and distances diminish, travelers become more airconscious. It is shown in the statistics.

Center of Air Network.

From Chicago now radiate eleven routes flown by eight of the largest air lines. A year or so ago there were eighteen routes. But consolidations reduced the number and some were discontinued because of Postmaster General James A. Farley's air mail contract fiasco.

All four of the major transcontinental air lines go through Chicago. The map shows lines from directions westerly and southerly leading into Chicago as into a funnel neck, then moving straight east.

About one-third [30 per cent] of all the airplane passengers carried in the United States pass through the Chicago airport. So the department of commerce says.

Daily 110 planes now arrive and depart bearing some 500 passengers. At the Chicago municipal airport the 1934 figures show that last year 40,226 planes arived and 40,266 took off.

The number of passengers was 175,638, as against 133,207 in 1933, a 32 per cent increase. The average for last year was 480 a day; now it is running above 500.

During 1934, too, 1,647,824 pounds of air mail and 416,919 pounds of express cleared through the airport.

European Centers Eclipsed.

Famous European flying fields, Croydon in London, Le Bourget in Paris, Tempelhof in Berlin, are eclipsed in volume of trafic by the Chicago airport. The volume here exceeds that at Newark, N. J., New York's commercial field, which is rated second busiest airport in the world.

At the Chicago airport the air lines have invested more than 10 million dollars in hangars and sheds. The American Air Lines has made Chicago its biggest base, with four hangars and shops in which a plane can almost be rebuilt. The United Air Lines, too, has one of its major bases here, its largest being at Cheyenne, Wyo.

Speed and the reduction of distance, the transport experts declare, are what make aviation valuable to Chicago. Other great centers have been brought closer in travel time to the greatest inland metropolis.

How Distances Shrink.

New York now is only four hours away, going east on the world's fastest nonstop commercial route pushed by the prevailing wind. It may be cut to three hours or less. Detroit, fourth of American cities, is only two hours from Chicago, while 83 minutes is the travel time on the new planes now being put in. St. Louis is only 2 hours and 20 minutes distant; Kansas City, 3 hours; Washington, 4½ hours.

Los Angeles and San Francisco have been pulled in by the plane until they are only 12 hours distant from Chicago. Miami, 900 miles by air, is reached in less than 8 hours. Seattle, gateway to the orient, is only 14 hours away.

Milwaukee is only a 55 minute flight, but trafic suffers because it takes almost as long to get to the Chicago airport from the loop as it does to fly from the airport to Milwaukee.

Heavy increase in trafic is expected by the aviation lines, and Chicago's need to provide downtown facilities is becoming more acute. Every time the flying speed is increased trafic takes a jump. But no matter how fast the planes fly, the airport journey now adds almost an hour to the travel time.

'LIAR!' SNARLS BRUNO AS TWO IDENTIFY HIM

Prisoner Is Placed at Kidnap Scene.

Dr. Condon Next

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Dr. John F. Condon, "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh ransom negotiations, will be the state's principal witness tomorrow in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Observers expect his appearance to be one of the highlights of the kidnaping trial, because thus far the eccentric Bronx educator's testimony has been the subject of much excited conjecture. He has been variously reported as able to identify Hauptmann as the "John" to whom he paid the $50,000 ransom and as unable to identify the prisoner.

Defense Attorney Edward J. Reilly tonight indicated Dr. Condon will be subjected to an intense cross-examination. "We are going to have a lot of surprises once Condon gets on the stand," he said.

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Bruno Richard Hauptmann twice today felt the hand of a witness laid upon him and a voice pronounce testimony pointing to him as the kidnaper of the murdered Lindbergh baby.

The calm of the defendant was shattered for the first time since the trial began a week ago in Judge Thomas W. Trenchard's court before a jury of eight men and four women.

When Joseph Perronne, a taxicab driver, walked over to Hauptmann, put his hand on his shoulder, and said with a Latin sense of a dramatic, "That is the man," Hauptmann snarled, "You're a liar!" at him.

Tells of Delivering Note.

The cab driver identified Hauptmann as a man who gave him a ransom note to deliver to Dr. John F. Condon on March 12, 1932, twelve days after the kidnaping.

The other main witness of the day was Amandus Hochmuth, 87 years old, a white whiskered old gentleman whose voice was firm although his hands and head shook from a nervous affliction.

He also descended from the witness stand, approached Hauptmann, pointed at him, and then went forward and laid his hand on the defendant's knee.

"There he is," he told the jury.

Hauptmann merely looked at him.

Puts Hauptmann Near Scene.

Hochmuth identified Hauptmann as the driver of a car which passed the entrance to the Lindbergh estate on March 1, 1932. That night the child was kidnaped.

This evidence was presented by the state to damage any alibi that may be offered by the defendant, who says he never was near the Hopewell home of the aviator and his wife.

"He had a red face and glaring eyes," Hochmuth said. "He looked as if he had seen a ghost. There was something that looked like a ladder in the rear of the car."

About the only point scored by the defense during the day was in cross-examination of policemen who told of experiments with ladders to determine how the kidnaper could have entered the nursery on the second floor of the Lindbergh home.

Describes Climbing Ladder.

Lieut. John Sweeney admitted he had a difficult time leaving the nursery via the ladder route. A man carrying a baby would be much handicapped, although it could be done, he testified.

It was revealed that the top of the ladder used by the kidnaper was approximately 30 inches below the lower window sill.

Perronne, the cab driver, a dark featured man wearing spectacles, testified concerning the ransom note incident fully aware of the fact that he had the center of the stage for a few moments. He made the most of them.

On March 12, 1932, he said, he was cruising in the Bronx, New York,

New Deal Gold Tactics Before SupremeCourt

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The United States Supreme court, in the oil code case, having ruled out a section of the NRA as unconstitutional, today turned its attention to another piece of New Deal legislation. That is the act of congress abrogating the gold clause in contracts aggregating some 100 billion dollars.

Viewed from the amount of money involved, this is the most stupendous litigation in the annals of jurisprudence. Not only the private contracts, but the solvency of the government itself, is at stake, for the national debt would be increased to some 50 billion dollars by an adverse ruling. The obligations on all the gold clause contracts would be increased from 100 to 152 billion dollars.

Cummings Argues Case.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings made his first appearance before the court on behalf of the government, explaining that the considerations were of "unusual and almost unprecedented in portance."

Four cases were consolidated by the court. They are being heard simultaneously. One involves a $1,000 bond of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, on which Norman C. Norman of New York is seeking the equivalent of $22.50 in gold, the amount of a coupon falling due on Feb. 1, 1934. He asks $38.10, the equivalent in Roosevelt devalued dollars. The bond specifically says interest and principal are payable in gold.

U. S. Bonds Are Involved.

In another case the bonds of the Missouri Pacific railway are involved. In two others the securities are obligations of the United States government. John M. Perry is suing for gold, or its equivalent on a Fourth Liberty loan bond. F. Eugene Niriz wants the devalued dollar equivalent of gold certificates surrendered by him against his will.

Attorney General Cummings, unlike counsel for the railroads based his plea on the "terrifying emergency" which he said existed on March 6, 1933. This was when President Roosevelt proclaimed the banking holiday and started a bewildering chain of events that included the ban on hoarding, the calling in under penalty of all gold, devaluation of the gold content of the dollar and abrogation of the gold clause in contracts as contrary to public policy.

Cites Crisis in Banking.

"An emergency of the highest importance confronted the nation," the attorney general said. "Banks, both sound and unsound, were closing throughout the nation. Gold and gold certificates were being hoarded by millions of persons and gold was taking flight from the country. International finance was completely disorganized and industry was paralyzed. Millions of men were unemployed. We were constantly slipping toward a lower level of civilization."

Mr. Cummings, whose argument was not concluded and will be resumed tomorrow, then reviewed the steps taken by the President and by congress. His sole justification for these extraordinary measures was the emergency that existed, the contention that industry and finance faced a crisis "most terrifying in character."

Ignores Emergency Plea.

Attorney Frederick H. Wood, representing the Baltimore and Ohio railway, also defended the government's action. However, he ignored the emergency condition. He sought to prove that congress could have exercised such power, in full compliance with the constitution, at any time. He said the power of congress to coin money, establish legal tender and the value thereof was not only expressly granted by the constitution, but was a power

SHOT IN BATTLE TO ESCAPE TRAP ON NORTH SIDE

Use Guns and Gas In Raid; 3 Seized.

Russell Gibson, 32 year old ex-convict wanted for the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, millionaire St. Paul brewer, was shot and fatally wounded last night in a pitched battle with government agents.

Gibson, said to be a member of the notorious Arthur (Doc) Barker-Alvin Karpis gang, was shot three times in a desperate break for freedom. He died early this morning in the American hospital.

Also captured when trapped with Gibson in an apartment at 3920 Pine Grove avenue were Mrs. Clara Gibson, widow of the dead man, another woman whose name was not revealed, and a man whose identity was not disclosed by department of justice agents, although at first he was identified as Willie Harrison, said to be a minor hoodium from St. Louis and member of the Barker-Karpis gang.

Trailed to North Side Lair.

Government men had the apartment under surveillance for the past week, according to Harold Nathan, right hand man of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the division of investigation of the department of justice, and were informed that Gibson had played an important part in the abduction of Bremer last January.

Harrison and the two women had lived there for the past two months, according to residents of the big 48 flat building, but Gibson is said to have arrived only yesterday from somewhere north. He was trailed by a government agent.

Mr. Nathan arrived in Chicago from St. Louis yesterday.

Building Is Surrounded.

The trap was ready. Sixteen agents, armed with machine guns, rifles, tear gas bombs, and wearing bulletproof vests, surrounded the building. They did not, however, notify the Town Hall police, in whose district the raid was being made, of the affair.

That nearly led to a tragic battle between the agents and the police a little later.

One group of agents went to the rear of the building to prevent escape from that quarter. Another group remained in the court of the apartment building. The third group, led by Earl J. Connelly, the agent in charge, went into the vestibule.

On the bell was the name "S. A. Reed." That was the first floor apartment, over an English basement, in which Gibson and his pals were known to be. Connelly rang the bell and shouted through the speaking tube:

"Come on down, one at a time. The place is surrounded."

Opens Fire On Agents.

There was no reply. The agents with Connelly started up the stairs. Clara Gibson had just started out, but when she saw the government men, she darted back inside, slamming the door.

The agents opened fire.

Almost simultaneously shots came from the rear of the flat. Gibson, on hearing Connelly's first demand, had seized a heavy automatic rifle and started out the rear. He ran into the group of agents stationed in the alley.

Gibson fired one shot. A return blast from the government men literally blew the gun from his hand. He stooped to retrieve it and another volley caught him through the back.

Gibson tried to run. He ran into an areaway, realized it was a blind alley, turned back, and collapsed.

Shoot Into Wrong Flat.

In front of the building, the group of agents in the court had heard the firing, and decided that the gang had begun to "shoot it out." Mistaking the window of the apartment of J. H. Twitchell for one of the other apartment, they blew the glass panes out with shots and hurled three tear gas bombs inside.

Twitchell, an innocent man, terrified and bewildered, staggered to a small balcony, choking with tear gas and crying out that he surrendered. Harrison, meanwhile, had come down the inside stairs, his hands elevated, and made no resistance.

Women Overcome by Fumes.

The women were overcome by the gas fumes. The fumes also spread through many other apartments in the building and a number of families were forced to flee to the air outside.

In the meantime, hearing the shots and shouting, neighbors phoned in half a dozen calls to the Town Hall police. As many squads responded, unaware

WOMAN IS BURNED TO DEATH IN AUTO HIT BY POLICE CAR

An unidentified woman about 30 years old was burned to death early today when the auto in which she was riding was struck and overturned by a police squad car racing to answer a shooting alarm which later proved false.

Riding in the squad car were Policemen Michael Durkin and Tony Gardner of the Englewood station. They had received the report of a shooting at 427 Englewood avenue and were on their way to that address when the collision occurred at 57th and Halsted streets. The car in which the woman was riding burst into flames and she was dead before she could be extricated. With her in the auto was John O'Brien, 30 years old, of 4201 Emerald avenue, and another woman who fled. O'Brien was take nto St. Bernard's hospital, his left broken, but refused to reveal the identity of the dead woman or where they had been. The death raised the county toll this year to 10.

The license number of the automobile was traced to Michael McGovern, 508 South Dearborn street.

Policeman Durkin also was taken to St. Bernard's hospital with severe gashes on the head, and Gardner was treated for severe shock.

Earl Horning, 47 years old, was taken into custody by police, who said he had made the fake call and had been drinking.

Youth Relates $50,000 Tale of Kidnaping

Allen Cressler Bomberger, 21 year old college student at Wabash college, Crawfordsville, Ind., and son of Lowden Bomberger, 22 Glendale road, Hammond, a corporation lawyer, told a story in the detective bureau early today of having been kidnaped and held for ransom for two days after being forced to write a letter to his father demanding payment of $50,000.

The youth said that he had been seized on a Crawfordsville street Sunday night by two men and a woman. He was bound and gagged, he told police, and taken to a bungalow which he believed to be in Indianapolis, after about on hour's drive.

Writes Ransom Letter.

There he was forced to write the ransom letter to his father, after which he was bound again and held until late yesterday. Then, he said, he was bundled into the car and driven about until the time when he was tossed out of the car here early today.

Unaware of what town he was in, he said, he entered a cab and asked to be taken to a hotel. At the Great Northern hotel he telephoned his father, who informed him that department of justice agents were at the home and instructed him to report to federal authorities here.

Describes Kidnapers.

Instead, young Bomberger telephoned Central police and two detectives escorted him to the station, where federal agents were summoned. He was reported to have given the federal men accurate descriptions of the woman, who drove the car, and one of the two men.

The elder Bomberger at his home in Hammon early today confirmed his son's story, but said that he had paid no ransom money, although he had received the ransom letter in his son's handwriting on Monday. The letter bore an Indianapolis postmark, he said.

Two Youths Seized Trying to Rob Insurance Doctor

John Novak, 18 years old, and Joe Somen, 19 years old, both of 1020 West Madison street, were arrested last night after attempting to rob Dr. E. S. Mills, 720 North Michigan boulevard, medical director of the Central Life Insurance company of Northern Illinois. The two had been given a ride in the doctor's car near Franklin and Van Buren streets and were attempting to rob him when a police car drove up and arrested them.

WINS $40,000 LOTTERY, TAKES HIS FRIENDS, KIN BACK TO CHINA

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Wong Chiu Gen, 38, is going home to China Friday, but he won't be among a lot of strange Chinese when he gets there—he's taking 18 friends and relatives with him.

Wong, a Canton boy, made good in the storekeeping business in Havana by winning the $40,000 Havana lottery last month. Being a Chinese of the old school, nothing would do but that those countrymen who were his friends when he had no money should share his fortune.

He went to Cuba 14 years ago, leaving his wife and two sons in China. The storekeeping business wasn't so good, particularly when the government sent lottery tickets around to be sold. There was $5 worth of tickets unsold in one batch, so Wong, rather than admit he was a poor salesman, bought them—and won the $40,000.

of the government activity. Lieut. William V. Blaul led one squad into the court. He shouted:

"We are police officers!"

The government men, he said, did not identify themselves, but just when a pitched battle seemed imminent Lieut. Blaul kept his men from firing and established the identity of the other group.

Second Tragedy Averted.

In the rear a similar scene was taking place. Police Sergeants Everett Mullaney, Martin Walsh and Fred Leckie, hearing the shots fired at Gibson, came into the alley. Seeing the government men, they mistook them for gangsters and deployed behind available cover, ready to fight it out.

Just in time one of the agents cried: "We're D. J. men!"

Inside the apartment where Gibson and the others had been staying the agents found four Browning automatic rifles, ten pistols, several sawed-off shotguns, 500 rounds of ammunition, and three bulletproof vests.

At the hospital a government agent was at Gibson's bedside attempting to question the dying gangster. No official comment was made, but it was said that Gibson remained obdurate in the face of demands to reveal "Where is Karpis?"

"He was too weak to talk," was the government statement. Gibson died a short time later. In Gibson's pocket agents found $5,000 in large bills.

Other Kidnapers at Large.

Gibson is said to be the first of the actual kidnapers of Bremer to be accounted for. Barker and Karpis, under indictment for the crime, are still fugitives. John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, Chicago politician, also under indictment as an accessory, has confessed to handling a part of the $200,000 ransom.

Gibson's record of crime dated back to 1917, when he was arrested in Kansas City, Mo., and sentenced to the state penitentiary for "flourishing a deadly weapon." In 1929 he took part in the $75,000 robbery of a messenger for the American First National bank in Oklahoma City. He was arrested for that crime, but escaped from the Oklahoma county jail on Aug. 20, 1929, while awaiting trial.

He and his wife are also wanted for violation of the Dyer act, having brought a stolen automobile from St. Joseph, Mo., to Oklahoma City at the time of the bank messenger robbery.

Melvin H. Purvis, local head of the department of justice agents, returned to Chicago yesterday in company with Mr. Nathan. Purvis has been absent since the killing of two federal agents by Baby Face Nelson at Barrington on Nov. 27.

Wanted in Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 9 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Sherif Stanley Rogers said today his office had spent more than $7,000 in the past five years trying to apprehend Russell Gibson.

Gibson was wanted here for participation in the $75,000 robbery of Charles Vowell, American-First Trust company bank messenger.

"We interested the department of justice in the chase," Sherif Rogers said, "and I recently had a report they had trailed him to Chicago in the Karpis-Barker investigation."

U. S. HIGH COURT CITES CHICAGOAN FOR CONTEMPT

Attorney Thomas Marshall of Chicago was ordered yesterday by the United States Supreme court to show cause on Feb. 4 why he should not be held in contempt. The citation is due to reflections made against opposing counsel and against Justice Samuel Alschuler of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in an appeal brief filed by Marshall in the case of the Marshall Electric company against the Pullman company for alleged infringement of patents.

Edward F. Dunne Jr., son of former Gov. Dunne, and Robert S. Blair were counsel for the defendant company. Losing the case in the United States District court, the defendant companies took an appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals, which reversed the lower court.

In an appeal from the decision Attorney Marshall charged that Justice Alschuler was a close friend of former Gov. Dunne and that Attorneys Dunne and Blair associated to gain special favors from the court. The Supreme court declined to review the case.

NEW DEALERS TRY TO PARRY BLOW TO CODES

Borah Predicts Further Losses of Power.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—This has been a day of stock taking in the New Deal, following the jolt given the NRA by the Supreme court yesterday.

On every side New Dealers had their heads together trying to estimate the damage caused by the court's ruling that section 9 [c] of the National Industrial Recovery act delegated to the President unconstitutionally the power to make laws relating to the transportation of "hot" oil.

Gloom pervaded the meeting of the national emergency council as its membership, which comprises the cabinet and the heads of the recovery agencies, surveyed the decision of the court in the first of the federal New Deal cases to come before it.

Richberg Conducts Meeting.

The President absented himself from the meeting which was presided over by Donald Richberg, No. 2 man in the New Deal.

One member of the council said after the meeting that naturally the decision is viewed with the greatest concern, not only because it knocks out the President's prohibition of the interstate transportation of oil produced in excess of state restrictions, but because of the danger of much other New Deal legislation being invalidated by the court on the same ground.

That ground was unconstitutional delegation of legislative power to the executive.

Mr. Richberg endeavored to reassure his fellow members, asserting his belief that the NRA codes of fair competition will be upheld. He was particularly encouraged by passages in the court's opinion, one of which pointed out that the section of NIRA creating the codes bases the delegated authority "upon certain express conditions which require findings by the President."

It was the lack of such conditions in the oil section that caused the court to pronounce it unconstitutional.

Borah Sees Many Violations.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Ida.], on the other hand, gave it as his opinion that the decision points unmistakably to the invalidation of the NRA codes.

"The decision at least admonishes congress," Senator Borah said, "that it has a duty to perform. That duty is to legislate and not abdicate. That duty it owes to the people who elect the congress.

"The logic of the decision would seem clearly to include the codes of so called fair competition. Let me give you an illustration: A man writes me he wanted to start an ice plant. The community wanted him to start an ice plant. The code authority issued an order, or a law as you may call it, that he could not start an ice plant. One of the parties issuing the order, or enacting the laws, was a man who had an ice plant in the same town. Here you have legislation without any standard by private interests and by interested parties. If the man violates this order he is sent to jail.

"With all due respect, I say that this order violates at least a half dozen provisions of the constitution of the United States."

Expect End of Price Fixing.

There is a widespread feeling that the price fixing and many other features of NRA, if not the codes generally, will be knocked out by the court in later cases.

Senator Alva B. Adams [Dem., Colo.] regards the decision as dooming a good deal of other New Deal legislation, including the AAA.

"We have gone the whole way in our delegations of authority to the President," said Mr. Adams. "It can hardly be expected that the Supreme court will uphold all the delegations of power congress has attempted. The attitude of the court evitably will affect some of the agricultural agencies."

Curb on Dictatorship.

A view shared by many is that the oil case decision is not so much a blow to the continuation of the numerous New Deal agencies as a check up on the trend toward a dictatorship. By invalidating the delegation of legislative authority to the executive the court has stopped the clothing of the President with unlimited powers. It was the abdication by congress of such powers to the executive that aroused apprehensions that a dictatorship was in process of formation.

One circumstance that startled the New Dealers was the overwhelming majority of the court concurring in the decision. The New Dealers were expecting the 5 to 4 decision in their favor like that in the Minnesota moratorium and New York milk cases, instead of 8 to 1 against them. Even Justice Brandeis, who Gen. Johnson said had counseled every step of the NRA, failed them. There was no revival of the suggestion of packing the court to save the New Deal by adding members to the tribunal. It would be necessary to add 8 to overturn the decision of yesterday, and the wildest New Dealer is not ready to go that far.

Move to Revive Control.

Oil Administrator Ickes said he would endeavor to stop the transportation of hot oil under the oil code. The oil states men in congress, however, are moving for new legislation to correct the defects found fatal to the NRA oil provision by the court.

Decision on Oil Code Arms Dairies for Fight on AAA

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals undertook yesterday to determine to what extent, if any, the Supreme court's opinion of Monday in the National Recovery administration oil code case invalidated the executive-made laws of the NRA's sister organization, the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

In an injunction case growing out of attempts by the AAA to revoke licenses of seven Chicago dairy companies because of violations of the AAA milk marketing agreement, attorneys for the AAA and the companies were instructed by the court to file briefs within ten days on the power of congress to delegate its legislative powers to the executive department.

In the oil code case the Supreme court set strict limits on such delegations of power holding that the promulgation of such regulations by the President or his aids must be limited to carrying out the instructions of congress in passing the law under which the regulation is issued.

Appeal from an Injunction.

In the case heard yesterday by the Circuit Court of Appeals, the AAA, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Attorney General Cummings appealed from a temporary injunction granted last June by Federal Judge John P. Barnes restraining revocation of the milk marketing licenses of the Edgewater Dairy company and six other Chicago dairies. The question of delegation of powers was not argued orally yesterday because copies of the copies of the Supreme court oil opinion had not reached Chicago.

John J. Abt, counsel for the AAA, informed the court yesterday that all of the dairy companies in question get their milk entirely within the state of Illinois. He argued, however, that this milk competes with milk and butter moved in interstate commerce, and cited cases in which the Supreme court has held, he asserted, in railroad and grain futures administration cases, that the federal government may regulate intrastate commerce if it be necessary to the regulation of interstate commerce in the same commodity.

Just Minor Details, Says AAA.

He also argued that in the agricultural adjustment act congress gave the secretary of agriculture broad powers to achieve the restoration of farm income, and that regulations promulgated under the AAA were merely filling in "minor details" of actions to accomplish that policy.

Judge Evan A. Evans, who with Judges Will M. Sparks and Louis FitzHenry heard the arguments, commented that milk is comparable to narcotics, "in reverse"; that, whereas narcotics are harmful and for that reason subject to federal regulations, milk is beneficial and therefore might be subject to greater regulation than, for example, farm machinery, in the attempt to promote its use.

"If there is no interstate shipment," replied Attorney Arthur R. Seelig, counsel for the dairies, "the government may not constitutionally attempt to achieve an end even though it may think that end desirable."

CODE ATTORNEY SAYS COURT DECISION DOES NOT INVALIDATE NRA

The decision of the United States Supreme court on Monday in the Texas oil case invalidated only one paragraph of the National Industrial Recovery act, and the reasons cited for holding this paragraph unconstitutional do not apply to other sections of the act on which the majority of NRA codes are based, according to Attorney Rush C. Butler. Mr. Butler is a former president of the Illinois Bar association and a member of the law firm of Butler, Pope, Ballard & Elting, which represents several code authorities.

The paragraph which the court held unconstitutional declared that the President was "authorized to prohibit the transportation in interstate and foreign commerce" of petroleum produced in excess of quotas set by state laws or regulations.

"Congress itself does not anywhere in the act declare such transportation to be unlawful or to be harmful or otherwise against the public interest," said Mr. Butler yesterday. "In other words, congress did not legislate on the subject, but abdicated its function in that regard and transferred it to the President.

"If, instead of saying the President is authorized to prohibit the interstate transportation of certain petroleum, congress had said that such transportation is unlawful, such legislation would have been within the power of congress.

"This decision of the Supreme court has no application whatsoever to the great body of codes now in operation. Their status is for later determination by the courts."

NEW DEAL GOLD TACTICS BEFORE SUPREME COURT

100 Billions at Issue; Cummings Argues.

arising out of a combination of others. He said that composite doctrin was first enunciated by Chief Justice Marshall in McCulloch vs. Maryland and later by Justice Storey in the legal tender cases.

Mr. Wood addressed himself primarily to the contention that congress, while having full powers over the regulation of currency, nevertheless cannot legally impair the obligations of existing contracts. In the legal tender cases, he said, the Supreme court held that congress not only had the power to make irredeemable paper legal tender, but to make it legal tender for the payment of preëxisting debts.

"Congress passed a 10 per cent tax on bank notes and this drove state bank notes out of existence," Mr. Wood declared. "That act also impaired contracts, the right to issue bank notes obtaining in the bank charters. But that law was sustained."

Cites Case in Philippines.

The attorney also cited the Ling Soo Fang case, involving an act to prevent the melting down of silver pesos in the Philippines. The plaintif contended that the pesos were his and that if they would bring more when melted down than their face value it was his privilege to melt them. The court, however, sustained the act.

Attorney Wood also argued and said that the Supreme court frequently had affirmed that congress, in the exercise of its enumerated powers, could exercise others to prevent obstructions to and make effective its acts.

"This court frequently has held that you cannot subordinate the legislative powers of congress to the maintenance of existing stipulations and agreements," he said. "These gold clauses, by the petitioner's statement, were inserted to protect the holders of bonds against the free coinage of silver or the excess issuance of paper money. They were put there to insure payment in dollars that would have the same value as any other dollars.

"So long as the dollar, in whatever form, has an equal value, the gold clause serves no purpose.

"As a matter of fact, the magnitude and extent of these gold clauses constituted a threat to the power of congress to maintain a parity of money. They put gold at a premium and encouraged hoarding."

Denies Right to Cancel.

Attorney Emmanuel Redfield, counsel for Norman, said his client was not seeking payment in gold because it would be impossible for the railroad to make such payment. He argued, however, that the gold clause implied an obligation to pay in the equivalent of gold and that congress recognized this in providing that such obligations should be paid "dollar for dollar."

"Public resolution No. 10, enacted by the Seventy-third congress," said Mr. Redfield, "is unconstitutional in that it nullifies the effect of the gold clause. There is no provision in the constitution giving congress the power to impair obligations of existing contracts. On the other hand, the fifth amendment with its due process clause imposes limitations on the exercise of all powers of congress."

ECKHART'S GIFTS OF MILLIONS AT CHRISTMAS TOLD

Secretary Testifies on Tax Claim of $1,237,000

For twenty years the late Bernard A. Eckhart used to put thousands of dollars' worth of stocks and bonds in the stockings of his family every Christmas, according to evidence submitted on behalf of the family yesterday as part of its defense against an estate tax assessment of $1,237,481 which the federal government is seeking to collect.

The gifts were described by Frank A. Kucera, who was employed by Mr. Eckhart as confidential secretary from 1904 until his employer, then 79 years old, died on May 11, 1931. Kucera spent the entire day on the witness stand at the hearing conducted in the Palmer house before Judge Charles M. Trammell of the United States board of tax appeals.

In opposition to the government's tax claim stands the $9,525 counterclaim on the taxes already paid by Mr. Eckhart's estate, of which his son, Attorney Percy B. Eckhart, is executor.

The Government's Contentions.

The government insists that large amounts of securities which Mr. Eckhart gave his wife, Mrs. Katie L. Eckhart, and his children were made in anticipation of death, and therefore were taxable as though they had remained as part of his estate when he died. The estate denies this allegation, and also charges that the commissioner of internal revenue, who made the tax assessment, overvalued the Eckhart assets.

The government valued the estate for tax purposes at $11,403,639, but Attorney Eckhart, as executor, declares its value was in fact only $2,410,413. The Christmas gifts to which Kucera testified are not involved directly in the tax dispute. These gifts were described as evidence to show that in making the later gifts, now in dispute, Mr. Eckhart was carrying on a custom of years' standing and that they were not made in view of impending death.

Reading from musty account books, Kucera told under questioning by Attorney William A. McSwain, representing the estate, how every year at Christmas time his employer instructed him to obtain blocks of stock worth from $5,000 to $10,000 for use as Christmas presents to Mrs. Eckhart and the four Eckhart children. The children are Attorney Eckhart, Carlos K. Eckhart, Mrs. Hazel E. Brophy, and Mrs. Dorothy E. Williams.

Total $400,000 in Decade.

Sometimes Mr. Eckhart took the actual stocks or bonds home with him on Christmas eve, Kucera said. Sometimes he merely dictated notes to the various members of the family stating he was giving them the securities as a Christmas remembrance. Between 1910 and 1919 these gifts had a total par value of $402,000.

The largest Christmas gift of the lot, and one on which the government holds a tax is due on the contention that it was made in anticipation of death, was that of 1923, seven years before Mr. Eckhart died. It consisted of 24,550 shares of his personal holding company, the De Soto Securities company, which the government values at $4,110,332, but which the estate representatives assert was worth only $1,264,325.

The government also seeks to classify as gifts in anticipation of death 500 shares of the De Soto Realty Trust, valued at approximately $800,000, which Mr. Eckhart gave his family on March 19, 1930, and preferred stock of the De Soto Securities company of a par value of $375,000 which he gave them on April 30, 1930.

Method of Handling Securities.

Kucera went into some detail in describing how the earlier Christmas gifts were placed in separate envelopes bearing the names of Mrs. Eckhart and the children, and kept in a safe deposit box which Mr. Eckhart never used for his personal holdings. Kucera and Mr. Eckhart continued to clip the interest coupons on the bonds and deposit the collections in the bank accounts of the proper members of the family, except in the case of Attorney Eckhart, who handled his own securities.

This procedure, Kucera testified, served merely as a matter of convenience, particularly for the women of the family. He testified that he often had to make for Mrs. Eckhart new lists of her securities because she had sold some of her holdings and failed to record them on the list which she had.

"But in a year her records would be in the same shape as before," he said, somewhat woefully.

Long Line of Witnesses.

Kucera testified that Mr. Eckhart was in good mental and physical health until about a month before his death. He was the 18th witness called on behalf of the estate. In previous hearings witnesses who have described conversations with Mr. Eckhart regarding the disposition of his estate have included Albert W. Harris, chairman of the board of the Harris Trust and Savings bank; President James R. Leavell of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company; former Judge Charles S. Cutting, and Abel Davis, chairman of the board of the Chicago Title and Trust company.

The hearing is expected to last two weeks longer. Ralph Smith, counsel for the bureau of internal revenue, has not yet presented any of the government's evidence.

JURY COMPLETED TO TRY PIQUETT AS DILLINGER AID

Case Hinges on Lawyer's Relation to Client.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The jury for the trial of Attorney Louis Piquett, former city prosecutor, who is accused of conspiracy to harbor and conceal John Dillinger last summer, was completed at the opening session of the case in Federal Judge William H. Holly's court yesterday. The jurors were placed in charge of special bailiffs and locked up for the night.

Today the government will begin its evidence. The first witness, said United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, probably will be Lew Baker, who was warden of the Lake County [Ind.] jail at Crown Point when Dillinger escaped from there last March 3, after visits had been made to him by Piquett, his attorney.

Mr. Green said the prosecution will trace the desperado's movements from the escape to last July 22 when he was slain by federal agents as he left the Biograph theater at 2433 Lincoln avenue. Among the witnesses will be Mrs. Lillian Holley, former Lake county sheriff.

Jurors in the Case.

The jurors selected are: Edward C. Bonguski of Algonquin, painter; George Howard, 1409 Monroe street, Chicago, cigarmaker; Jess Pierce, Woodstock, unemployed; Hugh E. Anderson, Waukegan, auto salesman; W. C. Schmuhl, Mokena, farmer; Michael Rose, 3712 North Sawyer avenue, bookbinder; W. S. Clark, Elmhurst, unemployed salesman; Frank H. Baker, Peru, cigarmaker; Harry J. Fuller, 1419 Addison street, unemployed salesman; William Nicholson, Genoa, farm laborer; Arthur S. Thayer, 6321 North Rockwell street, advertising man, and Albert Crane, 7641 Eastlake terrace, office manager.

Questions asked by government and defense counsel in selecting the jury showed that the outcome of the trial will turn on the question of a proper relationship between lawyer [Piquett] and client [Dillinger]. Judge Holly will instruct the jurors as to the law on this crucial point.

"I thought I was within my rights," said Piquett, between court sessions.

Seek Views on Lawyers.

Defense Attorneys Henry E. Pieruccini and Edwin T. Peifer asked questions to determine whether there was any prejudice in the minds of prospective jurors against a lawyer who represented a notorious criminal.

United States Attorney Green, who participated in the questioning for the prosecution, countered this by questions which brought out that lawyers have a choice as to the type of clients they accept.

One question along this line was objected to by the defense. Judge Holly upheld the objection, saying:

"Even though a lawyer has a choice and he chooses to defend a man of evil reputation, it does not prove at all that he was engaged in a conspiracy."

Any Fear Over Dillinger?

"Do you have any fear or nervousness at the name of John Dillinger?" the defense lawyers wanted to know from the men in the box. Mr. Green retorted that the indictment shows Dillinger is dead.

Mr. Pieruccini defined the status of his client as a lawyer who engaged in criminal practice. He amended this to say that he was a lawyer who specialized in criminal law.

With Mr. Green at the prosecution table were J. Albert Woll and Horace Hagan, special assistants to the United States attorney general. Piquett, in addition to filing his appearance as his own attorney, had Attorneys Pieruccini and Peifer of record, as well as the presence and advice of Attorney Paul H. Vandenberg.

WHY WORRY OVER BATS? SAYS ZOO; ALL ARE MALES

For a week words have been flying between the Chicago Zoological park at Brookfield, the United States customs office in the federal courthouse and the department of agriculture at Washington.

It's a controversy over the four fruit eating bats, also known as flying foxes, which were imported by the zoo from South America. When the customs office discovered their presence it was recalled that congress in 1900 banned such bats as a "fast breeding menace to the fruit crop." Their execution was decreed by Washington officials. Clemency was sought by the zoo.

And now comes Zoo Director Edward H. Bean with the new contention that all the hullabaloo is unnecessary, for all four of the bats are males.

"Not a female in the lot," he said yesterday. "Consequently, there would would be no danger of reproduction. Moreover, safe in their cage in our small mammal house, they could be of no damage to the fruit crop—and they are a rare addition to the zoo."

NEW DEAL BASED ON A FALSE IDEA, DR. FRIDAY SAYS

The principal fault of the New Deal is that it is based on the false assumption that our present economic system is a failure, Dr. David Friday, director of the National Bureau of Economic Research at Washington, said last night in Chicago.

Speaking before the weekly forum of the Congregation Anshe Emet, 3760 Pine Grove avenue, Dr. Friday declared that by all standards the present economic system has proved the best of all those which history records.

Reconciliation Fails

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—All efforts toward a reconciliation having failed, Mrs. Earl E. T. Smith, the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, is en route to Reno to sue the grandson of the late Edward N. Tailer for a divorce, according to a report published here today.

The Smiths have been living apart for some months, and it was said to be no secret among their friends that their estrangement was headed for the divorce court. Recently it was reported that efforts to bring about a reconciliation were undertaken, but from all accounts they came to naught.

BATTLE TO SAVE PLANE LOST IN FOG OVER CITY

Fate of Ship a Mystery as Hours Pass.

The fate of an airplane lost in the fog over Chicago remained a mystery last night after officials of the department of commerce at the airport had sought to direct its pilot by radio signals to a safe landing.

For nearly three hours yesterday afternoon the plane hovered above the Furniture Mart at 666 Lake Shore drive, the drone of its motors plainly heard by office workers in the mart and other near north side buildings. About 5:40 p. m. the sound faded away to the southwest and airport officials said they believed the flyer had caught some of the radio signals and had headed for a landing place west of the city.

May Have Headed South.

It was also considered a possibility that he had sufficient gasoline to have made an effort to reach Louisville or St. Louis, south of the fog zone, when extended across the northern part of the nation from the Atlantic seaboard to Omaha.

Aviation authorities said they had no idea who the flyer could be. There have been no scheduled flights into or out of Chicago in the last three days.

The lost plane's motor was first heard shortly after 3 p. m. by employes working on the 21st floor of the Furniture Mart. An hour and a half later the plane dived, zooming close to the building several times, and it became apparent that the pilot was in desperate straits.

Radio Calls Sent Out.

In the hope that the plane carried a receiving set the department of commerce radio station at the airport sent out a series of calls to the plane, telling the pilot his exact location.

These calls went out at 5:35 p. m. and it was only a few minutes later that the Furniture Mart reported the plane had gone.

Because of the radio broadcasts sent out by the department of commerce it was believed the ship would be reported by any airport within a radius of several hundred miles in case it should land at one of these points. If, however, the pilot should come down on open prairie, it might take several hours for news of his grounding to reach officials here.

The fog, which drifted thick over the city, and became denser in the open country, was described by meteorologists as the worst ever experienced.

So widespread was the shroud of mist that not a transcontinental plane moved yesterday.

Forecaster W. P. Day of the Chicago weather bureau said there was some hope that the fog would lift in the middle west today with a shift in wind to the north.

FRANCO-ITALIAN ACCORD BLOCKS GERMAN ARMING

Italy Given 50,000 Miles of African Territory.

ROME, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A firm Italo-French determintion not to recognize Germany's rearmament was disclosed tonight as Pierre Laval, French foreign minister, sped back toward Paris carrying with him the agreements he and Premier Benito Mussolini signed during Laval's four day visit.

An official communique giving details of the new accords—which provide for French concessions to Italy in Africa and pledge the two nations to mutual efforts in the cause of Europe's peace—contained this significant paragraph:

"The Italian and French governments, recalling the declaration of Dec. 11, 1932, in reference to the rights of equality, are in accord in recognizing that no country can modify by a unilateral act her obligations regarding armaments, and that in case this eventuality arises they will consult each other."

Violation of Agreement.

It was under the declaration of Dec. 11, 1932, that Germany returned to the disarament conference after her abandonment of it that summer.

She was granted, in this declaration, theoretical equality of armament rights but it was stipulated that this equality should be reached by gradual stages, partly through further disarmament of heavily armed countries and partly through the partial rearmament of Germany.

The reich's considerable rearmament alleged to have been achieved thus far is therefore, Italy believes, in violation of this declaration, but what France and Italy intend to do about it was hardly made clear.

Well informed circles here during the past few days have expressed the opinion that France and Italy would not recognize Germany's rearmament unless she signed the proposed non-intervention pact to be submitted to Austria and her five neighbors—Italy, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, and Jugo-Slavia—and returned to the league of nations. The pact is to be left open also to the adherence of France, Poland, and Rumania.

Pressure on Germany.

The French foreign minister, however, denied this, and the opinion was voiced this evening that the statement contained in the official communique might be designed to push Germany into the agreement.

In any case, the only remedy the agreement provides for the two contracting countries, it was disclosed, is to consult each other. But this gave rise to the belief that they would take united action if they felt called upon to do so.

The communique also revealed for the first time the extent of French concessions in Africa. To Italy Laval agreed to give 44,500 square miles sliced off the northeastern ends of French West Africa and French equatorial Africa. He also promised enough of French Somaliland to give Italy command of the Strait of Bab-el-Mandeb, linking the Red sea and the Bay of Aden, as well as the Island of Doumerrah.

Italian residents of Tunis, France agreed, might keep their Italian citizenship until 1965. Babies born of Italian parents until 1945 will be Italians, and those born between 1945 and 1965 may take their choice between French and Italian citizenship.

Combat Terrorists.

The communique said the two nations were in accord in recommending the "pact of noninterference in their respective internal affairs [of the signatories] and reciprocal undertaking not to excite or favor any action which might have the purpose of attempts by force on the territorial integrity, political or social régime of one of the contracting parties."

The latter part of this agreement, it was pointed out, would cover such cases of terrorism as that which brought the assassination of the late King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and nearly precipitated conflict between that nation and Hungary, alleged harbor of the terrorists.

Furthermore, Italy and France agreed to "consult between themselves with Austria to see what measures to take" should Austria's "independence and integrity be menaced," extending this collaboration to other states.

Big though French concessions in Africa may look on the map, Italian newspapers agreed that they were moderate indeed, and so Laval went home in high feather, confident he had killed off seeds of dissension between France and Italy.

It was believed here Laval would have no difficulty in putting the accords through the French parliament.

Pacifies Jugo-Slavs.

A prediction that old Italo-Jugo-Slav enmities may be healed by the new Italo-French understanding was made as favorable reaction came from Austria, Hungary, and the little entente nations which were busily studying the proposed noninterference pact.

The authoritative Giornale d'Italia, in an editorial outlining the Laval-Mussolini accord, said the agreements "confirm once more the absence of any foundations of suspicion artificially created among the little entente, and above all in Jugo-Slavia, of supposed tendencies toward hegemony or of monopolies on the part of Italy in Austria and the Danubian basin.

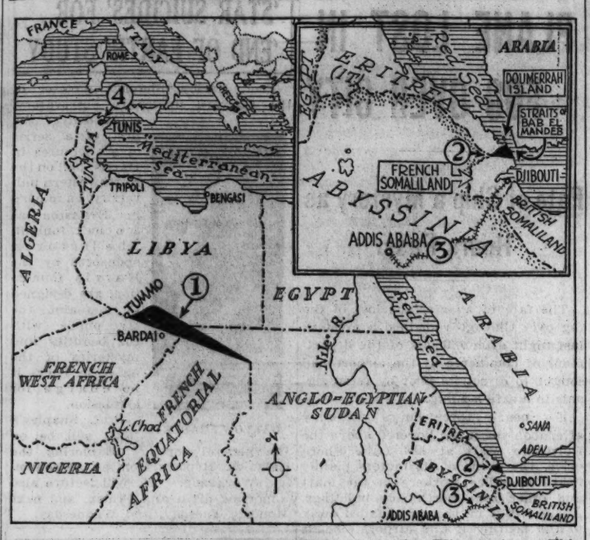
"Therefore Italo-Jugo-Slav relations finally can emerge from that deformation into which propaganda and the actions of some Jugo-Slav sectors forced them, and turn realistically toward the invitation extended by Mussolini in his speech at Milan Oct. 6 [in which he proposed friendship between the two nations."

Laval Speaks to Envoys.

That Laval and Mussolini were not indifferent to the implications of their agreements in the Balkans and central Europe was evidenced when the French foreign minister received the representatives in Rome of the three little entente members — Jugo-Slavia, Rumania and Czechoslovakia—and of Austria, before departing.

Laval explained to them the agreements and, presumably, his hope that the new found Italo-French friendship would help bulwark that peace and security France has sought so long and so assiduously.

FRENCH CONCESSIONS TO ITALY IN AFRICA



The official Italo-French communique on colonial agreements describes concessions in Africa as follows:

1. "The frontiers of Libya [which belongs to Italy] are extended to a line which, leaving Tummo, reaches the west frontier of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan at the intersection of the 24th meridian east longitude with the 18th degree 45 minutes north latitude. This line leaves Aozou and Guezenti in Italian territory, and Bardai and Tecro in French territory. The area thus added to Libya is approximately 44,500 square miles.

2. "The frontier between Eritrea [belonging to Italy] and French Somaliland is changed by a line drawn between Dereloua on the Red sea to Daadato on the Wiema river. This change gives Italy a strip on the coast fronting on the Strait of Bab-el-Mandeb. Italy also gets the island of Doumerrah. Frontier commissions will work out the details of the new frontiers.

3. "There will be Italian participation in the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railway. [Italy is believed to have received 3,000 shares from France.]

4. "Under the Tunis convention, Italian citizenship is protected until 1965. Persons born of Italian parents before that date will be Italians, but those born between 1945 and 1965 will have the right to choose French citizenship. Italian schools are protected until 1955, when they must become private schools. All other rights are protected until 1945."

NEW PEACE CONFERENCE

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 8.—An international peace conference which will be the most important since Versailles is likely to be held in Rome about the end of this month or the beginning of February as a result of the Franco-Italian agreements just reached in the Roman talks between Premier Mussolini and French Foreign Minister Pierre Laval. That was the view the British government today.

The need for a conference arises out of two features of the new agreements. The guarantee of the independence and integrity of Austria must be accepted by all of Austria's neighbors, including Germany. The exact form that the guarantee will take must be the result of a conference between all signatory states.

Basis for Equality.

Much more important is the return of Germany to the league of nations and the recognition of her rearmament on equal terms. This must also be threshed out between Germany and the other powers, all of which are interested.

If a fair agreement is reached on that the next step is some real disarmament proposals into which Germany could enter as an equal. This view of the siuation was taken by the British cabinet at a meeting today at which foreign affairs were exclusively discussed.

Nothing is likely to be done until after the meeting of the league of nations council which begins this week and is expected to last a week or ten days.

EX-JUSTICE HOLMES WRITES IN LAW REVIEW AGAIN AFTER 50 YEARS

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 8.—At the age of 93 former Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes has broken two years of silence by contributing the foreword to the fiftieth anniversary number of the Law Quarterly Review published in London.

Mr. Holmes was a contributor to its first number and now finds it "almost unbelievable" that a half century has passed.

"In the life of a common man fifty years are few indeed," he writes, "but when these years are marked by developing scholarship and deepening insight they must have profound importance. I don't believe it is simply the bias of a contemporary which makes me feel the last fifty years have been of unusual significance."

In its long career the Law Review has come to be recognized as foremost in its field and has inspired the establishing of others in the United States. Sir Frederick Pollock was its first editor. Its present editor is an American professor, Arthur Lehman Goodhart of Oxford.

GASPE FAITHFUL USE ROWBOATS GOING TO MASS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Que., Jan. 8.—Imprisoned for 24 hours by raging floods in Gaspe, the Rev. Father Rivet, parish priest of River Moisie, saw his parishioners attend mass last Sunday by using rowboats.

The same means of conveyance was used to bring him supplies, as well as assurance that he was in no danger. The Moisie river reached its highest level since 1870 during the course of the floor, and water entered the ground floor of the presbytery.

All roads of the region were covered 3 feet deep by water, but little damage was caused except to frame buildings occupied by some twenty or thirty Indians. These were swept from their foundations, and carried some distance. The stream is clear of ice.

NAZIS COMPLAIN SAAR LEFT OPEN TO FRENCH COUP

Claim Troop Movements Seen Near Border.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—The western border of the Saar plebiscite area has been left without adequate protection and, with only 100 Italian soldiers at Saarlouis, is subject to an invasion from French Lorraine. This was the alarm sounded in official German quarters here tonight with the plebiscite to determine whether the Saar returns to Germany, goes to France, or stays under the league of nations, only five days off.

The Nazi authorities claimed that French border guards have been reinforced and that movements of French troops have been observed. They charged that gendarmes were transferred from the Saarlouis district to the eastern [German] side of the Saar, leaving the district without its customary protection, while a strong group of communists has been allowed to enter from Lorraine without being stopped by foreign protectors in the district.

French Coup "Feared."

The official German News Service published an interview with a French member of the Saar government responsible for internal matters, M. Heimburger. It alleged that Heimburger failed to explain why the western Saar is deprived of its protection, thus greatly increasing the possibility of a "French coup against the Saarlouis territory."

The newspaper Angriff announced today that orders for "millions of marks' worth of goods will be placed in the Saar as a welcoming present."

The official Nazi organ promised that as soon as the Saar is back with the fatherland, Otto Hellmuth, Nazi governor of the district of Main-Franconia, will order 7,500 tons of water pipes, worth one million marks. [The mark is quoted now at 40.25 cents.] The water pipes will be used to redistribute the water supply of the district. This project, the paper said, would provide 160,000 days of labor for the unemployed of the district.

Voters Warned.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 8.—Nazis working for the return of the Saar territory to Germany launched a voters' educational campaign today to make sure that ballots cast in the plebiscite next Sunday will be counted.

Election officials yesterday and today disqualified several voters because they violated the plebiscite regulation against indicating in any way, directly or indirectly, how their ballots were to be marked. These voters were among the "absentees" permitted to mark their ballots in advance because of inability to get to the polls next Sunday.

Voting Regulations.

The plebiscite commission several weeks ago announced the voting qualifications and subsequently a spokesman explained that a "Heil, Hitler!" shout or the giving of a Nazi salute at the polling place constituted a violation of the "silent voting" provision.

Nazi leaders here today made the rounds warning their partisans to keep their patriotic fervor under control during the voting.

"Try hard not to look German," they said, "and above all, don't lift your arm in a German greeting."

63° Below Zero Forces U. S. Envoys to Quit Soviet Hotel

20 Die in Poland

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Jan. 8.—The cold wave over the Russian plain has extended to Poland. It was 27 degrees Fahrenheit below zero this morning at Vilna, 8 below in Warsaw, and 5 below in western Poland. It is the coldest winter since 1929. Twenty persons were frozen to death in villages. In Warsaw alone 600 persons suffered frost bites.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 8.—With the thermometer in Moscow registering 63 degrees below zero Fahrenheit, part of the staf of the American diplomatic representation in Russia for the first time is experiencing north pole weather in the soviet constructed hotel, where it is housed, according to word received here today.

The record cold wave caused a near panic among the hotel guests, who complained about cracks appearing in the walls, the pipes freezing, and the impossibility of closing windows tight —forcing them to sleep in their clothes and overcoats.

Move Out of Hotel.

The majority of the Americans are visiting members of the stafs of other representations who live in pre-revolutionary houses and the remainder have sought temporary quarters in Moscow's older hotels.

Aside from a few piles of brick and timber, there is little evidence of the group of palatial buildings which the American state department has authorized erected in Moscow for the American diplomats. The plan includes a thirty car garage.

Despite the efforts of Ambassador William C. Bullitt, who sought to cultivate the bolsheviks' favor by teaching the Red army to play polo and by giving a hand in digging the Moscow subway and remaining in the Red square reviewing stand on bolshevik holidays until all other diplomats had left, the Moscow soviet refuses to be hurried in the construction of the American embassy and its adjacent buildings.

Hinders Work of Envoys.

The lack of proper quarters is handicapping the work of the American diplomats in Moscow. Most of the state department's information about Russia still is being sent from the Riga legation, which has done this work for fourteen years.

Just a year ago the state department notified the large staf at the Riga legation to seek other positions, since it was planned to transfer the Russian work to Moscow last July, or probably earlier.

According to an American diplomat just arrived in Riga from an investigation of the Moscow situation, it is unlikely that the Russian archives of the Riga legation will be transferred to the Moscow embassy this year.

'MONSTER' SCARES TOWN; IT'S ONLY ENORMOUS FROG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Jan. 8.—Inhabitants of the nearby township of San Vicente, who lay awake for several nights and shuddered at the cries of a "monster," can now sleep again.

The "monster's" fame drew hundreds of people from Buenos Aires to search a lake at San Vicente.

The quest was fruitless for a week until last evening, when a fisherman captured an enormous frog in the act of bellowing. The frog was dispatched to the Buenos Aires museum for examination.

Nazis Ban Chaplin Film Shown There Since 1926

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—Charlie Chaplin's "The Gold Rush" has been banned by order of the propaganda ministry. It was shown in Germany in 1926, when it scored a triumphant success. Today it was announced that "after reexamination by the censor it was ordered that the permit granted in 1926 be canceled." No official explanation was given, but film circles surmise that since Chaplin is believed to be of Jewish extraction it was banned as a part of the anti-Jewish campaign.

CAUCUS NAMES JOHN DEVINE FOR HOUSE SPEAKER

Richey Graham Picked to Head Senate.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on Back Page.)

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Representative John P. Devine of Dixon will be the speaker of the house and Richey V. Graham of Cicero president pro tempore of the senate, in the Fifty-ninth general assembly, which convenes tomorrow.

Democratic caucuses ending late tonight unanimously named each. Floor leaders will be Benjamin D. Adamowski of Chicago in the house and Rollo M. Shaw of Lawrenceville in the senate.

Schnackenberg Defeated.

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago, minority leader last session, failed of reëlection in the Republican caucus, LeRoy M. Green of Rockford will succeed him. The caucus vote, with four of the sixty-eight members absent, was Green, 33; Schnackenberg, 30. Richard J. Lyons of Mundelein received one vote.

Green is a bitter foe of the Horner administration and led the attack against passage of the sales tax last session and at the special meeting in November.

Republicans in the senate chose Earl B. Searcy of Springfield as floor leader. Richard J. Barr of Joliet, senate leader for twenty years, was nominated but withdrew and will propose Searcy's name when the senate organizes tomorrow. Simon E. Lantz of Congerville will preside at future meetings of the Republican caucus.

The Democratic house caucus had been expected to furnish a good fight between three candidates — Devine, Thomas P. Sinnett of Rock Island, and James P. Boyle of Chicago.

Convenes After Dinner.

It convened after both senators and representatives had been tendered a dinner by the Democratic state central committee. State Chairman Bruce Campbell of Belleville presided.

Sinnett, floor leader last session, was nominated for speaker by Michael F. Hennebry of Wilmington; Devine by Frank B. Wilson of Woosung, and Boyle by Charles H. Weber of Chicago. But before a vote could be taken, first Sinnett, then Boyle, were called to the telephone. On the other end of the line was National Committeeman Patrick A. Nash of Chicago, speaking from the executive mansion, where he is the guest of Gov. Horner.

"It will be Devine," Sinnett told reporters when he left the phone. Boyle agreed.

Names Withdrawn.

Thus, when both returned to the caucus, Sinnett withdrew his name and asked his friends to support Devine. Boyle followed suit, and F. W. Lewis of Robinson, who had a number of backers, made it unanimous. Amid whoops and cheers Devine was declared the unanimous choice of the caucus.

"I'll try to be a good speaker," said the veteran of 22 years, when called upon. "I know I'll be a fair speaker, and in so far as I can help it, there will be no 'Chicago and downstate' fights. There shouldn't be."

Then, with very little delay, Adamowski was picked for floor leader, and former County Judge Harold J. Taylor of Effingham was elected to be clerk of the house, succeeding Charles P. Casey, who is now assistant director of public works and buildings.

Pick Committee Heads.

In order to quell the aroused spirits of some downstate Democratic senators, a committee on committees was being selected in the senate caucus at a late hour, after Graham and Shaw were elected. The committee would take over much of the president pro tempore's power in choosing chairmen and assigning members.

The following were selected: George M. Maypole and Harold G. Ward, Chicago; Shaw, Louis O. Williams of Clinton, and James O. Monroe of Collinsville.

Officers of the senate will be: Secretary, Alfred E. Eden, Champaign; sergeant at arms, Charles G. McMorris, Marshall, and postmistress, Mrs. Ann Blasey, Fairfield. Hal Reading of Chicago was reëlected doorkeeper.

Although Schnackenberg believed that he would carry the caucus, his chances were seen as materially denied when 33 of the 47 downstate representatives met late this afternoon, on call of Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville, and voted to support Green.

G. O. P. STRONGER FOR NEXT VOTE, SAY SPEAKERS

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Prospects for G. O. P. victories in coming national and state elections have been greatly increased in the past year, speakers declared tonight at a dinner given for the Republican state central committee and Republican members of the general assembly.

The dinner was given by Senator Earl B. Searcy and Representatives William Lawler and Hugh Green of the Springfield district preceding caucuses of senate and house Republicans. In attendance were C. Wayland Brooks, Chicago; former Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, and former Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, in addition to a number of other leading Republicans. Messages were read from Charles S. Deneen, former governor and former United States senator; Frank L. Smith, national committeeman; and Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman, among others.

In reviewing the vote cast for Republican candidates for congress and for the state legislature in downstate districts, speakers found that the Republican party in Illinois made substantial gains in the November elections.

Summerdale police took her to the Swedish Covenant hospital, where her wounds were found to require four stitches.

$25,000 A YEAR, ALFONSO'S GIFT TO HIS CHILDREN

To Aid 2 New Marriages; His Own on Rocks.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Former King Alfonso of Spain devoted himself today to preparations for the marriages of his two children as it became known his own marital relations with Queen Victoria were in jeopardy.

Alfonso was said to be planning to give Prince Jaime and the Infanta Beatriz incomes of $25,000 a year each on their wedding days. Royalist circles described him as delighted with the prospects of their marriages. Beatriz will marry Prince Alessandro Torlonia Monday in Rome. Jaime's betrothal to the Italian noblewoman, Donna Emanuelas de Dampierre, was announced in December. The wedding date has not been set.

Separation Planned.

Meanwhile, the same sources revealed, he and Victoria are negotiating for a legal separation and division of property. The queen was said to desire the separation to preserve her own property because Alfonso's expenses so greatly exceed her own.

Proposals for an annulment, royalist informants said, had been dropped because of the prominence of the pair.

It was considered possible that the separation negotiations might interfere with the former queen's attendance next Monday at the marriage of her daughter. Her presence in Rome at that time with Alfonso might complicate the separation arrangements, it was explained.

Separation Report Denied.

ROME, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A spokesman for former King Alfonso of Spain today denied Parisian reports that a legal separation of Alfonso and his wife, the former Queen Victoria, was impending. Alfonso is spending the winter here.

CONSERVATIVES WREST CONTROL FROM OLSON

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Supporters of Gov. Floyd B. Olson and his Farmer-Labor party coöperative commonwealth program went down to defeat today in their attempt to gain legislative control, with conservatives victorious in organizing both branches of the Minnesota legislature.

The 49th general biennial legislature opened its 90 day session as Gov. Olson prepared to present his message at a joint session tomorrow noon, in which he is expected to sponsor, a liberal legislative program.

Conservatives in the senate, following a precedent first set in 1931, took away from Lieut. Gov. Hjalmar Peterson, Farmer-Laborite, the power to name the committees. Led by Senator Charles N. Orr of St. Paul, the conservatives gave the liberals only two of nearly a score of committee chairmanships. The organization vote was 42 to 21.

ASSEMBLY WAITS HORNER MESSAGE AND RELIEF BILLS

59th Legislature to Convene Today.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Relief is the first major problem confronting the fifty-ninth general assembly, which convenes here tomorrow. Gov. Henry Horner, it is understood, will emphasize the importance of speedy action on the subject and present his views of a solution to the legislature in his biennial message.

The message will be read by the governor at noon in a joint session of the house and senate. Immediately following, bills embodying his ideas for a temporary state relief program will be introduced in both houses by administration leaders. The principle provision of these measures it is understood, involves the appropriation of $9,000,000 of surplus state funds for relief purposes.

The legislators are to be asked, according to reports, to hasten action on the house bill. It will have an emergency clause, which would make it effective as soon as it has been passed by both houses and the governor's signature attached.

Majority Is Required.

The emergency clause, however, requires that the bill obtain a two thirds vote in each chamber—102 votes in the house and thirty-four in the senate. Little difficulty is expected in the upper body where the Democrats number thirty-six, but in the house, with all the Democrats present and favorable, eighteen votes would have to be mustered from the Republican side.

Hopeful that no obstacles will arise, the administration leaders plan to have the house advance the bill to second reading after its introduction, put it on third reading on Thursday and call it for passage on Friday. After its adoption it would be rushed down the corridor to the senate where it would be placed on second reading, advanced to third reading in a perfunctory session on Saturday, and called for passage next Monday or Tuesday.

The governor, it is said, is hoping for a minimum of objection to the bill because he believes it will take care of the relief problem for the moment without levying a new tax or increasing existing taxes. It is a diversion of money on hand that is not marked for other purposes, he is reported to have said.

Accede to Demands.

The necessity for adoption of a temporary relief program by Jan. 15 lies in the demands of the federal government that the state supplement federal relief funds in Illinois with $3,000,000 a month, and the assurance of state Democratic leaders that this would be done. The appropriation of $9,000,000 would meet the federal demand for the next three months.

Last month, when Gov. Horner talked over the federal demand with other leading Democrats, the argument was advanced that the appropriation of the $9,000,000 at the beginning of the session would give more time to work out a permanent plan for raising $36,000,000 annually for relief. It was argued also that within three months there would be federal legislation on President Roosevelt's program for work relief and the state program could be worked out in harmony with the federal plan.

The governor's message of some 16,000 words will cover a wide variety of subjects besides relief, according to reports. The governor may have recommendations for reapportionment, congressional, senatorial, or both; and for revision of the state criminal code. It will include also the reports of the nine state code offices on the work performed in the past two years.

PLAN $50,000 FUND TO AID BUDDING BRITISH AVIATORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 8.—A $50,000 project to enable Great Britain's budding aviators to obtain flying instructions on the instalment plan is being launched by the Air league of the British empire.

Lord Mottistone, chairman of the league committee, announced tonight that a fund will be collected to pay half the cost of flight tuition for suitable candidates. Prospective aviators more than 17 years old who are unable to meet instruction expenses, estimated at between $150 and $175, will be enabled to pay in weekly instalments.

If the fund reaches $50,000 it is estimated that 300 young aviators will be able to obtain their "A" license.

TWO WITNESSES LINK HAUPTMANN TO BABY THEFT

'You Lie,' Snarls Prisoner at Cab Driver.

after having delivered a passenger, when a man appeared suddenly from a cross street and held up a hand to stop him.

"Did that man give you an envelope addressed to Dr. John F. Condon?" asked Attorney General David T. Wilentz.

"He did," said Perronne.

"Who was that man who gave you an envelope?"

The witness pronounced the full name of the defendant, loudly and slowly, pausing between each name as follows:

"That was Bruno—Richard—Hauptmann!"

"Is that man in this room?" the prosecutor asked.

"He is."

Perronne was directed to point out the man he meant.

Claps Hauptmann's Shoulder.

He descended from the witness chair, walked through the crowd and to where Hauptmann sat between his guards. He clapped a hand on the defendant's shoulder firmly and announced his identification.

Coldly and dispassionately, scarcely moving his lips but with a gleam in his pale eyes, Hauptmann spat his accusation of lying at the witness.

The weepy Mrs. Hauptmann, sitting near by, whispered: "He's lying. I know he's lying."

Defense Attorney Edward J. Reilly wanted Hauptmann's "You're a liar," put into the record. The court stenographer had not heard it, however, and Judge Trenchard ruled against it.

"You'll have an opportunity at the proper time to permit the defendant to say all that he wishes," the court remarked.

Perronne then went into detail concerning the ransom note incident.

"I was working out of a hack stand in the Bronx," he said. "I was driving along Gun Hill road when at Knox place a man appeared and motioned to me. I stopped. He tried to open the front right door, and I motioned him that I'd put the window down, which I did.

"After looking around, this man asked me if I knew where 2974 Decatur avenue was. I said I did.

"He put his hand in his right overcoat pocket and brought out an envelope. After looking around again, he gave me the envelope and a dollar bill and told me to deliver the envelope.

Takes License Number.

"He walked to the rear of my cab and took down my license number."

"Why did you notice that?" Wilentz asked.

"By the way he acted, I wondered about him and noticed what he did. I had my eyes on him. As I drove away he waved to me."

Perronne stopped momentarily at his hack stand and mentioned the incident to another driver, James O'Brien, he said. O'Brien testified briefly later, corroborating Peronne's statement.

The driver delivered the note to Dr. Condon, he said, and left his name, address, and license number with the educator.

CONDON WATCHES TRIAL

Dr. Condon, who will be a witness tomorrow, entered the courtroom late this afternoon, coming in at a recess to a roar of the crowd.

The eccentric Bronx teacher was beaming at all the attention he received. He smiled, nodding to left and right, pushing through the crowd with his body guard, Al Reich, an ex-pugilist. The reception was that of a champion prize fighter entering the ring.

Judge Trenchard, horrified at the hubbub, pounded futilely for order. His guest, Federal Judge J. Warren Davis, who also sat on the bench during the afternoon session, looked astounded.

But the crowd would not quiet. They wanted to stare at "Jafsie" and talk about him.

Jafsie Takes Lindy's Seat.

Dr. Condon took the seat reserved for Col. Lindbergh, who, coming in later, had to find another place for himself. There Dr. Condon sat, looking around with quick, birdlike glances from his bright eyes, his white mustache fairly vibrant with joyous excitement.

Some order finally was restored and Perronne continued his testimony. The prosecutor brought out that the place where the ransom note was given him was approximately two miles from Woodlawn cemetery, where Dr. Condon had his first conference with the kidnaper, and approximately five miles from St. Raymond's cemetery, where the $50,000 ransom was paid.

"And there is no question in your mind whatever as to the identity of this man?" concluded Prosecutor Wilentz.

"O, I object to this repetition," said Attorney Reilly.

"Well, if he doesn't want it that certain, I'll withdraw the question," remarked Wilentz.

Quizzed on State's "Influence."

In his cross-examination of the cab driver, Reilly brought out that Perrone now has a CWA job for which he receives $48 a month in addition to his taxicab job.

"Don't you owe that position to the influence waged in your behalf by the powerful influences on the state's side of the case?" Reilly wanted to know.

An objection to this query was sustained. Reilly continued with the cross-examination.

Q.—How was this man dressed? A.—He had a brown, double breasted overcoat and brown hat, turned up in front.

Q.—Did you see his hands? A.—Not to notice particularly.

Q.—Were his hands bare? A.—I didn't notice.

Q.—Who suggested to you that you had better not remember if his hands were covered? A.—No one.

Q.—You know, don't you, that if his hands were bare he would have left finger prints on the note he handed you? A.—I suppose so.

Milton Gaglio, a clothing salesman, and Max Rosenheim, a Bronx restaurant owner, were the next two witnesses.

They drove Dr. Condon down to Col. Lindbergh's Hopewell home on the night of March 9, they testified. This was the occasion upon which Condon first notified the aviator that he was in touch with the kidnapers.

Condon came into Rosenheim's restaurant late at night, the witnesses said, and made a telephone call to Col. Lindbergh. Then he tried to find Al Reich, who usually acted as his chauffeur, but was unsuccessful. Gaglio then offered to drive the educator and the offer was accepted. Rosenheim went along.

CONDON'S GUARD TESTIFIES

The restaurant, known as "Rosie's," is a rendezvous for those persons making up Bronx night life, it developed. Dr. Condon was one of those who made it a practice to drop into the restaurant for coffee around midnight.

Attorney Reilly, in cross-examination, tried to develop something sinister about the restaurant, but Rosenheim stoutly declared it "the best restaurant in the world."

Reich, the Condon bodyguard, was the final witness of the day's session. He was a professional heavyweight boxer for eleven years, but fought his last fight in 1924, he said. He has known Dr. Condon many years.

Sees Condon Pick Up Note.

Early in March, he testified, he drove Dr. Condon one evening to a deserted section near the last station of the Jerome avenue subway.

He saw his employer pluck a note from beneath a stone near a vacant sandwich stand, he said. The doctor then directed him to drive to the entrance of Woodlawn cemetery, where the car was parked.

"Dr. Condon stood around for ten minutes, then got back into the car," Reich told the jury.

"Then I saw some one coming along and Dr. Condon got out and stood in front of the entrance. The stranger continued on past my car and disappeared.

"A little later I saw a man on top of the cemetery gate, which was about nine feet high.

"He jumped down and I saw the doctor talking to him. The man went north into Vancortland park and the doctor followed him. They sat down on a bench near a shack and talked for about an hour."

An adjournment was taken at this time, 4:24 p. m., with the ex-pugilist still on the stand.

THRONG AWAITS OPENING

For the first time since the trial opened the New Jersey state troopers had the crowd outside the courthouse under control.

Despite the dark, oppressive fog which has descended upon this whole territory, the curious were out in as great numbers as before. They stood, hemmed in by ropes, patiently waiting on the thousand-to-one chance they somehow might gain admittance.

Frank Kelly, the finger print expert, resumed the witness stand as court opened. The "kidnap ladder," center of a bitter controversy between the opposing lawyers concerning its admissibility as evidence, stood leaning against the wall near the witness stand.

Tells of Search for Prints.

Under cross-examination by Defense Attorney Reilly, Kelly declared no finger prints of any kind had been found in the nursery.

He told of brushing black powder on the ransom note with a camel hair brush, but finding no distinguishable finger prints.

"Don't you know," boomed Reilly, "that the proper way to take finger prints is to sift powder on the paper and then blow it off? That brushing paper with a brush destroys the finger prints?"

"No," responded Kelly calmly. "I know that in blowing off the dust you would blow moisture which would destroy a print."

There ensued a dispute concerning the witness' qualifications as a finger print expert. The witness detailed his studies on the question.

"Now as to this ladder," remarked Reilly. "You found no finger prints on it?"

"I did not."

There was another ladder on the Lindbergh premises, Kelly said. It was an extension ladder with a rope and pulley to extend it to its full length. This ladder had been purchased by Col. Lindbergh and was in the garage.

No attempt was made to look over this second ladder for finger prints, Policeman Kelly said.

"You just took it for granted," Reilly asked, "that this makeshift ladder was the one used in the kidnaping and not any other ladder?"

"Yes."

State Trooper Nuncio De Gaetano, another of those present at the first investigation in the early morning of March 2, 1932, took the witness stand. He also told of seeing muddy footprints on the carpeted floor of the nursery.

He went into detail concerning the footprints in the mud under the nursery window.

There was a hint in his testimony that the kidnaper had been in his stocking feet. In one of the indentations, he said, there were ridges such as might have been made by heavy woolen stockings.

The clearest footprint was 12¼ inches long by 4¼ inches wide, De Gaetano told the jury.

Hauptmann listened intently to this testimony, which the crowd found comparatively boresome after the dramatic developments of the first few days.

The trooper admitted to Reilly on cross-examination that he saw no mud on the rungs of the ladder, such as might have been made by a man who climbed it after walking through mud.

"MYSTERY MAN" TESTIFIES

There was a puzzled murmur along the press benches as Prosecutor Wilentz called the name of Amandus Hochmuth. An aged man with a white beard slowly came forward. His hands trembled and his head continually jerked from side to side.

"That's the mystery man who saw Hauptmann in his cell some weeks ago," was the whisper of reporters who have been in Flemington since Hauptmann was brought here.

The old man mounted the witness stand slowly and sat down. He blinked through gold rimmed spectacles at the attorney general.

"How old are you, Mr. Hochmuth?" the prosecutor began.

"Eighty-seven," was the answer.

Tells of Seeing Car.

Hochmuth explained he resided in a small frame house owned by his son-in-law. This house was situated, he testified, at the intersection of the main highway known as Mercer County highway and the road leading to the Lindbergh estate. The witness' words came in a mumbled tone through his beard.

Q.—Now, were you a resident in that house on March 1, 1932? A.—I was.

Q.—Tell us what you saw that day. A.—I was out on the porch about noon. A car came along and almost ran into the ditch. I saw the face of a man look out the window. He looked as if he saw a ghost. His eyes were glaring.

"Is that man in this room?" Prosecutor Wilentz asked of Hochmuth.

The witness looked at Hauptmann. Some observers professed to see an expression of incredulity on the defendant's face. Others could detect no emotion.

Picks Out Hauptmann.

Hochmuth spoke slowly. "There's the man by the troopers," he said, pointing in Hauptmann's direction.

For some mysterious reason the electric lights in the courtroom faded at this moment and those in the courtroom peered at each other in the foggy gray light that filtered through the window.

Prosecutor Wilentz seemed to think this was perhaps a defense trick to make difficult identification of the defendant by the witness.

He started to protest, but thought better of it.

"Point out the man you've indicated," he ordered Hochmuth.

"I object," interrupted the portly Reilly.

"He's identified no one. He merely said something about some one by the troopers. A lot of people are sitting by the troopers," Reilly said.

Hochmuth was indignant at this doubt cast upon his identification.

"I mean the man between the state trooper and the man in the brown coat and white shirt [a deputy sheriff]," he said, pointing again.

"Come down and show us who you mean," Wilentz invited.

The old man's hand still trembled and his head was nodding continually, but his step was firm, if slow, as he threaded his way through the lawyers and stopped a few feet from Hauptmann.

"There he is," Hochmuth said, pointing again at the defendant. Then, as if to make the identification absolutely certain, he stepped forward and laid his hand on Hauptmann's knee. He patted the knee almost affectionately as Hauptmann stared at him.

Sees "Something" Like a Ladder.

Returning to the witness chair, Hochmuth said, in answer to further questioning, that he saw "something" that looked like a ladder in the car which he saw the day of the kidnaping.

He declared the car had been stopped for fully a quarter of a minute and that he got a good look at the driver. He said, further, that the car was of a dirty green color.

Reilly was grinning broadly as he approached the witness stand, but the smile soon was replaced by a scowl as he cross-examined Hockmuth.

"When did you first tell this story to anybody?" was Reilly's first question.

"I never told it to any one," was the answer.

Q.—You give me your word under oath before this jury that you never told this story to a living soul? A.—That's right.

Q.—Didn't you stand in the doorway of this courtroom yesterday with a state trooper? A.—Yes.

Q.—The time was about a quarter to two? A.—Yes.

Q.—Didn't he point out Hauptmann to you? A.—No, sir, he did not.

Q.—Why were you brought down from the grand jury room?

Hochmuth said he had asked to be taken to a lavatory in the anteroom adjoining the courtroom.

"What!" yelled Reilly. "You want us to believe you had to come to the doorway of the courtroom for that purpose?"

Wilentz Steps In.

"I object to the badgering of this witness," interposed Prosecutor Wilentz.

"I'm not badgering him," said Reilly.

"Let the witness answer the questions without interrupting him," ordered Judge Trenchard.

Reilly continued.

Q.—You're sure you don't remember having this defendant pointed out to you? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You were in court yesterday? A.—Yes, I sat over there [pointing].

Q.—Did you tell the trooper that you had seen Hauptmann? A.—No.

Q.—You told absolutely no one? A.—No one.

Q.—What was your occupation? A.—I was special officer in a New York bank.

Q.—Your health is poor, isn't it? A.—It's all right.

Q.—I notice you're shaking. A.—I have a little rheumatism.

Q.—Did you ever have a stroke? A.—No.

Q.—Are you near sighted or far sighted? A.—My eyes are all right.

"That wasn't what I asked you," said Reilly, indignantly.

"Let him answer the question," interposed Judge Trenchard.

"I read without glasses," announced Hochmuth, looking at Reilly triumphantly.

To further questioning, concerning his past life, Hockmuth told of various occupations.

"Were you ever in an institution?" asked Reilly.

"What do you mean?" asked Hochmuth.

"An institution, a hospital."

"I was in the Hudson River State hospital at one time," said the witness.

Reilly Pounces Upon Point.

Reilly pounced upon this point with avidity. His satisfaction was somewhat marred when he discovered Hochmuth only had worked as cook in the kitchen of the institution and that the date of his employment there was 1874. Reilly continued the cross-examination.

Q.—Now, when did you get up that morning that you say you saw the car? A.—About 7 o'clock.

Q.—And you saw the car when? A.—About noon.

Q.—What's the name of the road leading up to the Lindbergh home? A.—I call it Lindy's road.

Q.—It's a paved road? A.—A stone road.

Q.—How far from the road is your house? A.—Five feet.

Reilly seemed amazed at this statement and tried to get Hochmuth to admit that the house was set farther back from the road, but Hochmuth stuck to his statement.

Q.—Was the car going pretty fast? A.—About forty miles an hour. A pretty good speed.

Q.—The man you saw was driving? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did he look like? A.—He had a red face and glaring eyes.

"A face red like mine?" asked Reilly, pushing his florid countenance within a few feet of Hochmuth's.

"Redder," was the answer.

Kept Own Counsel.

Q.—And you didn't even tell your son-in-law or daughter about this? A.—No.

Q.—We have your solemn word for that before this jury? A.—Yes.

Q.—You viewed this defendant in jail several weeks ago? A.—Yes.

On redirect examination Prosecutor Wilentz strove to suggest to Hochmuth that he modify the statement that he told the story to no one.

"You spoke to me about it," didn't you?" he asked.

"I object to that," said Reilly, jumping up. "He's sworn that he told no one."

"Well, I suppose he has the right to ascertain precisely what the witness meant," said the judge.

Hochmuth finally admitted that when he saw Hauptmann in the cell, he said, in the hearing of the guards, "That's him."

"Whom do you mean by 'him'?" asked Reilly.

"Hauptmann," replied Hochmuth.

Reilly asked some additional questions.

Q.—Where did you get that name? A.—From the newspapers.

Couldn't Forget "Glaring Eyes."

Q.—You've seen hundreds of photographs of Hauptmann in the newspapers, haven't you? A.—The first time I saw his picture I knew it was him. I could never forget those glaring eyes.

A short recess was taken after Hochmuth left the stand. Hauptmann, after talking to his attorneys, laughed shortly. The defense lawyers were loud in their comments directed towards the press rows that "Hochmuth is senile. His testimony means nothing."

The state, on the other hand, was jubilant. One of the important points in the state's case is the placing of Hauptmann on the scene of the crime on the day in question.

Tells of Reënacting Crime.

Lieut. John Sweeney of the state police, a 180 pounder, described how he had reënacted the manner in which the crime might have been committed. He said the ladder held his weight while he climbed up it and into the nursery window.

In cross-examination the defense scored a point when Sweeney admitted he had used both hands in climbing out the window and down the ladder.

It was apparent a man carrying a baby would have had a difficult time of it. Sweeney, moreover, was a former fireman and presumably adept at climbing ladders and into and out of windows, the defense brought out.

Expert Tells of Ladder.

Testimony regarding the ladder was given by two other prosecution witnesses but did not prove strong enough to overcome defense objections to introduction of the ladder as evidence.

State Police Capt. John J. Lamb and Arthur Koehler, wood technologist of the United States Forestry laboratory, Madison, Wis., testified to custody of the ladder.

THRONGS AT HAUPTMANN TRIAL EYE PRINCIPALS

REPORT REILLY AID, DISPLEASED BY CHIEF, MAY QUIT TRIAL STAF

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Relations between members of Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense counsel today reached a point of strain which occasioned reports Frederick A. Pope of Somerville would withdraw as associate counsel.

Pope, former Somerset county prosecutor, denied the report as "absolutely not true," adding his word to C. Lloyd Fisher's that he also has no intention of withdrawing.

Among their friends, however, it is well known that the relationship between Edward J. Reilly of Brooklyn, chief defense counsel, and his associates is anything but harmonious.

Among close friends of Fisher, Pope, and Robert E. Rosecrans, a former prosecutor of Warren county, it is known the associates are displeased with their position. Reilly, as chief counsel, they have told friends, has overruled their suggestions for conduct of the trial so that they have been reduced "to satchel carriers."

HOCHMUTH GIVES FAMILY SURPRISE IN IDENTIFICATION

Kept Own Counsel About Case, Says Daughter.

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Amandus Hochmuth, Prussian army veteran in the war of 1870, who identified Bruno Richard Hauptmann on the witness stand today, not only was a surprise witness in the court but also was a surprise to his own family.

The old gentleman's white sharp beard and pointed mustachios make him look something like the former kaiser. He is in his 87th year and has been in this country since 1873 and has been employed the greater part of that time as a guard and porter in banks, institutions, and theaters.

Kept His Own Counsel.

He now divides his time between the home of a daughter in New York and another daughter, Mrs. Henry Plump, wife of a retired New York policeman, and for the last three years an invalid on their farm on the outskirts of Hopewell.

Ever since Hauptmann's arrest, the old gentleman has kept his own counsel, his daughter said today. The family knew he had conferred with state authorities but didn't know what he planned to do. Soon after Hauptmann's arrest he and other members of the household were shown a picture of Hauptmann. Mr. and Mrs. Plump did not recognize it as that of a man they had seen at any fixed time and Mr. Hochmuth also shook his head, although he refused to comment.

Daughter Not in Court.

Mrs. Plump did not attend court today with her father, and said state's attorneys had asked her to say nothing about the case.

She was much interested, however, in the manner in which her father acquitted himself on the stand. Informed of his testimony concerning his employment in the Hudson River State hospital, she laughed.

"That's where he met my mother," she said. "She used to live near the Roosevelts."

She parried efforts to question her concerning her father's life and the time and circumstances under which he came to believe that he had seen Hauptmann on the morning of the kidnaping.

"Sorry for Hauptmann."

"You'll have to ask father," she said, and then closed the window in her front room through which she had been talking.

During a recess following his testimony, Mr. Hochmuth and Hauptmann encountered each other in a corridor behind the courtroom. The old man reached out his trembling hand and gently touched the prisoner.

"I am sorry for you, young man," he said.

Hauptmann looked straight ahead and walked by without answering.

Hauptmann Trial Expected to Last 3 or 4 More Weeks

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Three or four more weeks probably will be required to conclude the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, accused of the kidnap-slaying of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

This was indicated today by the two attorneys leading the opposing sides. Attorney General David T. Wilentz said he believed the case will not last longer than four more weeks, but was uncertain whether it would be ended much before that time.

"I understand the prosecution will require only two more weeks to introduce something like 100 more witnesses," said Defense Attorney Edward J. Reilly. "In that event, we can go through our 50 witnesses in about a week."

This would leave another week for the attorneys' summations, the charge to the jury, and the jury's deliberations.

Norma Saunders, only girl messenger in the courtroom, is earning money to pay her way through college. She intends to enter New York university next month. "I like action," she says. She gets it—she runs up two flights of stairs fifty or more times a day.

A dramatic incident, like a page from a mystery thriller, occurred when Amandus Hochmuth identified Hauptmann as being near Hopewell the day of the kidnaping. "He glared at me as if he saw a ghost," Hochmuth said—and at that point the lights in the courtroom went out.

Trial spectators don't carry tape measures about with them—and neither do the principals. Defense Attorney Reilly wanted to have a witness measure the "kidnap" ladder. "Is there a tape measure in the house?" asked Justice Trenchard. There wasn't.

One prospective spectator arrived at the courthouse at 1 o'clock this morning and asked the night watchman if it was "time to line up for admittance." It was a bit early, as state police were patroling the area to break up any lines formed before daylight.

Testimony in the Hauptmann trial is being taken at an average rate of 180 words a minute, according to the official court reporter. When Betty Gow was testifying there were times when the rate was 250 words a minute. It is believed to be one of the fastest records of court proceedings in the history of American criminology.

When Dr. Condon entered the courtroom today he tripped slightly over Hauptmann's feet. Condon looked back. Hauptmann glanced up. "Sorry," he said.

Betty Gow did not appear at the Hauptmann trial today. Miss Gow, nursemaid of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, remained at the Englewood, N. J., home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, mother of Mrs. Lindbergh. The nurse's courtroom companion, Mrs. Elsie Whately, the Lindbergh housekeeper, also was absent.

DOCTOR FINDS HAUPTMANN HAS COLD IN CHEST

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Bruno Richard Hauptmann has a cold, with chest and muscular pains, and has been examined in the county jail here twice in the last two days by Dr. George Henry.

The examinations have been made after the close of the day's court sessions. While Hauptmann had not been resting well and his appetite has been declining, he did not actually make a complaint of feeling ill until the end of Monday's session, it was learned.

When Hauptmann was first brought to the jail here last October, Sherif John H. Curtiss declared he would be given an examination every day to make sure his health remained as good as possible. However, after C. Lloyd Fisher of defense counsel insisted that a physician for the defense be allowed to assist in the examinations, they discontinued.

PICKS HAUPTMANN'S PHOTO AS THAT OF MAN NEAR KIDNAP SCENE

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Charles Garrick, 28, Los Angeles restaurant man, tonight identified a photograph of Bruno Richard Hauptmann as that of a man who drove alongside him in an auto near Hopewell, N. J., on March 1, 1932, the day of the Lindbergh kidnaping.

Garrick told Detective Captain Bert Wallis and Detective Lieutenant Joe Filkas of the Los Angeles police that at the time he had been given a lift by a motorist and that Hauptmann was a co-passenger for about three miles. He said the man he thinks was Hauptmann asked, "Where is the road to the Lindbergh place?"

Capt. Wallis has communicated with authorities at Flemington, N. J., and tonight said it remains for them to decide what is to be done about Garrick's story.

WILENTZ DENIES DEPORTED SAILOR ON WAY TO TRIAL

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Attorney General David T. Wilentz of New Jersey tonight denied published reports that Henry "Red" Johnson, deported sailor friend of Betty Gow, the slain Lindbergh baby's nurse, is sailing for America to testify against Bruno Richard Hauptmann, on trial here for the child's murder.

"There is nothing to it," said Wilentz emphatically when asked about the report that Johnson was being brought from Norway by the state in an effort to repudiate defense attempts to show he might have had guilty knowledge of the kidnaping.

Johnson was deported several months after the kidnaping. Questioned by investigators as to his movements at the time the baby was stolen, he explained them to the satisfaction of the authorities and was exonerated of any suspicion. He is a native of Norway.

Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan in New York said tonight a New York detective would sail from Europe tomorrow with a witness connected with the Lindbergh case, but declined to name the witness.

JUVENILE COURT IS CRITICIZED BY ST. CHARLES HEAD

17 Year Age Limit Too High, Director Asserts.

Methods of dealing with young offenders in the Cook county Juvenile court were criticized yesterday by William Harmon, managing director of the state school for boys at St. Charles. He said he agreed with the judges of the Criminal court that the state law should be amended to reduce the legal age limit from 17 to 15 years for boys who come under the jurisdiction of the Juvenile court.

"While the present age limit brings us many criminals of the incorrigible type, our most difficult problems are directly traceable to the treatment these boys received in the Juvenile court," Mr. Harmon declared.

Urges Equal Treatment.

"There have been many instances in which two boys of nearly the same age were arraigned in the Juvenile court for the same crime and one of them received probation. The other one was sent to St. Charles. He can't understand why he was discriminated against and believes he got a 'bum rap,' as he terms it. We could overcome that antagonism among the boys if they were dealt with equally."

Another complaint Mr. Harmon made against the Juvenile court is the practice of the presiding judge saying casually to a boy: "I'll send you to St. Charles for six months."

"When a boy comes here," Mr. Harmon explained, "the judge has no power to fix the amount of time he should remain. That is up to our discretion; we can keep a boy until he is 21, if we deem it necessary. But the boy remembers the judge said 'six months' and he rebels at staying here longer. The judge is making a careless remark; he doesn't realize the later backfire."

Discusses Dougal Case.

Discussing the case of James Dougal, 15 years old, who was sentenced to five years in prison last Saturday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes for violation of the Dyer stolen automobile act, Mr. Harmon said that the boy was first committed to St. Charles in December, 1931, for participating in a holdup.

"Five months later he was released on an order signed by Judge Mary Bartelme [then sitting in the Juvenile court]," Mr. Harmon stated, "and the result was that he figured that serving only this short time for a holdup was getting off easy. He was committed again, escaped, was captured and escaped again, and he was off on the path to continued crime."

Lowering of the age limit for the jurisdiction of the Juvenile court has been advocated by Judge Frank Bicek, the present presiding judge; Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court, and State's Attorney Courtney. A bill will shortly be submitted to the state legislature.

Advisory Board to Meet.

If this bill passes, Mr. Harmon said, it will give the younger boys a chance to forget any criminal tendencies away from their older associates.

The St. Charles school advisory board will meet at the Institute for Juvenile Research in Chicago later this month. The board has considered for several years a proposal to restore the school to its original status as a home for dependent boys, functioning to keep them from delinquency rather than as a reform school for young criminals.

"St. Charles took on the aspects of a reform school in 1919," Mr. Harmon said, "when the legislature opened it to juvenile offenders up to 17 years of age."

There are now 380 boys in St. Charles, more than half of them from Cook county.

LEHMAN NAMES PECORA TO BENCH FROM U. S. BOARD

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Ferdinand Pecora, who was counsel for the senate stock market investigating committee, was appointed today a justice of the state Supreme court by Gov. Lehman. He is expected to accept, resigning his present post as member of the federal securities commission.

Pecora made his first political appearance in 1912 as a supporter of Theodore Roosevelt Sr. as Bull Moose candidate for President. An admiration for Woodrow Wilson later turned him into a Democrat.

In 1918 Pecora was appointed a deputy assistant district attorney of New York county and promoted to be chief assistant four years later. He quit in 1929. He was born in Sicily and at the age of 4 years was brought to the United States.

Charges Desertion

Mrs. Rosemary Ames Ketting Meyer, an actress, daughter of the late Knowlton L. Ames, filed suit for divorce, charging desertion, in the Superior court yesterday against Bertie A. Meyer, theatrical producer whom she married in London, England, Jan. 6, 1932. Her first husband was Ogden Ketting, formerly in charge of the Insull interests in England, whom she married in Chicago, Feb. 20, 1928, and divorced in 1931 in London. Attorney William C. Boyden who filed the suit said Mrs. Meyer is now in Hollywood, but will return here within 30 days to press the divorce suit.

MOSTEVERYTHING BUT ZOOP ON ZOO MENU THIS YEAR

The Chicago park district board yesterday formally approved the Lincoln park zoo menu for 1935. It includes 1,560 pounds of smelts at 10 cents a pound; 7,800 pounds of herring at 6½ cents a pound; 36,500 pounds of white bread and 18,250 pounds of rye bread at 1 cent a pound; 91,250 pounds of beef at $5.98 a hundred pounds; and 3,000 quarts of milk at 8½ cents a quart. The smelts, it was explained, are small fish that are delicacies to water birds and sea lions.

In addition vast quantities of bananas, raisins, oranges, fresh eggs, carrots and lettuce will be purchased from day to day as special delicacies, said Floyd H. Young, director of the zoo.

URGE GOVERNOR TO BACK 2 ROAD SAFETY BILLS

Group Approves License and Responsibility Plans

Automobile drivers' license and financial responsibility bills will be pressed for passage at the present session of the general assembly by the executive committee of the Illinois conference on highway safety legislation. Meeting in the Palmer house yesterday, the group approved final drafts of the two bills, which are designed to halt the rising toll of automobile accidents.

Acting on instructions of the committee, Chairman B. P. Alschuler telegraphed to Gov. Horner urging mention of the bills in his message to the legislature today. If this is not done, the trafic death problem and the measures proposed for its remedy should be endorsed by the governor in a subsequent message, Mr. Alschuler said.

Mayor Supports Measures.

The active cooperation of Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, and Secretary of State Hughes is needed to make the campaign in behalf of the bills a success, their advocates said. Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee has endorsed the measures and he has spoken in their favor.

"If we don't get the bills introduced in the house by April 1, they won't have a chance," said Joseph H. Braun, counsel for the committee. "Last year the drivers' license bill went through the senate with only three opposing votes, only to be snagged in the house. With a few new senators, we expect similar success in the senate, but the house presents a problem."

Provisions of Drafts.

The drivers' license measure would prohibit the use of cars to criminals and those physically and mentally unfit; revoke for a year the right to drive of persons convicted of driving under the influence of liquor or narcotics; or suspend the right to drive for violations of the motor code. It would, if a license were not obtained within three months after passage of the law, compel examination before its issuance. All new drivers would be examined. The examination would be a simple one, requiring about 20 minutes, including 10 minutes of actual driving.

The financial responsibility measure is dependent upon the licensing measure, since it provides that a driver's license be revoked for failure to pay a judgment rendered against him for a motor car accident. However, the license would be restored upon payment of the judgment later, plus a guaranty of future financial responsibility.

Better Business Revives British Union Membership

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The effect of the industrial depression on trades union membership in Great Britain was reflected in the report of the chief registrar of friendly societies, issued tonight. The statistics show that at the end of 1932 membership in all trades unions had dropped to 3,405,447, a decrease of 172,000 from the total of the previous year. With the recent improvement in industrial conditions, memberships are being revived, and there was a definite increase in the last months of 1934, according to Walter Citrine, general secretary of the Trades Union congress.

NORTH DAKOTA HOUSE ASKS SPEEDY TEST OF GOVERNOR'S RIGHTS

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The North Dakota legislature opened its semi-annual session with a brief meeting today. The house formally adopted a resolution to determine as rapidly as possible the eligibility of the new governor, Thomas H. Moodie.

Moodie took office yesterday regardless of Attorney General P. O. Sathre's challenge of his right to do so. Sathre took the ground Moodie had not lived in the state five consecutive years before his election, as required by the state constitution. A petition in that matter is pending before the state Supreme court.

The house's request for speed was regarded as an indication that those in apparent control in the house might carry out a threat to adjourn from day to day until that case is decided. If carried out, that move may prevent delivery of the governor's message, tentatively set for tomorrow.

PRESIDENT STILL TREATING COLD; WIFE GETS ONE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt gave his cold another day of treatment today before joining with Mrs. Roosevelt in a formal White House dinner to Vice President and Mrs. Garner.

The cold, described as "slight" by his physician, Dr. Ross T. McIntire, was pronounced "a great deal better" tonight.

"Except for it," said Dr. McIntyre, "the President is in better health than at any time since entering the White House. He has done the sensible thing in staying quiet. There is a tremendous number of cases of grippe and influenza in Washington and he has done well to take precautions."

The President had a similar head cold last winter and remained quiet for several days. Except for this he has suffered no other illness since entering the White House.

4 MILLION IDLE IN BRITAIN PUT UNDER 'DICTATOR'

Centralized Dole Scheme Goes Into Effect.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Britain's new unemployment insurance board began taking over from local authorities today the administration of relief under the dole system, which on March 1 will mean taking control of 4,000,000 unemployed persons.

Full centralization of relief work will not be accomplished until March, but 240 local offices which came into existence yesterday began their work. Between now and March 1 about 750,000 persons will be under control of the board.

All Idle Under "Guardian."

Sir Henry Betterton, newly created baron, is head of the board. He will be personal guardian of Britain's jobless and in effect administrator of government expenditures totaling $275,000,000 annually.

The move to centralize relief work in England came close on the heels of President Roosevelt's declaration that American relief work must be taken out of the hands of national authorities and restored to local agencies.

Rejects Single Mold for All.

While theoretically Britain was taking an opposite course from that of the United States, there may prove to be similarities in the system undertaken here and that visualized by President Roosevelt. This was indicated in a statement by Sir Henry:

"The board is fully alive to the fact that the needs of 1,000,000 families affected cannot be forced into one mold."

He cited the fact that rents vary in different localities and that, therefore, allowances for rent must vary also. He said allowances for children will be liberalized and more generous provisions made for the personal requirements of wage earners.

3 AUTO THIEVES RUN A RED LIGHT AND GET CAUGHT

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 27; recovered, 25; stripped, 2 [from police records for the 24 hours ending at midnight Monday].

Three young automobile thieves made the mistake of running past a red traffic light yesterday, and, as a result, landed in a cell at the Fillmore street police station.

Policeman William Taub was on his way to work when he noticed the trafic violation at Kedzie avenue and Roosevelt road. He leaped on the running board of the car and halted it. Then he realized that it answered the description of a car used by auto thieves the night before.

He took the trio to the police station, where they identified themselves as Joseph Gambino, 19 years old, 2620 Wesley avenue, Berwyn; John LaPorte, 20, of 2407 South Euclid avenue, Berwyn, and Robert Gambino, 18, of 1040 South Mason avenue, Chicago, a cousin of Joseph.

Behind LaPorte's home policemen found the stolen car of Dan Sode, 3940 Lexington street. They said the three prisoners had confessed a dozen other similar thefts.

Mrs. William S. Parke Granted Divorce Decree

Mrs. Cora M. Parke, 6462 Minerva avenue, was granted an uncontested divorce yesterday by Circuit Judge P. J. Finnegan from William S. Parke, owner of the Sheafe Engineering company, 7356 Woodlawn avenue. Mrs. Parke charged desertion. According to the divorce bill, the couple were married in 1906 and separated July 15, 1929.

STAVISKY GHOST PERILS ANOTHER FRENCH CABINET

Widow Makes Charges Against Politicians.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The specter of Serge Stavisky, dead just one year, hung over another French government today as the pawnshop swindler's widow appeared before the chamber of deputies investigating committee.

Fighting for her release on bail, the beautiful Arlette Stavisky told the investigators that police forced her to give false testimony as to her whereabouts on Jan. 4, 1934, one of the wild days when "Handsome Alex's" frothy empire came tumbling down about his ears.

Politics pulling strings behind the scenes was responsible for the police action, said Stavisky's widow, who has been in prison for months.

Probe Pardon of Stavisky Aid.

A new repercussion of the year old scandal—which directly or indirectly brought the fall of three governments, caused bloody riots in which 29 were killed and several thousand hurt, and added financial scandals and political assassinations to the nation's confusion—came today with charges that Henri Poulner, ex-convict and former friend of Stavisky, was pardoned through the influence of a former minister of justice. The charges were placed before the chamber's investigating committee.

As though the recurring scandal were not enough, Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin's government faced two other possible threats to its life as parliament opened.

A proposal to lengthen the term of compulsory military service in an effort to dissolve so-called "political shock troops" appeared certain to draw opposition.

Financial Policies Under Fire.

Another danger was seen in the likelihood that deputies would attack the government's financial policies. Opposition already has appeared to the premier's plans for expanding credit by authorizing the Bank of France to discount government paper.

The cabinet, meeting today, approved legislation to increase the nation's borrowing power 5,000,000,000 francs, but the chamber's finance committee estimated 15,000,000,000 francs or more additional credit would be necessary for the year.

Fernand Emile Bouisson was elected president of the chamber for the ninth consecutive time today.

ZIONIST REVISION UNION OPENS 6TH WORLD PARLEY

KRAKOW, Poland, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Vladimir Jabotinsky, world leader of the Zionist revisionist movement, tonight formally opened the sixth world conference of the World Revisionist union.

Four thousand delegates, crowded into the convention hall, heard Jabotinsky's opening address in Hebrew. Representatives of the Polish government attended the session and messages of greeting were read from the British, French, American, and Chinese ambassadors.

Jabotinsky declared that a wave of anti-Jewish feeling is spreading in all countries. He quoted Josiah Wedgwood, a member of the British house of commons, as saying that even the house has been infested by the "Hitlerite epidemic."

KLEIBER, LEADING GERMAN MUSICAL CONDUCTOR, OUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—Erich Kleiber, one of the last outstanding musical conductors left in Germany, was today granted a year's leave of absence without pay from his post in the Berlin opera house at his own request. He followed the example of Wilhelm Furtwaengler, who resigned in protest against political interference with artistic matters.

Since his contract expires in July, Keiber's leave is tantamount to his resignation. He agreed to conduct three main concerts of the philharmonica orchestra, which has been frantically casting about to find a temporary successor for Furtwaengler.

Kleiber's wife is an American, the former Ruth Goodrich of California.

2,800 Strike to Tie Up N. Y. National Biscuit Plants

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The local plants of the National Biscuit company were tied up by a strike of 2,800 workers today, following a walkout of 800 employés in Philadelphia. No statement of the workers' demand was forthcoming today and company spokesmen said they knew of no reason for the walkout. The regional labor board, however, has intervened twice in the last six months to prevent strikes. The closed shop issue, hours, and wages were in dispute in the plants last summer.

Spanish Guards Aim Too Well, Kill Police Car Driver

MADRID, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A squad of assault guards today fired on "a certain automobile" when its driver, instead of obeying orders to halt, waved a friendly greeting to the squad. The guards, who maintain a tradition of always shooting to kill, pulled the body of the chauffeur out from behind the wheel and found they had killed the driver of a police car returning from a hospital to which he had taken a sick captain of assault guards.

Mayor Kelly Helps Start Loop Synagogue Campaign

Mayor Kelly inaugurated the $50,000 campaign for funds to build the Chicago Loop synagogue at 16-18 South Clark street yesterday by purchasing the first twenty-five tickets for a bazar to be held at the Morrison hotel Jan. 19 to 27. The sale was made by a delegation of workers headed by Mrs. Max L. Coleman. A rally of workers in the fund raising campaign will be held tonight in the Morrison hotel.

MRS. BAUR HEADS G. O. P. WOMEN'S CLUB 5TH TIME

Organization's Convention Discusses '35 Program.

Mrs. Jacob Baur, 1511 Astor street, was unanimously elected to her fifth consecutive term as president of the National Republican Women's club of Chicago yesterday at the organization's annual meeting at the Drake hotel.

Preceding the election Mrs. Baur, who is national Republican committeewoman for Illinois, gave her annual report for 1934 in which she asserted that for the first time in 12 years the Republican women had been organized in every ward of Chicago.

Women in Every Precinct.

"We had women in every precinct," she stated. "We didn't win, but our thorough organization certainly helped the Republican party poll 43 per cent of the total vote in the recent congressional election. It shows that we have a strong foundation upon which to build."

As the 1935 plan of action, she suggested "winning back to the fold those prodigal Republican sons and daughters who have strayed away in quest of great adventure" and building up a constructive, conservative program.

Urges Constructive Program.

"We're in the minority just now—definitly," said Mrs. Baur, "and it's a part we're unaccustomed to playing. It is our duty to build up a constructive program which will be to the best interests of the people."

Other officers elected, all unanimously, are: Mrs. Harry Hart, first vice president; Mrs. Clyde L. Day, second vice president; Mrs. Milford S. Sorley, third vice president; Mrs. George M. Weichelt, secretary, and Mrs. William S. Cubbins, treasurer.

'MOVING MOUNTAIN' OF COLORADO HAS ANOTHER FLAREUP

Durango, Colo., Jan. 8.—(AP)—With a roar that could be heard plainly in Durango, three miles north, Carbon mountain had another flareup today.

Thousands of tons of rocks, earth, and trees from the trembling flanks of Colorado's freakish "moving mountain" tumbled down the north face of the peak to the valley floor.

Following on the heels of seismic disturbances on the Pacific coast, the internal discontent of the mountain has been increasing steadily for the last two weeks.

Yesterday an avalanche ripped vast chunks away from the peak's already scarred slopes.

The slides formerly were confined to the north slope of Carbon, but now are steadily working their way northwestward.

FEAR ERUPTION AS CRACKS OPEN ON MT. KILAUEA

HILO, Hawaii, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The great volcano Kilauea gave indications today of impending eruption.

The seismograph in the observatory at the rim trembled and long cracks opened along the sides of the Halemaimau fire pit. All visitors to the pit rim were warned that conditions were dangerous.

Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, volcanologist, hurried a crew of men to make fast a cable of 1,000 feet along the crack edges and to post warning signs.

Volcanologists surveying the brooding volcano predicted that tremendous landslides were imminent.

Robert Sweitzer, County Treasurer, in Hospital

County Treasurer Robert M. Sweitzer has been confined to St. Anne's hospital since Dec. 26, for observation and rest and to recuperate from the effects of a cold, it was learned yesterday. His physician, Dr. Daniel F. Hayes, said he expects Sweitzer will leave the hospital tomorrow.

TUNNEL CONCERN FORFEITS RIGHTS, RULING ASSERTS

By installing steam pipes in its tunnels, the Chicago Tunnel company has voided its rights under its franchise, according to an opinion given yesterday by Joseph F. Grossman, first assistant corporation counsel.

Grossman gave the opinion to Ald. Frank E. Konkowski [26th], chairman of the council committee on public utilities. The committee had requested a ruling after Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt reported the tunnel company had, without council sanction, installed pipes in its transportation tunnels to furnish heat to downtown buildings.

The opinion held that the tunnel company has no right to transmit freight through tunnels now carrying steam pipes. The city may now notify the company to remove the steam pipes, Grossman said, and if the order is not complied with within six months the ordinance of 1932 under which the company operates may be declared void. The company has pending before the Illinois commerce commission a petition seeking permission to use the tunnels for the transmission of steam.

How any community can reduce the suffering time and discomfort in "Cold" season

Place no faith in so-called "instant" cold cures. To relieve a cold, you should clear the head, dry the secretions, reduce the fever and keep the bowels open. This takes more than a "few minutes" and medicine of more than one kind.

You can get the necessary medicines of any druggist, by asking for Pape's Cold Compound which combines them in a pleasant tablet.

To relieve a "new" cold take two of these little tablets; chew them up, drink a glass of water.

Some colds may require additional treatment. If so, follow directions on the package. The relief thus afforded and the comfort it brings you are well worth the time.

Nothing else that would be safe for you to take will relieve a cold more quickly than Pape's Cold Compound.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

—so far as we know tobacco was first used about 400 years ago

—throughout the years what one thing has given so much pleasure..so much satisfaction

Early Colonial planters shipped hundreds of pounds of tobacco to England in return for goods and supplies.

They came looking for gold ...but they found tobacco

... and tobacco has been like gold ever since! The tobacco raised in Virginia and exchanged for goods helped the struggling colonists to get a foothold when they came to America.

Later on, it was tobacco that helped to clothe and feed Washington's brave army at Valley Forge.

Today it is tobacco that helps—more than any other commodity raised in this country—to pay the expense of running our Government.

In the fiscal year 1933-34 the Federal Government collected $425,000,000 from the tax on tobacco. Most of this came from cigarettes—six cents tax on every package of twenty.

Yes, the cigarette helps a lot—and it certainly gives men and women a lot of pleasure.

Smokers have several reasons for liking Chesterfields. For one thing, Chesterfields are milder. For another thing, they taste better. They Satisfy.

START MURDER TRIAL OF TWO LABOR LEADERS

Tabor and Kehoe Accused of Bus Strike Slaying.

A trial in which the prosecution is attempting to hold labor union officials responsible for murder and other violence committed during a strike opened yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge William V. Brothers.

William Taber, secretary-treasurer of the Street Car Men's union, and Joseph J. Kehoe, recording secretary of the union, are the defendants in this trial. Other defendants named in the indictment have been granted separate hearings.

The prosecution charges that Kehoe and Taber entered into a conspiracy with sluggers, which resulted in the murder last Sept. 26 of James J. Kelly, 5031 Maypole avenue, a dispatcher for the Chicago Motor Coach company. A newly formed bus union, affiliated with the Street Car Men's union, was then on strike against the motor coach company.

State Musters Witnesses.

Kelly was on his way home from a garage of the company when he was slugged and shot to death. Albert Semple is charged with firing the fatal shot. Others who, it is charged, directly participated in the crime are Semple's brother, William; Joseph White, Edward Nacki and John Bretschneider.

The Semples and more than 150 others will appear as prosecution witnesses in the trial, according to First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley and his associate, Mal Coghlan. The prosecution, they said, would proceed on the conspiracy theory and would show by testimony the hundreds of acts of violence and the two murders which occurred during the strike. Mrs. Mary Kennard, a widow living at the Hyde Park hotel, was the second murder victim. She died after being struck by a ball bearing flung through a bus window.

Kehoe and Taber, the prosecution charges, not only provided moral support for the acts of violence, but also helped finance the strike and the employment of the sluggers.

Contrast to Usual Setting.

The courtroom scene is a contrast to the usual setting for a murder trial. Taber and Kehoe, both veteran labor leaders, are well dressed and have the appearance of prosperous business men.

Attorney Thomas D. Nash, until recently county treasurer and formerly a noted criminal court lawyer, is making his first appearance in a criminal trial in several years. He is assisted in the defense by Ald. James J. McDermott [14th], junior member of the law firm of Nash & Ahern.

Although the bus strike was settled some time ago, State's Attorney Courtney has not abated his efforts to punish the perpetrators of the violence. The state, however, is not pledging jurors to the infliction of the death penalty. Selection of the jury, which began yesterday, is expected to take some time.

The prosecution tendered the first panel of four veniremen late in the afternoon, but the defense quickly disqualified some of them. The prosecutors caused a surprise when they tendered two veniremen with union affiliations.

BOY WAIVES JURY AND PLEADS NOT GUILTY OF KILLING

Stephen Mareck, 16 year old Chicago ward, pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned in the Kendall county Circuit court at Yorkville yesterday for the murder last Aug. 30 of Herman Doeries, a Newark farmer. The youth waived a jury trial, and Judge W. J. Fulton of Sycamore began hearing testimony.

Mrs. Emmaline Doeries, widow of the victim, was the principal witness yesterday. She said the Lutheran Home Finding society of Chicago sent Mareck to work on the Doeries farm. The youth became enraged when he learned she had opened his mail, she related, seized a shotgun, fired two shots at Doeries, and then fled after threatening to kill her and her daughter, Arlene, 12 years old.

Martin Munson, principal of the Newark High school, where the boy was a student, testified his school record was exemplary. Members of the Chicago society said Mareck's father deserted his family in 1932, and that the society had been paying Doeries $15 a month to care for the boy.

PROBE POSSIBILITY UNMARKED GRAVE MAY BE JOHN HAMILTON'S

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Reports that an unmarked grave had been found near South St. Paul by two hunters were being investigated today by officials on the theory that the grave may be that of John Hamilton, lieutenant of John Dillinger.

Deputy sheriffs engaged in a gunfight near South St. Paul with men in a car believed to be members of the Dillinger gang shortly after the fracas between the Dillinger gang and department of justice officials at Little Bohemia in northern Wisconsin this spring. Various reports, never verified, have had it that one of the occupants was wounded fatally and that the victim was Hamilton.

Federal officials asserted they were "not excited" by the report, pointing out that "we've been getting similar reports from all over the country since Hamilton disappeared."

DR. HUGO KANDEL DIVORCED; WIFE ASKS $3,500 BACK

Mrs. Janet Kandel, 31 years old, 4842 North Central Park avenue, was granted a divorce yesterday from Dr. Hugo Kandel, 51 years old, a dentist with offices at 1588 Milwaukee avenue.

Under questioning by her attorney, Norman Becker, Mrs. Kandel testified before Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti that Dr. Kandel borrowed $3,500 from her before their marriage on April 8, 1933. With it, she said, he set up a dental laboratory, and soon after their marriage he tired of her and struck her on two occasions.

"I don't want alimony," she said. "I want my $3,500 back." The court ordered that the debt be repaid in the form of a property settlement.

The reconstruction plans call for concrete barracks and new officers' quarters, shops, and an ammunition dump. Temporary frame structures are now in use.

USE WOMAN AS SHIELD; 5 MEN ROB BANK

Scottsbluff, Neb., Jan. 8.—(AP)—After a woman was slugged, five men who robbed the Scottsbluff National bank here, escaped with several thousand dollars this afternoon. The robbers took seven hostages. The hostages were released at the city limits as the gunmen drove east. The loot is estimated at less than $5,000.

More than fifty persons were in the bank just before closing time when the masked gunmen entered, carrying two machine guns, shotguns, rifles and revolvers. After Miss Ausbrey Hampton, a stenographer, was knocked out, she was carried as a shield while the gunmen took cash. They did not get into the vault.

The hostages were Harve Ostenberg, bank president; Robert Patrick, a teller; Bernard Kelley, a teller; Mrs. Fern Hunter, a customer; Mrs. Cecil Hamilton, a customer; George Millett, a bookkeeper, and Miss Emma Baltes, a teller.

RAID 'MACARONI MAKERS' CLUB'; NINE ARRESTED

Nine persons were arrested yesterday by state's attorneys police in a raid on the office of the Macaroni and Noodle Manufacturers' club, rooms 1101-02 in the 333 North Michigan avenue building. Records seized in the office showed that $8,000 had been collected in six months last year from macaroni manufacturers and dispersed for salaries and office expenses.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty said the club was investigated last fall, and the members promised to disband. When he learned it had reopened, the raid was ordered.

Among those held were Pasquale Gigante, 32 years old, 5563 Van Buren street, secretary; Chris Stolfa, 26 years old, 823 Forquer street, and Rocco De Grazio, 32 years old, 3548 Franklin boulevard. Gigante is said to have raised his own salary from $60 to $100 a week.

CUT INVESTMENT IN MANCHUKUO, JAP CHIEF WARNS

Sees Danger in Spending Too Much Money.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 9 [Wednesday].—Finance Minister Korekiyo Takahashi startled Japan today with a warning against overinvestments in the Japanese protected state of Manchukuo.

He also told the Japanese army to hold itself in check. It was the first time any statesman has dared to do this.

Takahashi's warning, which was made at a cabinet council yesterday and which was disclosed this morning, was given sensational play in all the newspapers.

The finance minister said the special army expenses in Manchukuo totaled 80,000,000 yen [currently about $22,936,000], and that invisible civil investments were 60,000,000 yen [currently about $17,202,000].

Furthermore, as a result of the probable purchase of the Chinese Eastern railway this year and the present tendency of capitalists and industrialists to pour money into Manchukuo, there is grave danger to the financial condition of Japan, he said. If the tendency continues, foreign exchange must be adversely affected and the nation must suffer economically, he warned.

He announced that hereafter all investments in Manchukuo, including army expenditures, must be first approved by the finance ministry.

Inasmuch as Manchukuo is a foreign country, he said, Japanese investments there must be treated exactly as if they were invested abroad.

Discussing trade in general, Takahashi said Japanese exports and imports were greatly increased to the world, and balanced, the only defect being an enormous invisible trade deficit in Manchukuo.

The spending of 140,000,000 yen yearly in Manchukuo is too much, he said, especially as, beside this, the South Manchuria railway bonds must be converted and the Chinese Eastern railway must be purchased from Russia, he said.

Stocks rose instead of dropping as financiers "pooh poohed" Takahashi's warning to check the flow of money to Manchukuo.

Business leaders said the purchase of the Chinese Eastern railway is not likely to affect the yen seriously, inasmuch as Russia will not sell just to see the yen, which it will receive in payment, decrease in value. The Russians will do all possible to raise the value of the yen, it is contended.

Moreover, leaders declare that present investments are sound and that the expenditures for troops to maintain peace and order are not inordinately large.

VETERANS' DRIVE SCORED AS MOVE FOR NEW BONUS

U. S. Commerce Group Points to Increased Cost.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Agitation for payment of adjusted service certificates to veterans in cash at the full face value was unmasked today by the United States Chamber of Commerce as "a new bonus demand." This "new bonus," said Henry I. Harriman, president of the organization, would cost about one and a half billion dollars.

In a letter to the membership of the commerce group, reiterating repeated opposition to bonus payment, President Harriman pointed out that payment of the certificates ten years in advance of maturity would, in effect, increase the total of the certificates. This, he said, is nothing more than a new bonus.

Terms of 1924 Act.

The adjusted compensation act, passed in 1924, provided compensation to each ex-soldier of more than sixty days' service, with a few exceptions. The rate was $1.25 a day for overseas service and $1 for home service, with a maximum of $625 for overseas service and $500 for home service.

It was provided that compensation under $50 be paid in cash and compensation above that amount be put in the form of adjusted service certificates. The face value of the certificates was not stated as the amount of the compensation, but as the amount of 20 year endowment insurance which the compensation, increased by 25 per cent, would purchase.

"This endowment insurance still has 10 years to run before it matures," Mr. Harriman wrote. "Most of the certificates mature in 1945. Each year during the period of this insurance the government has an obligation to put aside such an amount that at maturity the government will have means of payment.

Holders Once Could Borrow.

"Originally holders of certificates were permitted to borrow up to 90 per cent of the reserve value. The law was modified in 1931 to permit loans up to 50 per cent of the face value. The accrued value of the certificates, however, was in 1931, and still is substantially less than 50 per cent of the face value. Loans in excess of the accumulated cash reserves were thus permitted.

"The chamber's membership repeatedly has committed the chamber to oppose proposals of this kind. Our membership consistently has maintained a position against payment of certificates at any time before maturity. Demands for a new gratuity could not be more untimely."

BUDGET IS BLOW TO FUTURE, SAYS ECONOMY LEAGUE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8. — [Special.]—While the brain trusters were working out in detail President Roosevelt's 4 billion dollar transfer from dole to jobs the program became today the subject of sharp criticism.

One attack was launched by Henry H. Curran, director of National Economy league, who declared that the 1936 budget as transmitted to congress by the President was "a direct blow in the face of the future financial safety of the country.

"There is not even a semblance of a balance," asserted Curran, "and on top of that the congress is asked to give to the President a check for four billion dollars written in red ink to spend as he sees fit. Financial practice of this kind leads straight to radical inflation with nothing but injury to the life insurance policy holder, the savings bank depositor, and the working man, whether he wears a blue shirt or a white collar."

PODERJAY SAILS FOR U. S. IN WEEK FOR BIGAMY TRIAL

Poderjay was crestfallen when he was advised today for the first time that his extradition had been arranged. Von Weisenstein produced a photostatic copy of a London marriage license proving that Poderjay was married to Suzanne Ferrand at the time he contracted marriage with Miss Tufverson.

SOVIET RAILROAD CRASH KILLS 23; 79 ARE INJURED

A report after an official investigation blamed the engineer, fireman, and conductor of an express train, which sped past a closed signal and struck the rear of another train. Three employés of the Torbine station also were held responsible.

The railway employés, who were arrested, will be tried at Leningrad for carelessness and inefficiency. The penalty for those found responsible will be death before a firing squad.

DOCTORS ASSAIL PROPOSED BAN ON USE OF DOGS

Heart Association Acts; Seal Sale Launched.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The Chicago Heart association yesterday opposed the pending Nelson amendment in the city council, sponsored by anti-vivisectionists, which would prohibit the use of unclaimed dogs from the city pound for medical research.

Resolutions against the ordinance were adopted by the association at its annual meeting in the Cordon club opening the sale of the association's Valentine heart seals to finance its work against heart disease. Several leading Chicago physicians who are officers and members of the board, including Dr. James B. Herrick, honorary president; Dr. Robert B. Preble, president; Dr. W. W. Hamburger, Dr. Sidney Strauss, Dr. N. C. Gilbert, and Dr. Louis N. Katz attended the meeting.

Stresses Value of Experiments.

Dr. A. J. Carlson of the University of Chicago, the principal speaker, criticized organized groups whose sympathies for stray animals, he said, may endanger the research necessary to save human life. He recalled that the now successful cardiac treatment had its beginning 300 years ago through the vivisection of dogs and hogs by Harvey, who discovered the circulation of the blood through his experimentation with animals.

"The Nelson amendment, if passed, would greatly hamper medical research and education in Chicago, a city which is known throughout the world as a prominent medical center," stated the resolutions, introduced by Dr. Charles Elliott of Northwestern university.

"It is illogical and contrary to sound public policy to destroy unclaimed dogs uselessly when they might be used humanely for the welfare of the public at large and without expense to the city, and the Nelson amendment is thus against the common good of human and animal alike."

Methods Called Humane.

The resolution declared that animal experimentation is conducted humanely, all animals being placed under an anaesthetic when operated upon. The Heart association favored the continuance of the present ordinance [the Arvey ordinance] which permits unclaimed animals at the pound to be used for experimentation.

Pointing out that 8,955 persons, or a fourth of all those who died in Chicago last year, were victims of heart disease, Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive director of the heart association, urged further education of the public concerning the prevalence of the disease and closer coördination of agencies concerned with the disease. She declared that reseach must be promoted.

DOCTOR TELLS OF ADVANCES IN WAR ON CANCER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Hope of a cure for cancer was held out today by Dr. J. P. Lockhart-Mummery, chairman of the executive committee of the British empire cancer campaign.

He told a meeting of doctors and laymen that nearly 100 per cent of the cases of cancer caught in the early stages are cured, while close to 50 per cent of both old and new cases are cured by surgery and radium therapy.

"There are quite a large number of people walking about in the world today and living active lives who have been cured of cancer as long ago as twelve or fifteen years," Dr. Lockhart-Mummery said. "We doctors do not admit any case of cancer as being cured unless the patient is well five years after treatment."

The doctor based his percentages for cures on statistics of the last six years. If cancer is detected in the early stages, he said, the percentage of cures would go as high as 80 per cent.

FLU EPIDEMICS CALL FOR PRECAUTIONS!

A Few Simple Rules that Will Put a Person on the Side of Safety!

While it does not pay to become alarmed over Flu, it does not pay either to be careless. Many a case of Flu could have been avoided with a few simple precautions.

Here are a few rules which may be wisely followed:

Stay out of crowded, stuffy and smoky places.

Stay in the sunshine as much as you can.

Avoid coughers and sneezers.

Dress warmly, keep your feet dry, sleep in a well-ventilated room.

Drink lots of water. Eat plentifully of citrus fruits and their juices.

Watch out for colds. The so-called "common cold" often paves the way for flu.

At the first sign of a cold, do something about it! One of the best things you can do is to take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. These tablets are effective because they do four important things. They open the bowels, check the infection in the system, relieve the fever and headache and tone the system.

Take Bromo Quinine also as a preventative of colds! A cold is easier avoided than cured.

As a precautionary measure do what thousands are doing—watch your living habits and take one or two Bromo Quinine tablets every morning and night. That will keep your bowels open and combat infection.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. For more than forty years it has been the largest selling cold tablet in the world.

As a measure of safety, get a package today and keep it handy all winter. A few pennies' investment may save you a lot of trouble.

MILK INSPECTION RULES APPROVED; RAISE STANDARD

Carry Out Kelly Ordinance to Give City the Best.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Rigid regulations and standards were approved yesterday by the Chicago board of health compelling all distributors in the city to sell milk that measures up to the new Kelly milk ordinance passed last Friday by the city council.

All milk sold in Chicago must measure up to the grade A standards set forth in the new ordinance and in the regulations, which conform to the model recommended by the United States public health service, according to Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board.

"Milk produced and distributed under our new regulations is fresher than it ever has been," said Dr. Bundesen. "Chicago is the only large city in the country selling only grade A milk. This grade of milk is today selling at 16 cents a quart in New York."

Chief Provisions of Ordinance.

The new ordinance reduces the number of bacteria permissible in a cubic centimeter of raw milk from 1,000,000 to 200,000, and of pasteurized milk from 100,000 to 30,000. It cuts the bacterial count of cream from 300,000 to 60,000.

The pursuant regulations of the board of health forbid the sale of milk more than 50 hours old. They require that it be delivered to pasteurizing plants within 24 hours after it is drawn, and that it reach the consumer's hands within 26 hours after pasteurizations.

The sixty-three supervisors and inspectors of the board's dairy products bureau and forty or fifty inspectors of the Chicago milk companies are to receive immediately a thorough course of instruction in the new ordinance and in the regulations. A 150 page booklet soon to be printed will contain detailed information on the city's requirements. Copies will be sent to every farmer and distributor producing and handling milk for sale in Chicago.

Bundesen Discusses System.

"We are going to see that all milk is produced and handled in a scientific and legal manner, so that we can give to Chicago the purest milk supply ever delivered to any large city in the United States," declared Dr. Bundesen.

"Every person who has anything to do with the production and distribution of milk for this city will be thoroughly familiarized with the milk ordinance, which has been simplified and recodified. With the new inspectors recently added to our force, we shall inspect farms and equipment used in handling milk in a more thorough way than we ever have been able to do before."

Under the new plan of inspection Dr. Bundesen said that even the chief of the dairy bureau and the assistant chief will go into the field.

ASKS GUARD

COLLEEN MOORE.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Colleen Moore has asked Police Chief Charles Blair of Beverly Hills to assign a guard for her home as a result of recent anonymous telephoned threats. "I am in no fear for myself," Miss Moore said, "but have asked to have my house watched while my $500,000 doll house is here."

HUEY'S 'IMP OF HELL' CHARGE IS REFUTED BY FARLEY'S 6 FOOT 2

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Rising to his full height of 6 foot 2½ inches, Postmaster James A. Farley today demonstrated he is not an "imp of hell," as he had been described on the senate floor in the latest outburst of Senator Huey [Kingfish] Long.

"An imp is a little devil," the Farley face spoke from among the beams of his magnificent official suite. "A leprechaun is the Gaelic of it. Maybe the Kingfish would like to trim me down to that size, but I can look down on his curly head."

With a wry smile the postmaster general added that he expressed that he would have to "grin and bear" the Kingfish's attacks all through the present session of congress.

"Huey devoted a lot of time to me during the last session, and I suppose he will carry on this session, so I'll grin and bear it. If the senators are no more worried about Long than I am they have nothing to worry about."

That was not all Farley had to say about the Kingfish—he gave vent to his feelings in a manner which would have brought surges of blushes to the Kingfish's hardened, rotund face—but asked that the further remarks be considered "off the record."

BOARD REVOLTS AGAINST LONG; ASKS FOR GUARDS

Wants Sherif to Hold the Capital's Courthouse.

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Revolt flared in Huey Long's political "empire" today.

In a resolution overwhelmingly adopted by the East Baton Rouge parish's police jury the recent special legislative act giving Long control of that elective governing body was declared unconstitutional.

The police jury called on Sherif Robert L. Pettit to "lend his authority" to keep control of the parish courthouse. Another act of the last special session of Long's legislature took from Sherif Pettit the right to name his own deputies.

Encouraged by the police jury's attitude, leaders of the "Square Dealer association" pushed plans for tomorrow night's meeting. Then an effort will be made to organize "blue shirts" on a state-wide scale. Whether the parish officials will ask their aid is undecided.

In seeking members the Blue Shirts charge "unparalleled bribery and corruption and tyranny prevail in Louisiana politics."

Late today United States District Judge Wayne C. Borah dealt a blow at the Long dictatorship by granting a temporary injunction restraining the new sewerage and water board of New Orleans from functioning. That board was created by one of the many Long control bills.

Three taxpayers had brought the suit charging the act giving Long control of the board deprived them of their rights. On the basis of that legislation the public works administration had held up more than $2,000,000 in a loan and grant.

TWO MALARIA DEATHS PUZZLE DOCTORS HERE

Discovery that two persons died in the county hospital from malaria Monday furnished physicians with a mystery yesterday. The victims were Mrs. L. M. Smith, about 30 years old, who registered last week at the Hollywood hotel, 677 North Clark street; and Al Sager, 38 years old, 506 North Clark street.

Although the addresses are only a block apart, Dr. Edward A. Crown, 1150 North Clark street, who ordered both victims to the hospital, said there was no apparent connection between the two. Both, he said, were found unconscious in their rooms. Sager on Friday and Mrs. Smith on Saturday.

Dr. Jerry Kearns, coroner's physician, who gave malaria as the cause of both deaths, said these were the first deaths from the fever he has encountered in six years' experience.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, also was mystified. He pointed out that the disease is not contagious, and that the mosquitos which transmit it flourish only in summer.

CUDAHY DIVORCE DECREE UPHELD IN STATE COURT

Rich Packer's Wife Loses Appeal.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The divorce granted Michael F. Cudahy, millionaire packer, by Circuit Judge Charles L. Aarons, Milwaukee, together with provisions for custody of the child and alimony to Mrs. Alice Dickson Pinto Cudahy, today were affirmed by the Wisconsin Supreme court.

The high court made only one change in the decision of Judge Aarons. It increased from $8,500 to $12,500 the fees to be paid to counsel for Mrs. Cudahy and recommended a slight revision in disbursements. These increases are to be paid by Mr. Cudahy.

Mrs. Cudahy brought the case into Supreme court following a judgment entered last June in which Mr. Cudahy was granted a divorce and was given primary custody of their child, Richard, 8. At that time the trial court ordered a $1,200 monthly alimony for Mrs. Cudahy.

Three Principal Issues.

Justice John D. Wickham, who wrote the high court opinion, pointed out that the appeal raised three principal issues. One was whether Mr. Cudahy was entitled to a divorce, the second was whether the custody of the child was properly placed, and the third, whether alimony was sufficient.

Counsel for Mrs. Cudahy contended evidence in support of a complaint of cruel and inhuman treatment, by other than personal violence, was indefinite as to time and duration and was relatively trivial.

Attorneys for Mr. Cudahy admitted that instances of cruel and inhuman treatment were in themselves trivial, but when assembled showed the defendant in the divorce action to be an "egotistical, opinionated, nagging woman, with no regard for her husband, holding him and his relatives in contempt, and evidencing this by a continuous succession of irritating conduct."

On Divorce Issue.

Concerning the divorce issue, the high court said:

"A careful examination of the record convinces us that there is evidence to support the findings of the trial court, and that the findings are not against the great weight of the evidence.

"The reputation of the parties will not be enhanced, nor will their chances of future happiness be increased by embalming the details of this family tragedy in the reports of this court."

In holding that Mr. Cudahy should have primary custody of the child, the court declared:

"The evidence as to the plaintiff's influence on the child, and his qualifications to direct the growth and development of the child, was all favorable to him. As to the mother, the evidence is conflicting.

"There was no contention that the mother is not of good moral character. The record bears strong evidence of her love for the child and of his love for her as well as for the father.

U. S. TO SEEK TAX PAYMENTS FROM GANGSTERS HERE

In hearings before the United States board of tax appeals, which probably will be started here in March, the federal government will seek to collect from Chicago gangsters the income taxes with accrued penalties which the government claims have not been paid.

Heading the list is the name of Al Capone, now serving an 11 year sentence in the penintentiary for income tax evasion, and from whom the government will try to collect $391,506.

Jack Guzik, who was business manager for the Capone syndicate, and who in 1932 started serving a five year sentence for income tax evasion, probably will be another against whom the government will proceed at the hearings. A claim of $825,000 against Guzik is pending before the board. Among others who may be required to defend the civil actions are Terry Druggan, Frankie Lake, Ralph Capone, and Frank Nitti.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

THE SUPREME COURT SPEAKS.

In a decision which will go down in our constitutional law as one of the most momentous in its history, the Supreme court has reasserted and applied one of the most fundamental and essential principles of our form of government, the separation of powers. This principle necessarily implies that none of the three powers—legislative, executive, or judicial—can surrender its own proper authority and responsibilities to another branch of government, and holds that section 9 [C] of the National Recovery act is an unconstitutional delegation of power to the executive. "The constitution," says the court, "provides that 'all legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a congress of the United States which shall consist of a senate and house of representatives,' article 1, section 1. And the congress is empowered 'to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution' its general powers, article 1, section 8, paragraph 18. The congress manifestly is not permitted to abdicate or to transfer to others the essential legislative functions with which it is vested."

This principle, as the court remarks, "has never been regarded as denying to the congress the necessary resources of flexibility and practicality which will enable it to perform its function in laying down policies and establishing standards while leaving to selected instrumentalities the making of subordinate rules within prescribed limits and the determination of facts to which the policy as declared by the legislature is to apply. . . . But the constant recognition of the necessity and the validity of such provisions, and the wide range of administrative authority which has been developed by means of them, cannot be allowed to obscure the limitations of the authority to delegate, if our constitutional system is to be maintained."

The framers of the American constitution recognized that the separation of powers is one of the most important checks upon the growth of autocratic government, and a people jealous of their liberty will never lose sight of the vital importance of this principle. It is an essential defense of the citizen from the encroachments of authority.

The protagonists of the New Deal have shown little respect for it. Their conception of government, covertly but persistently advanced under pretense of compelling emergency and under the shield of the President's great popular prestige, favors a concentration of virtually unlimited authority in the executive applied in the form not of laws but of administrative orders through the agency of a vast burocracy. In short, the self-styled New Deal is to be in practical effect a government of men, not a government of laws; a very old deal, in fact, though new in our country.

In declaring the unconstitutionality of section 9 [C] of the National Recovery act the Supreme court has clearly and courageously fulfilled the great function the constitution imposes upon it for the protection of essential principles of American free institutions. It is precisely when, as in the period through which we are passing, open or insidious encroachments upon the liberties guaranteed to us by our fundamental law are attempted under cover of plausible pretexts of public policy or temporary necessity that the Supreme court finds its highest and most difficult duty. The profound, farseeing statesmanship which laid for us the firm foundations of a free society set up the great tribunal primarily for the protection of the American people from the hasty surrender of their heritage under the pressure of a passing ordeal and the temptations of mistaken leadership.

The full and detailed implications of this decision time and judicial application must reveal. Its immediate significance, however, is in the assertion of an essential principle of our constitutional system and the formidable restraint it imposes upon a process which if persisted in would soon subvert American liberties and put the American people under the rule of an official autocracy without practicable and effectual limitation or restraint. For this high service the American people will live to be profoundly grateful.

AMERICA'S IMMUNITIES.

New hopes of peace are entertained because Laval of France and Mussolini of Italy have met face to face and have endeavored to see eye to eye. Things have not changed much in Europe since the development of acute nationalism. The race of worried and watchful statesmen continues, anxious to sweeten an accord to offset an animosity, making enemies and seeking friends.

Diplomats may like the excitement and the rigors of the game with prospects depending on whether they guessed right or wrong, backed the right horse or the wrong one, said the right thing or seized the right time in ganging an opponent or pleasing a friend. Precarious as these arrangements may prove to be at any time, no more dependable substitute has been found for them.

It has been assumed that American independence and freedom from such conditions have been diminished by the complexities of modern days and upon such assumptions some American statesmen have sought careers in the politics of the world, surrendering the valuable immunities which could be enjoyed. The American state department is blessed with advantages unknown in European foreign ministries and these advantages need only to be used. American diplomacy is not forced to take chances with good guesses to avoid miseries. It has only to make discreet use of its own good fortune.

MOVING OUT.

The Standard Oil Company of Louisiana announces that it will begin laying off men at its huge plant at Baton Rouge, where it has been employing from three to four thousand men. The company plans to reduce its production there and to begin moving a part of its equipment to New Jersey.

This proceeding is recognized to be a result of the imposition of a new 5 cent tax on processing imposed by Huey Long's rubber stamp legislature, and it underlines a lesson for other states and industries.

It is not always practicable, perhaps, for a private enterprise to get out of a state in which government has been taken over by demagogs or destructive doctrinaires, but industries generally ought to study the political conditions in all states and move as soon as possible to states which will let them live. There are states, and Illinois is one of them, in which public opinion is reasonably stable and politics has some regard for the economic solidity and progress of the community. Industries suffering from the blight of bosses like Long or from any organized persistent hostility ought to get out as soon as possible and relocate in states which will welcome them and treat them justly. By so doing industry will encourage constructive public policy wherever it appears, and at the same time demonstrate in practical terms the logic of the fable of the goose that laid golden eggs.

GIN WEDDINGS.

As gin weddings get into print, through divorce or annulment proceedings, they give evidence of a social fault. Most American states recognize the undesirability of continuing an unfortunate marriage. Restrictive law does not make tolerable what experience proves to be intolerable, and for the great part America has chosen not to stand on assumptions of inviolability.

Government has decreed as to marriage that it must be so far a state affair that it shall require a license. The ceremony may be state or church, a contract or a sacrament or both. When the church controled it was not difficult to prevent a hasty marriage, although not one that would prove to be a mistake. The banns would delay a marriage of impulse. The civil tendency has been not to put arbitrary checks on the ceremony. The age qualification being satisfied, the man and woman are not to be challenged, there being no evidence that each is not legally free to enter the contract.

The abuse of this freedom is worked by persons whose condition and actions at the time prove their unfitness and by officials who ignore the patent evidence of it. The excuse for the irresponsible persons is that they are too drunk to consider what they are doing, if that is an excuse. The officials have no excuse. They want the fees and gratuities, a degrading reason for participation in scandal.

Such a wedding is no wedding, but it is hard to disqualify it in the precise terms of a statute, although it can be done by prescribing a period between the issuance of a license and the use of it. A less restriction would be to require that the application for license shall not be granted except during stated office hours, making the clerk subject to penalties for a violation. Short of some such regulations the courts are confronted with the social need of taking judicial notice of the fact that a gin wedding is not a wedding, the participants being disqualified from entering into the contract.

EDUCATION AT WEST POINT.

After nine years at the University of Tennessee, Maj. Robert Neyland is returning to regular service in the army, and the announcement is a reminder of the many benefits conferred upon civilian schools and colleges by army men assigned to them. It also suggests that benefits might and should be reciprocal. The faculties of the colleges should be drawn upon for specialists who would do much to broaden instruction at West Point, and the most intelligent men in the military hierarchy as well as civilian educators have agreed that it should be broadened. Modern warfare is a highly complex affair and in important respects changeful. The military mind therefore needs a broader education and a greater intellectual flexibility.

Education at West Point also suffers from the relatively short terms of instructors drawn temporarily from their regular professional service. A complete education in the fundamentals cannot be given in such circumstances.

Editorial of the Day

WILD COUNTRY IN THE EAST.

[Illinois State Journal.]

Another airplane accident in the wilderness of upper New York state calls attention to the inaccessibility of vast areas in the eastern part of the United States, the area first settled by Europeans who landed on our shores three hundred years ago. The east is accounted thickly populated. Dwellers on the eastern seaboard have fantastic notions of the topography of the western part of the country, some of them never realizing that New York state offers fastnesses that compare with western country that has been set aside as national parks.

Not many miles from New York City, the world's first metropolis, is a desolate, mountainous district of New Jersey that offers living conditions similar to those of the "hill billies" of Tennessee and Ozark country. That New Jersey region was discovered by the general public when the Lindbergh abduction case filled front pages of newspapers all over the land.

The east usually is considered sophisticated and, sometimes, "effete," but in the mountainous and marsh areas there are danger, deprivation, and low standards of living and intelligence that are not generally suspected. One of these days, perhaps, the song writers of Tin Pan alley will celebrate the "back country" just across the river from Gotham and its Broadway and Times square.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

SCIENCE IS CERTAINLY WONDERFUL! Among five hundred inventions exhibited at the National Inventors' Congress which has just begun its sessions in Loz Onglaize is a cow tail holder. Somewhat dazed by the administration, NRA, congress, the Supreme court, the possibility of war with Japan, the fear that the election in the Saar will cause a terrible conflict that will reach around the globe and the prospect of a long, hard winter, it is indeed comforting that in all this wreck of matter and crash of worlds an inventor brings to us a patent automatic cow tail holder. Even if we don't have to go out to the barn and milk the cow morning and night and run the danger of being swished in the eye by her tail we can rejoice at the invention of the automatic cow tail holder. It shows that cows will continue in the world. And if cows continue then there can be no dynamic change in government, because the first thing a revolution would do would be to make us forget all such common, humdrum things as cows and their tails. It means that cows will continue to roam the green pastures in summer time and low peacefully at the old farm gate when milking time approaches. Cows have a peaceful, gentle influence. They calm our bewildered senses even in a mad and upset world. We may fear sometimes that everything is going to pieces around us, but when we ride in the old flivver out in the great open country and see Daisy and Molly and Bossie and Brindle standing calmly in a purling brooklet reminiscently chewing their cuds, their ineffable peace and contentment flow into our troubled souls and we know that all's well with the world. I'm going to send out to the inventors' congress and buy me a cow tail holder. I haven't got a cow, but every time I glance up at the wall and see that cow tail holder I will know there are such things as cows on earth and that as long as those serene, calm creatures remain as part of our civilization, though fierce excitement may rage now and then, the stability of society will never be upset.

"WHERE is Western Maryland?" asks the students' paper, the Harvard Lampoon, in considering the appointment of Dick Harlow of Western Maryland as the new coach at Harvard. Many people would think this was only a sarcastic jibe at Coach Harlow's old school, but not at all. The young Harvard men who edit the Lampoon do not know, of course, where Western Maryland is. It is not in Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, or Pennsylvania, and the Harvard gazetteers and maps of the United States have everything beyond the limits of those four states marked with the legend "Unexplored Wilderness."

SEE WHAT COMES of trying to live up to one's name. Here is Mr. Love in jail with three wives testifying against him. If and when Mr. Love gets out of his present predicament he should hasten back to court and ask that his fatal name, Mr. Love, be changed forthwith to Mr. Hate.

WHAT I DON'T UNDERSTAND about the President's budget for $8,520,000,000 is the twenty million. Twenty millions just seems like pin money, small change, or what we call chicken feed compared to eight and a half billion. Why in the world was such a slimy little sum as a mere twenty millions tacked on to the budget? That must be for peanuts for the White House squirrels. Or maybe it's for waste baskets for the secretaries at a cabinet meeting. But twenty million! When I think of twenty million dollars after trying to picture in my mind eight billion and a half dollars —pshaw! twenty millions seems so small that I would be ashamed to drop it in the tin cup of a blind hand organ man.

SELECTIONS FROM "SONNETS."

IX.

I would not have you love me overmuch,
I warn you ecstasy so tinged with rose
Is far too bright a coloring for such
As I, in whom a somber color glows.
I discount passion at a great per cent,
Fidelity I likewise find a bore,
And in your kisses feel a wonderment
At wandering where I have been before . . .
Leave me with wanting you, therefore nor try
To clasp with silken chains one so adept
In skilled evasion of the honeyed snare;
There will be little harm—a small despair
And a remembered spot where lovers wept . . .
Go quickly! while I have the strength to lie.

XIV.

There is such bleak finality in these Affaires de cœur; one ringing word creates
A passion burning through eternities,
Unlooses such a host of loves and hates,
Turns white to black, makes paradise of hell,
An arid waste of earth—that I, appalled,
Gaze fearfully at that one syllable
Which in your letter, dear, holds me enthralled.
I read and read . . . and think of many things—
Kisses at twilight, softness in the dawn,
Such memories as to which faintly clings
The sad musk odor of forever gone—
Pages and pages—and I wonder so . . .
What was the need of such a lengthy NO! . . .

I THINK the Supreme court decision in the NRA case that congress cannot turn over law-making to some other branch of the government is just too bad for congress. Gosh! they'll have to go back to work!

HISTAMINE IN ARTHRITIS.

WE are living in a period in which new drugs for the treatment of disease are being produced at a rapid rate. The capacities and opportunities of physicians, clinics, and hospitals are taxed to determine the value and safety of many of these compounds. Some of them are developed as a result of our growing knowledge of the chemistry of the body, and we are just now beginning to understand the thousands of chemical reactions that are occurring within our own bodies every hour.

While the main animal laboratories are the intestinal tracts, the liver, and the blood itself, chemical stations exist wherever blood, lymph, and body fluids are found.

Although histamine has been known for a number of years, it is only recently that its medical applications have been tested carefully. It is a complex compound that is normally produced by the mucous membrane of the small intestine. It is also formed in the skin whenever injuries occur. Large amounts have been recovered from the lung; and it has been found in the spleen, the muscles, and the liver. The skin of the toad was an ancient medicine, and an eminent investigator now states that histamine is the poison secreted by the skin of the African toad.

When given in small doses the drug causes a brief drop in blood pressure, and, in large doses, brings on collapse characterized by a sharp lowering of blood pressure and resulting heart failure. Its chief action lies in causing the capillaries of the skin to dilate, thus reducing the blood supplied to the internal organs and relieving internal congestion.

Within the last two or three years interesting results have followed the use of histamine in muscular rheumatism. It has much the same effect as heat, diathermy, and massage, bringing on an increased flow of blood into the skin areas. It may be given by injection, or ointments containing histamine may be rubbed into the skin.

D. Deutsch, a German investigator, reports that pain in the joints and muscles diminishes following its use and that joints even at a distance from the site of injection become looser.

The only conditions in which the drug cannot be used are low blood pressure and some types of heart disease. All who have used this drug caution against overdosage. It is well known that arthritis causes in many individuals a marked destruction of capillaries, and hence the use of histamine for the purpose of dilating the remaining capillaries may assist in the reëstablishment of circulation in the affected parts. So rapid is the effect of the drug that relief from pain and increased movements of the joints are sometimes noted within a few minutes after its injection. Occasionally patients complain of a slight degree of fullness in the head, sometimes headaches, drowsiness, and sweating. The fall in blood pressure rarely lasts for more than five minutes.

To any drug that appears to produce a beneficial effect in a given condition enthusiasts are inclined to attribute cure-all properties. Since its introduction histamine has been hailed as a cure for this or that and in some cases the drug has found its way into proprietary preparations. Any compound containing histamine must be used cautiously and only under the watchful eye of a competent physician.

MYELOID LEUCEMIA.

G. B. S. writes:

1. What is myeloid leucemia?
2. Is it a fatal disease?
3. Is it contagious?

REPLY.

1. Myeloid leucemia comes on gradually, and sometimes the first symptoms noted are an enlarged spleen with anemia. On the other hand many of these patients look healthy. Occasionally there is hemorrhage from the nose, throat, or gums. There are usually many signs of indigestion. Examination of the blood shows an enormous increase in the number of white cells. Unfortunately the cause is not known.
2. The disease usually terminates fatally in from two to five years. X-ray and radium are of considerable value, and blood transfusions will help, but no treatment as yet discovered will afford permanent relief.
3. No.

GLANDS SWELL.

A. F. writes:

1. What is the name of the gland under the jawbone?
2. What causes glands on the side of the neck to swell besides colds or tuberculosis?

REPLY.

1. When it is enlarged the submaxillary gland may be felt below the lower jaw on either side. This gland may enlarge in the presence of infections in the mouth from decayed or ulcerated teeth.
2. Any type of infection, including those mentioned. A type of glandular enlargement which is quite characteristic is associated with Hodgkin's disease.

HONEY.

M. S. writes: I use honey for all sweetening. Is honey sufficient for blood sugar? Is honey permitted in diabetes?

REPLY.

Honey will supply the body with the needed sugar. It is not permitted in diabetes.

INCOME FROM ESTATE.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—There are three sisters whose father died seven years ago. 1. We had a guardian [our uncle], but he [2] gave up being guardian some time ago. 3. All legal papers regarding the property are supposed to be at the bank, but when I wrote the bank I got no answer. We have kept up the taxes. For seven years we got no money from the place, as it is supposed to go to the bank. 4. We don't know where the uncle is now. The property is located in Kentucky. Would be thankful for any information you can give us. E. E.

1. It is not clear whether you mean that he was appointed by a court.
2. It is not clear whether there was a court order releasing him.
3. If you do not have more specific information than is indicated by your letter we would suggest that you look up the estate in the office of the clerk of the Probate court.
4. If the uncle is a court guardian and now cannot be found, then apparently a new guardian should be appointed. We suggest that you go over your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

ADVERTISING PRACTICES.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please advise me whether there are any state laws prohibiting the advertising of cut rate dentistry. I would appreciate knowing this for personal reasons. C. H. W.

The 1933 amendment appearing as section 73 of chapter 91 in the Smith-Hurd Illinois Revised Statutes prohibits various advertising practices, including "to advertise any amount as a price or fee for the service or services of any person engaged as principal or agent in the practice of dentistry."

JOINT WILL.

Burlington, Ia., Jan. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In case of the death of the man signer and maker of a joint will made by man and wife, would the surviving wife in any way be able to change the will? If so, what would be the procedure? The estate consists principally of real estate and is located in Iowa. G. W.

She could make a new will unless the old one was so worded as to indicate an agreement to the contrary.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TERMS OF WILL.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A woman died leaving property and bonds. 1. Eleven years ago this woman made a will while under the influence of drink in a neighbor's house, the neighbor being witness. The neighbor subsequently died. At the time of death this woman was not in her right state of mind due to cancer. A grandchild, an orphan, supported this woman for thirteen years. This woman had three daughters and three sons, but none of them gave money for her support. The orphan's mother married again, paying the child's board to her mother. 2. What steps should be taken to make party holding will release it and let the children of deceased know the wording or reading of will? They are of age. 3. Can the mother of orphan make any claim against property, as she claims her mother took orphan's salary to buy bonds and gave support to her while child was minor? 4. In 1932 the orphan's mother gave her mother $1,000 cash to pay for radium treatments and deceased gave daughter bond as security for money, which was stolen in a robbery. The woman knows her sister's son and a gang of hoodlums stole it. They hold the mother's estate now. A. M.

1. We see no reason why she could not have revoked it by another will made later.
2. Notify the party holding the will that you will subject her to the statutory penalties unless she files it in the office of the clerk of the Probate court, as is required by law.
3. It seems probable that the mother is to be regarded as having acquiesced.
4. The word orphan means that the child's parents are dead. Your reference to the orphan's mother is confusing.

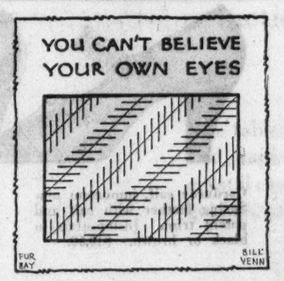
The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.



It is poor evidence when a person insists that he "saw it with his own eyes," for it is an established psychological principle that one's eyes are very deceptive. Look at the above drawing and see whether you can believe your eyes: the six diagonal lines are all parallel. Look at a stick partly submerged in water, and partly out, and notice the apparent but nonexistent "bend" in the stick just as it enters the water. Try to estimate distance on water! Try to look at things without the added coloring of prejudice! Sleight-of-hand performers make their living from people who believe their eyes, but an aviator makes his living by refusing to believe his eyes—preferring to believe his instruments.

PRACTICAL POLITICS.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—The essence of a political organization is the precinct captain, wide awake and industrious. A good precinct captain is worth fifty orators. A political orator frequently takes himself too seriously. A wide awake and industrious precinct captain never does. The reason is self-evident: he is constantly in touch with the individual voters that constitute his precinct and knows human nature and knows also the thought and feeling of the voter, whereas a political orator frequently spouts just to hear himself make wise political remarks and because he sounds good to himself and thinks he sounds as well to others.

This, therefore, has been the source of much organization difficulty. The political orator who does little expects much. The precinct captain who does much receives little in the way of recognition from his party. A good precinct captain is like a good salesman, who gives forth his best efforts only when he feels that these efforts are appreciated. The efforts of the precinct captain are seldom appreciated. He receives promises and is expected to live on them.

Hundreds and thousands of precinct captains are out of work. They have heard from the political orators that they will be taken care of when the candidates of their party would be successful, and success frequently came to the party without recognition to the precinct captain.

Therefore, about this time of the year when the fifty various organizations in the wards of the city are asked to get busy, the precinct captain asks why and what for. The message doesn't excite him any more; he has heard it so often.

Therefore, from an organization standpoint results will be forthcoming in April only when and where the captains are recognized. My advice to the leaders is simple: "Take care of the precinct captains who are walking the streets looking for work! RUSSELL WOODS.

DISCRIMINATION!

Cicero, Ill., Jan. 2.—Reading of the feeder bus service authorized for the northwestern part of Chicago and its adjoining territory which is located approximately 17 miles from the loop, I wondered just how this matter could be concluded so satisfactorily for the residents of that territory when the residents of the town of Cicero and city of Berwyn, two towns only 8 miles from Chicago's loop, have been fighting for a similar service for many years and so far have never received any answer except that the Chicago Surface lines are in the receiver's hands.

The population served in this district by the Chicago Surface lines is approximately 100,000 people and it has always been necessary to pay a double fare to reach any part of Chicago with the exception of the fortunate few who happen to live near the car line. In order to reach Chicago's Municipal airport from this district or the Clearing manufacturing district it is necessary to make a roundabout trip of 8 miles when the districts mentioned are only 3 miles distant from the towns mentioned. The Chicago Surface lines operate street cars on Cicero avenue and on the south side of Roosevelt road in the corporate limits of the town of Cicero, but the tracks and roadbed are never paved and are repaired only when a car is derailed.

The people of the town of Cicero have had numerous petitions filled out and have taken the fight to the courts, but have always received the answer that the lines are in the receiver's hands and no money could be expended to remedy or improve the service.

CHRIST SELIMOS.

SUGGESTION REGARDING THE BONUS.

Libertyville, Ill., Jan. 4.—For a time it appeared as if the President would be able to stem the tide of demand for immediate payment of the soldier bonus, but it is becoming more obvious that payment in some manner is imminent.

It is manifestly as unjust to force acceptance on those who desire to maintain their adjusted compensation certificates intact for the protection of dependents as it is to deprive payment from those desiring it. It would be unfair, too, to pay in full those demanding it at this time and force those who do not actually need the money now to wait until 1945. It is obvious that to be absolutely just in this distribution either those drawing their money now should be penalized by discounting their certificates or those who are willing to wait until 1945 should be rewarded.

An equitable plan would be to issue bonus bonds secured by the credit of the United States. These bonds would be exchanged in the exact amount for each individual adjusted compensation certificate. Of course the amount already borrowed against the certificate would be noted on the bond. The bonds should draw interest in amount equal to current government bonds. This would render it possible for those who are in need of money immediately to take their bond to a bank and receive money equal to the current value of the bond. It would leave the individual who does not desire to cash his certificate free to hold his bond as he would any other government bond.

This would relieve the treasury of the necessity of resorting to printing press money, thereby endangering the credit of the country, and would be an equitable adjustment of an embarrassing problem. C. J. PETERS.

MORE REGULATION.

Elmhurst, Ill., Jan. 3.—The new year had hardly begun when the initial bombshell from the Seventy-fourth congress was exploded: the Jones proposal for the strict regulation of commodity exchanges.

Now that natural forces of price making have brought about a market in which the farmer obtains good prices for his products, the threat of federal regulation again looms and like a dark storm cloud gives promise of demoralizing the present price structure which speculative activity has created.

Within a few minutes after the Jones proposal was published a break of nearly 2 cents took place in the price of May wheat. Smart money is afraid.

Moves to drive money changers from the temple, to regulate speculation, and other clubbing methods may be excellent grand stand play for vote getting purposes, but they do not represent honest, and sincere, and constructive ideas which should constitute the basis of our national policy.

Discourage speculation and you discourage private initiative and bring progress to a dead halt. Eliminate speculation and you automatically eliminate the New Deal, for every phase of the New Deal constitutes the most daring and most brazen speculation ever known. No such speculation was ever witnessed in any grain pit or stock exchange floor.

The opposing forces of modern speculators check extreme market movements in either direction and bring about a condition of stability which is neither ruinous to the farmer nor prohibitive to the public. Speculation has provided the most efficient marketing system ever known. All attempts to substitute have ended in complete failure.

So why not let well enough alone.

HUGE SPENDING OF NEW DEAL IS LASHED BY FISH

Engages in Debate with House Democrats.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The first attack of the New Deal on the floor of the Seventy-fourth congress came today in a vitriolic speech by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. [Rep., N. Y.]. Engaging in a debate with Democratic leaders, Fish ripped into the administration for continuing its huge spending program in the face of a decrease in employment.

On the Democratic side Representative Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.] took up the defense on the grounds that the money was being spent to keep people from starving or going to the poorhouse. Republican congressmen asked him how much of the money went to "white-collared burocrats."

"Well, I don't see how you can spend any public money without wasting half of it," retorted Blanton, laughingly.

Reads Campaign Promise.

After Congressman Fish had gained the floor he read excerpts from Roosevelt's 1932 campaign statements. The then candidate for the presidency, according to Fish, criticized the deficit of the Hoover administration and stated he regarded "reduction in federal spending as one of the most important issues of the campaign."

"The present occupant of the White House declared that continuance of the deficit would be ruinous," declared Fish, "but the deficit has now reached 10 billions. A deficit is a deficit whether it is Republican or Democratic.

"The President promised us a year ago he would balance the budget. Now it is unbalanced by another four and a half billions. He told us last year the national debt would not rise above 31 billions and now it is 35 billions."

Gallery Applauds Fish.

Representative John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.] rose to his feet to express the hope that before the speaker concluded he would offer some plan to solve the depression.

"I'll tell you how," asserted Fish.

"How, how, how?" cried the Democratic majority in derisive chorus.

"By restoring business confidence," replied Fish.

The Republicans applauded loudly and handclapping spread to the galleries. Speaker Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] rapped for order and admonished the spectators.

"The only test of the New Deal is whether men are put back to work," continued Fish, "and there are two million more unemployed now than a year ago."

Shakes His Fist.

Representative O'Connor walked down the aisle, shaking his fist.

"We have waited five years for the largest industries, which are the largest beneficiaries of Republican administrations and the biggest contributors, to put men to work," he shouted.

"The only way to provide employment," asserted Fish, "is to wipe out all this unsound, extravagant and socialistic campaign."

This brought prolonged applause from the Republican side. Fish concluded with a plea that congress would abdicate no further powers to the President.

Representative Blanton in rebuttal, tore into the Hoover administration for "needlessly wasting money" on the Wickersham committee and other investigations.

Before the debate started the house voted to continue the investigation into real estate bondholders' "protective committees" by the subcommittee headed by Representative A. J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.].

INDORSE $300,000 PWA LOAN FOR CALUMET BRIDGE

The city council finance committee recommended at its meeting yesterday that Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, be authorized to apply to the Federal Public Works administration for a $300,000 loan to build a bridge over the Calumet river at Torrence avenue.

This estimate is 30 per cent of the $1,100,000 cost of the project. The remaining $800,000 would come from the city's share of the gasoline tax. The new bridge would replace the present pontoon bridge whose removal was recently ordered by the federal government. The bridge must be built by Feb. 1, 1936, in order to procure the federal funds, according to Ald. J. M. Arvey, chairman of the committee.

The committee also recommended that the city readvertise for interest bids on idle city funds. The First National bank and the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company now pay ⅛ of 1 per cent on such funds, which average about $50,000,000.

The committee approved the proposal of the board of education to issue $900,000 in refunding bonds to take up securities maturing on Feb. 1.

9 FOUND GUILTY IN WAREHOUSE, STORE THEFTS

Nine men were found guilty of larceny or receiving stolen property from warehouses and stores of Goldblatt Bros. yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court. Fifteen others were discharged.

Leo Koet, 41 years old, 5914 South Justine street, manager of the warehouse radio supplies department, received the longest sentence, nine months in the house of correction. Among the others sentenced were Frank Franda, 23 years old, 2447 South East avenue, Berwyn, and Walter Kosowski, 3424 South Marshfield avenue, each of whom received six months. The others, small merchants who had purchased some of the stolen merchandise, were given short sentences.

Most of the thefts were from the warehouse at West 39th street and Lincoln avenue, and from the retail store at 1609 West Chicago avenue. One-third of the merchandise was recovered.

LOWEST TAX RATE IN FIFTEEN YEARS FOR CINCINNATI RESIDENTS

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 8.—(AP)—A forgotten man—the taxpayer—was given a surprise here today in the form of the lowest tax rate in 15 years.

The new rate is $16.86 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. This is $4.58 under last year's figure. It will save Cincinnati taxpayers an estimated $3,600,000 on property in the city, which is valued for purposes of taxation at $816,000,000.

To the owner of a home with an assessed valuation of $5,000, the reduction means a saving of $22.90.

Despite the rate reduction, the city expects the receipts to be sufficient to provide for restoration of $250,000 cut from the annual salaries of municipal employés two years ago.

Cincinnati is the largest city in the country to operate under the city manager plan.

ORDER WORKERS' VOTE IN 2 STEEL COMPANIES HERE

National Labor Board Acts on 4 Plants.

The failure of President Roosevelt's recent efforts to effect a final settlement of labor difficulties in the steel industry was reflected in an order issued by the National Steel Labor Relations board in Washington yesterday directing two steel companies in this area to hold employé elections under the collective bargaining section of the National Industrial Recovery act.

The order affects the Gary plant of the Illinois Steel company and the Chicago, East Chicago and Indiana Harbor plants of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company.

The Issue in The Dispute.

Under yesterday's decree, the workers in these plants, who are believed to total 15,000, would choose representatives to deal with the employers. The companies insist on dealing only with labor representatives who are co-employés with the men they represent. Some workers wish representation through a unit of the American Federation of Labor.

The board gives the companies seven days in which to submit certified copies of their payrolls so that the board may decide who are eligible to vote. The order declares that the elections are to be held the seventh and eighth days after the payroll list is furnished to the board.

Hint of Court Battle.

Officials of the two companies refused yesterday to comment on the order. It was indicated, however, that the action of the labor board may be opposed in the courts here. Two eastern steel companies which are involved in a similar order issued last week by the board have asked the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Philadelphia to review the decision of the board.

The action of the board was based on complaint brought by the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America. The union, an A. F. of L. organization, objected to elections held in the plants last spring on the grounds that the men were forced to vote for representatives selected by the companies.

Strike Prevented Previously.

A strike threat made by the union last summer was forestalled when President Roosevelt asked both sides to await a hearing before the steel board which was created especially to hear the case.

PITTSBURGH HAS REALTY TAX ONLY, CITY CLUB TOLD

Mayor William N. McNair of Pittsburgh outlined Pittsburgh's plan of taxation in an address at the noonday Forum luncheon of the City club held at the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

Proponents of the 1 per cent tax limitation on real estate in Illinois expressed surprise when Mayor McNair said that real estate taxes bore all the expenses of county, city, and school administration in that city.

"We have no personal property tax and none of the other numerous taxes levied in other cities," he said. "Since 1913 we have been following the advice of Benjamin Franklin, who said, 'Do not tax anything which can be moved on wheels.'"

He said that the realty tax has been sufficient to pay all expenses and does not amount to more than about 4 per cent on the total market value of the property.

REQUIRE REPORTS ON 6 MONTH OLD RECEIVERSHIPS

Masters in chancery in the Superior and Circuit courts were directed yesterday to make a report of all foreclosure cases that have been pending before them for a period longer than six months. This action follows the announcement Monday of the new court rules designed to end dilatory tactics in foreclosure cases and to speed the lifting of receiverships from 750 million dollars' worth of Cook county real property.

Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski, head of the chancery division of the Circuit court, pointed out that in fifty-four foreclosure cases pending before one master, whose name he would not divulge, only thirteen of the cases had been referred to the master during the last year, while a number of the remaining cases date as far back as 1926.

PAYS FINE IN TAX CASE, BUT PRISON STILL THREATENS

William E. Nichols, income tax specialist and alleged tax fixer, who was fined $2,000 on Saturday after pleading guilty to a charge of violating the income tax law, may yet be given a prison sentence as well. This was shown yesterday, when Federal Judge William H. Holly permitted Assistant United States Attorney E. Riley Campbell to file a motion to vacate the sentence on the grounds that the court had not been fully advised about the facts. Nichols, said to have been the tax adjuster for Gene G. Oliver, former county assessor, was accused of evading payment of $5,900 to the government on an unreported income of more than $50,000 for 1928.

The Return to Elegance

Gleaming white damask, shimmering crystal, gold and white Wedgwood china. What might be a Victorian table looks as modern to us as the new automobiles. And why? Because we are returning to an era of elegance approaching the "elegant eighties." (Interesting, isn't it, that our very first January Linen Sale was in the eighties?)

The eighties made Chicago famous for its hospitality as well as its "I Will" spirit. There were dinners for General Grant, Mikado balls, party after party for the dedication of the Auditorium. Chicago was in a fever of entertaining and Chicago hostesses were in a fever of buying lovely linens, glass, china. And so Field's Famous Second Floor came about . . .

Today modern hostesses, the grandchildren of those Chicagoans who gave OUR JANUARY LINEN SALE its first send-off, are setting tables for you to see. They extend the length of our Wabash Avenue aisle, second floor. Buffet tables . . . bridge tables . . . luncheon tables . . . snack tables . . . tables to cover all the vast variety of entertaining that fits our complicated social scheme. And the selection of china and glass is as superb as that of the linens.

Damasks, towels, sheets and cases, blankets, comforters and bedspreads are marked at very substantial reductions this entire month.

The table illustrated above is set with a satin stripe damask cloth and napkins, gold and white service Wedgwood plates, antique crystal candelabra and bowls from the Rosenbach collection, modern goblets, silver in a Victorian pattern—"Trousseau".

P. T. A. WARNED HOMES MUST AID CHILD EDUCATION

Teacher, Parents Evade Burdens, Session Told.

Public education in America today is merely an elaborate system by which parents and teachers evade responsibilities.

This was the belief voiced yesterday by Franklin Bobbitt, professor of education at the University of Chicago, in an address before a legislation and school education conference of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers in the Stevens hotel.

"The evasions on both sides are not due to lack of powers of intelligence," Prof. Bobbitt said. "They are merely attempts to find the easy way, and then to justify it."

Pleads for Coöperation.

The home, he said, should offer a child a large informal education and school should offer a smaller formal education. Lack of coöperation between the home and the school is "educational suicide," he added.

"Parents lack not intelligence," he concluded, "but interest and a sense of responsibility."

Prof. Bobbitt was preceded on the program by Floyd T. Goodier, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, who discussed school legislation.

Increased State Aid Urged.

Mr. Goodier advocated larger territorial units of school administration to do away with the one room schools, of which Illinois now has 10,000, the largest number of any state in the Union.

As "adequate state aid" he proposed a yearly allotment of 30 million dollars, rather than the present fund of 10½ million, for the public schools, larger appropriations for the University of Illinois and the five state teachers' colleges, a better pension system, and a minimum wage law.

Mrs. Paul E. Madden of Urbana, state legislative chairman for the Illinois P.-T. A., presided over the meeting, which was attended by the legislative chairmen of more than 500 parent-teacher associations from the Chicago area.

VIOLA NORMAN DIES; HONORED AS SCULPTRESS

VIOLA NORMAN.

Miss Viola Norman, 46 years old, 201 East Superior street, sculptress and art teacher, died at her home yesterday after a long illness.

Born in Tremont in Tazewell county, Illinois, Miss Norman came to Chicago as a young woman and attended the Art institute from 1913 to 1923. She studied under Charles Mulligan, who has since died, and Albin Polasek, now head of the sculptural department of the institute. For six years after completing her course she taught night classes in sculpture at the institute, and of recent years had conducted her own school in the Auditorium tower.

In 1923 Miss Norman won the Dunham medal for sculpture. She designed the large eagle over the entrance of the Chicago club. Funeral arrangements await word from a brother, Clay, who is with the Atlantic fleet.

Peter Crowley, Police Operator, Is Found Dead

Peter Crowley, 58 years old, 721 Belmont avenue, for forty years a police operator, was found dead in his room yesterday by police sent to the hotel after Mr. Crowley had failed to report for work. A heart attack apparently caused his death. He had served for ten years in the office of Deputy Police Commissioner John H. Alcock and recently had been assigned to the office of James McSweeney, police secretary.

Teresa Dean, Pioneer Newspaper Woman, Dies

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Teresa Dean, 75, said to have been the first woman war correspondent, died here today. Mrs. Dean covered the Sioux Indian wars for the old Chicago Herald in 1891 and later had war assignments during the Spanish-American war, the Boxer rebellion, and Mexican revolutions. She lived with her son, Col. Warren Dean, deputy assistant general manager of the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

The Rev. P.J.M. Hugh, S.J., Boston College Dean, Dies

Boston, Mass., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Stricken with a heart attack, the Rev. Patrick J. McHugh, S. J., 49, dean of Boston college for the last 14 years, died today at the faculty residence at University Heights. Prior to coming to Boston college, Father McHugh taught physics and mathematics at several colleges in the east. He was ordained by Cardinal John Gibbons in 1918.

Mrs. Divens Dies; Mother of Highwood Postmaster

Mrs. Catherine Divens, mother of Mrs. Mary East, postmaster of Highwood, died yesterday at Mrs. East's home, 40 Prairie avenue, Highwood. She died on her 79th birthday. News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Jack Pearl will return to the air on a new show, sponsored by a refrigerator concern, on Wednesday, Feb. 13. Previously identified as Baron Munchausen on NBC, Pearl will be heard in his new series as a new character, Peter Pfeiffer. The feature will be aired from 9 to 9:30 p. m. on Wednesdays on CBS. Competition on NBC at that hour is Guy Lombardo's music. As in the past, Pearl will be assisted by Cliff Hall [Sharlie] as straight man. As Pfeiffer, Pearl will play the part of a German tavern-keeper. With Eddie Cantor switching to CBS on Feb. 3, the major comedians of the airways will be more evenly divided between the two big chains. NBC had a virtual monopoly last year.

Frankie Masters, handsome young Chicago orchestra leader, was engaged yesterday by Universal pictures to play the juvenile lead in their forthcoming production, "The Great Ziegfeld." His orchestra will also be used in the picture. Masters for years played at Balaban & Katz theaters, then was on the air from the College Inn, the Terrace Gardens, and the Canadian club at the Fair.

When Jack Benny and his troupe appear at the Chicago theater the week of Jan. 18, they are likely to be heard on the W-G-N broadcast from the stage of the theater as well as doing their NBC commercial here on Sunday. Sponsor's permission has been secured for the W-G-N broadcast—now it's up to Benny. Don Bestor will come out for the NBC broadcast but will use a local orchestra. Incidentally Benny and his aids have been renewed for the spring and summer by the gelatin concern sponsor and will not return to the tire program on which they were formerly heard.

Edward Wood Jr. has been appointed commercial manager of W-G-N, succeeding George Isaac, effective Jan. 21. Mr. Wood has been in charge of W-G-N's New York office for two years and was associated with W-G-N and THE TRIBUNE advertising department for three years before that. His New York successor has not been named.

A half hour show dotted with familiar music under the direction of Otto Harbach is to replace the present NBC House Party series. . . . A noise meter has been installed in Fred Allen's Town hall to check the amount of applause for various amateurs during his show to help determine the winners. . . . The Gumps, heard on CBS at 11:15 a. m., have expanded to a 48 station hookup from coast to coast. . . . Whispering Jack Smith, one of radio's earliest crooners, will return to NBC on Jan. 15, accompanied by his own orchestra.

Bach B Minor Mass Event in Music History

Stock Conducts Splendid Special Program.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

As a preliminary observance of the 250th anniversary of the birth of Johann Sebastian Bach, which will be celebrated March 21, Frederick Stock, five notable soloists, the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and the Apollo Musical club performed Bach's masterpiece, the Mass in B minor, at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon.

It was a memorial observance, but it was also a magnificent accomplishment, one of the finest things that have taken place in Orchestra hall since its opening, thirty years ago. The mass itself is a stupendous work, probably in its stately majesty the greatest piece of religious music ever composed, and it was performed in a spirit of flaming jubilation. Wherefore there is special pleasure in stating that it will be given again just as it was yesterday on the concerts of tomorrow evening and Friday afternoon.

The soloists were Jeannette Vreeland and Kathryn Witwer, sopranos; Rose Bampton, contralto; Dan Gridley, and Chase Baromeo, bass, five American singers of high artistic stature. Of the five, Mr. Baromeo, though enjoying a well deserved reputation in opera and recital, had never sung with the orchestra before, and Miss Bampton had never appeared publicly in Chicago at all. But seldom does one hear a quintet of singers that so effectively work together as individuals and as parts of the whole.

In fact, one went away with the impression that this was an almost ideally proportioned performance.

There were details here and there, of course, at one time the extraordinary readiness of the chorus in all its difficult task, at another Miss Bampton's lovely voice, again the mellow tone of the orchestra, then Mr. Baromeo's beautiful enunciation, the youth and grace of Miss Witwer's voice in her single solo, Miss Vreeland's fine voice and unfailing competence, the smooth radiance of Mr. Gridley's singing, the lovely singing, various solo instruments from the orchestra and above all Mr. Stock presiding and in full command, directing his complex forces with a fire that communicated itself to every member.

Garlanded in green, the stage presented a holiday appearance. The chorus was massed at the back, the orchestra grouped well in front. Mischa Mischakoff, the concertmaster, left his customary seat at Mr. Stock's right to sit immediately back of the conductor's stand, from which he rose on occasion to play the numerous obbligato passages of the score.

They were beautiful, too, but perhaps not more beautiful than other obbligato passages from flute and reed instruments. And there was one place, at the end of a chorus, where a passage for solo trumpet fairly gleamed through the score.

And so the senior orchestra and the senior choral organization of Chicago gave a performance of a work whose vastness, whose complexity, whose inspired intensity can hardly be told in words, for which no words are necessary.

Here is a work of great genius, and great genius is not so common on this earth that one can afford to miss it.

Dance Contest

Mrs. Press Hodgkins is on the entertainment committee for the ball to be given Friday night by the Emerson House association in the Urban room of the Congress hotel. The party promises to be one of the gayest of the season, for the young women in charge of it are planning numerous entertaining features, including a Continental dance contest to be judged by the masculine winners of a dance contest held at an Emerson house ball two years ago, namely, Walter Hoving, Walter Frazier, and Leif Buch. Miss Cynthia Wilson, president of the association, is in charge of reservations.

Garners Are Guests at Second Official White House Event

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt gave a dinner party this evening in honor of the Vice President and Mrs. Garner, the second dinner on the official schedule for this season.

The date was advanced two days from Jan. 10, as Mrs. Roosevelt wished to hear Frances Nash, pianist, when she plays with the National Symphony orchestra Thursday evening. The pianist is known socially as Mrs. Watson, wife of Col. Edwin M. Watson, military aid to the President.

Mrs. Peabody Gives Tea to Plan Benefit

2 Shows of Abbey Players to Aid Hospital.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT WAS very pleasant yesterday afternoon to step out of the fog and dampness into the Stuyvesant Peabody residence on State parkway and there, while enjoying a glass of sherry or a cup of coffee or tea, hear about the plans for the Little Company of Mary hospital benefit.

The first two performances of the Abbey Theater Players of Dublin, Ireland, will be for the benefit of the hospital at 95th street at California avenue which was opened five years ago by the nursing sisters of the Little Company of Mary, who had their convent for many years on Indiana avenue. They are known as the blue nuns, because they wear pale blue veils with white overhabits in the sickroom. They are trained nurses and conduct hospitals all over the world.

The benefit performances will be given in the Harris theater on Monday and Tuesday evenings, Jan. 28 and 29, and two Irish comedies have been chosen from the répertoire of the Abbey Players for those performances. They are "The New Gossoon" and "The Far Off Hills."

Mrs. Peabody Heads Benefit Committee.

Mrs. Peabody is general chairman of the benefit and Miss Harriet McLaughlin is box chairman. Main floor seats in groups of six are being sold as boxes, and already quite a number of the sixty-eight have been disposed of. Mrs. John R. Hurley is chairman of a group of young women who will sell flowers and cigarets.

Pouring yesterday afternoon at the tea table, decorated with pyramids of white carnations and shining silver services, were the hostess' sister-in-law, Mrs. Vincent Healy, and Miss Janet Frey.

Among those at the tea were Mrs. William Roy Carney, Mrs. Lester Armour [who had just seen her daughter Betty off on the train to return to Miss Walker's in Simsbury, Conn.], Mrs. Britton I. Budd, Mrs. Hurley, Mrs. Frank M. Gordon, Miss McLaughlin, Mrs. Richard M. O'Brien, Mrs. Jackson W. Smart, and Mrs. Henry Murphy, who, with Mrs. Valentine Bartlett, Mrs. Peter B. Smart, Mrs. John Coleman, Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, Mrs. Bernard E. Sunny, and Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm comprise the committee in charge of the performances.

Society Attends 2 Piano Recital.

For half an hour yesterday morning Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze, president of the Woman's Athletic club, greeted members who flocked into the club's seventh floor ballroom to hear Harriet Lowden Madlener and Mae Doelling Schmidt play a two piano recital. Nearly every one who greeted Mrs. Pelouze had something pleasant to say about hearing one of their favorite club members, Mrs. Madlener, play, and every one, of course, anticipated hearing Mrs. Schmidt, who made her debut this season with the Chicago Symphony.

Former Gov. and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden arrived in plenty of time to obtain seats in the center of the ballroom to hear their daughter. Mr. Lowden jokingly expressed some fears about the safety of his coat, which he gave another daughter, Mrs. John B. Drake Jr., to check. "Will I get it back?" he asked as she disappeared from the elevator with it at the second floor.

Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Sr. joined the Lowdens in the ballroom, but Mrs. Drake and another sister, Mrs. Phillip Miller, chose to sit in the balcony to hear the recital.

Artists Guests at Luncheon.

Seated at the directors' table with Mrs. Pelouze and the artists for luncheon following the music were Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, whose cerise tunic over a black skirt made a pleasant dash of color among the somber coats and dresses that filled the ballroom; her daughter, Mrs. Bartholo-

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

MENTION was made in this space the other day in connection with the advertisment inserted in the want ad column by the Grant Wood studios of Cedar Rapids for a large pair of men's red flannel underwear, that even though the mail order catalogs had failed Artist Wood, it was surprising that Iowa attics should have done so. Clara Bauman writes from Liscomb, Ia.:

Era-marks—Popeye—Directions.

"Dad's red flannels have made many marvelous stripes in mother's braided rugs. They used to add variety to the landscape of the village back yards on Monday morning. . . . But now they've gone the way of the starched corset cover, the gauze vest, and the muslin umbrella pants—gathered on a band in the back, a pointed yoke in the front and full ruffles that formed the legs trimmed with rows of tucks and rick-racks."

* *

I MUST say I don't remember the muslin umbrella pants era, but I do remember Ferris waists, Peter Thompson suits [a white one for Sunday]; Buster Brown collars, beaver hats and black taffeta "raglan" coats with a broad lace collar. We carried our pumps to dancing school in a litle drawstring bag, and exchanged cups and saucers at birthday parties.

At the time I was wearing the Peter Thompsons, women were wearing high boned collars of Irish lace, the higher the more fashionable; willow plumes in their hats with a gold rose at the base; barettes to keep their hair neat at the neckline; corset covers trimmed with lace or embroidery, and stockings and corsets with their bathing suits. They were using Ideal perfume [the little satin lined boxes made marvelous coffins for dead birds when we played funeral]. They wore rings set with five turquoises or a diamond flanked by two pearls. [Later they put all their smaller diamonds into "dinner rings"]. They wore their watches pinned to their shirtwaists with fleur-de-lis pins; carried pillow muffs; the more frivolous ones hummed hits from "Mme. Sherry"; they played five hundred and bridge whist, collected souvenir spoons and joined Browning clubs.

* *

SHORTLY before Christmas Robert Cantwell III, of Oak Park handed his mother a list of canned goods he was to bring to school to put in Christmas baskets for the poor. Reading down the list, tomatoes, corn, and similar foodstuffs, she came to "Popeye."

"What in the world does 'popeye' mean?" she inquired.

"O, spinach, but I don't know how to spell it," explained her son.

"I'm strong at the finish, because I eat my spinach; I'm Popeye, the sailor man" [in case you don't know your movie features].

FROM the sales talk printed on the back of the toll slip enclosed in the telephone company's monthly statement:

But is this really necessary? inquires Harry Campbell.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Again W. C. Fields proves himself a really great comedian! Because, in "It's a Gift," he makes you feel so SORRY for him! True genius it is—to inspire smiles and tears at the same time!

As he goes dumbling and bumbling about, yapped at by his wife, railed at by his young daughter, tormented by his small son and qualifying as the general and particular goat of the community, your heart aches for him.

Harold Bissonette owns a small general store, but O, HOW he yearns to possess an orange grove in California!

Mrs. Bissonette doesn't want a grove. Daughter Mildred throws a fit every time California is mentioned—she not wishing to go away and leave her young man. Little Norman doesn't care what happens, but manages to contribute to his father's discomfort through the agencies of roller skates and tattling.

Comes a day when—none other than Dad Bissonette's prospective son-in-law!—sells him an orange grove! . . .

The trip west, and events attendant upon the arrival of the Bissonettes at the site that is to be their future home, occupy considerable footage and elicit a good deal of laughter from the audience.

The ending leaves Harold as happy as, you feel, he'll ever be—because, somehow, come what will, he seems destined to be just a wistful loner.

As a whole I don't find "It's a Gift" such hot entertainment. But I DID laugh in two places [mamma, how do you laugh in two places?] and I DID like Mr. Fields a lot.

See you tomorrow!

Sophisticated! That's a Word for New Prints

New Dance Dresses Leave Naive Far Behind.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Very sophisticated are the prints for new dinner and dance dresses, none of the old careless, rather naïve patterns or the demure floral effects this time. Now you wear hand blocked silks in some spectacular color contrasts such as chartreuse green and a grape purple with white, or a dull burnt orange tropical prints accented with deep sapphire blue.

The designers have offered some new ideas in the use of these prints. For instance, the very unusual Dutch model. The skirt is of big patterned soft silk, hand blocked with white and grape purple blossoms against a pale chartreuse background. The skirt is full and laid in wide pleats [not stitched down] at the natural waistline. The bodice top is entirely sleeveless with a waist deep slash at the back and almost as deep a one in front.

However, it ties tightly high around the neck and further emphasis is obtained with the top of dull white crêpe. With it is worn a pale green taffeta puffed sleeved jacket lined with the same color dull crêpe.

Another print is cut to cling tightly to the knees, then to flare in a deep swirling flounce. The background is a dramatic black with plenty of vivid green scarlet and yellow in effective designs splashed over the black. And what makes this dress as new as tomorrow is the stiffened under flounce of black net. You're going to see lots of under flounces in every color and contrast imaginable from now on.

Still another winner is a print of dull white patterned in rusty henna and deep blue with the flounce outlined in a deep blue band. Another with a white background has small sprays sprinkled in delectable shades of rosy red, pale yellow, and green, and all of them are made with long picturesque silhouettes and billowing knee flounces.

These are the most feminine and flattering creations of the new midwinter collections.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Some elegant new eye shadows that can do a great deal in providing a touch of glamor to a listless face have come to town. These are of a perfectly beautiful texture—moist and creamy and amenable to quick and easy spreading. As an extra touch of allure they're scented with a fine and famous perfume.

These shadows are the products of an old French house whose perfumes you've yerned for if not actually owned. The shades are something to write to Russia about, especially the three that have a metallic nuance. There are a blue and a green with a faint but beautiful touch of silver and a golden brown that is ravishing on brunettes. Then there are the straight shades, for daytime—a periwinkle blue, a dark blue, a medium, a green, and a straight brown.

You'll find these in shops all over town and we think you'll agree with us that they're something pretty special.

The return to the picturesque in fashions is probably responsible for the hair ornament vogue. Next time you've an hour to spare in the downtown shops look into the matter of these trifles. One of the smartest women in town, who wears her hair in a fringe, has done something clever with a plain band of rolled black velvet. It looks like a discreet little coronet.

The jeweled fripperies are all over the place. With these it isn't a matter so much of what you chose as how you choose to wear it. Clips may be worn fore or aft the ear, depending on how chic they look. And real flowers are having a terrific vogue, especially those heavenly pink camellias.

It's the year to go girlish.

RED STEFAN

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH.

SYNOPSIS.

Stephen Enderby, an Englishman, had lived as a boy on the large Russian estate of his stepfather, and grew up with a peasant couple and their large brood of children, until his mother got him an English tutor. When his mother died he went to live with his guardian in England. After the revolution in Russia, as Stefan Ivanovitch, he became a "secret observer" for England, adopting various peasant rôles to hide his identity. Now Stephen has inherited the fortune of his guardian and is anxious to quit his hazardous work. He is escaping out of Tronsk when he meets and rescues Elizabeth Radin. She is the widow of an executed engineer. Though English her husband was half Russian. She is flying from the advances of Commissar Petroff, who is also anxious to obtain from her a secret formula of her husband's. Stephen takes her with him and tells her his history. They stop at the home of the grandparents of the peasant children Stephen had grown up with, who believe Stephen to be one of their many grandchildren. Stephen tells them Elizabeth is his wife and her name is Varvara. Akulina dislikes the frail woman, as she does Irina, a beautiful communist friend of Stephen's. Irina wanted Stephen herself and resents Elizabeth. Stephen knows she might prove dangerous. He and Elizabeth must get away. They travel by sledge with Yuri to Tronsk. Irina has departed for a nearby collective farm, and Stephen has learned Petroff is there. Stephen leaves Elizabeth in a café and tells her to wait for him. Irina comes in with Petroff. Elizabeth gets away without their seeing her and meets Stephen outside. One of his communist friends has given him his room.

INSTALMENT XXI.

ESCAPE THWARTED.

Elizabeth was not really caring very much about Irina and her tempers. One thing that Stephen had said was giving her a curious thrill of surprise. He said they were feeling very important to themselves, and—this is where the thrill came in—it was true. At Stephen's words she became aware that she was alive, and not only alive but full of a vivid, vital interest in herself, and in Stephen, and in the world which surrounded them.

They turned another corner and went in at the door of a dark, forbidding house four stories high. None of the bare, blank windows showed any light. They climbed a black stair to the third story, where Stephen produced a key and unlocked the door which faced them. She heard him moving, but could see nothing until a match spurted and gave her his face suddenly like a picture in the dark. He was lighting a lamp, and in a moment the dull yellow glow showed a good sized room with a large window, a bed in the corner, and an old comfortable chair. A stove, which had been allowed to go out, still radiated a little heat, and to any one coming in from the street the room felt warm.

"Haven't I told you, Alexis, I'm not sure?" said Irina.

Stephen turned from the lamp and shut the door. He emptied his pockets and put on the table bread, tea, cheese, and a chunk of cold sausage, after which he set himself to stoke the stove, filled a kettle, and put it on to boil.

Elizabeth became aware that she was very hungry.

When they had eaten, Stephen went out. When he got up to go she got up, too, and stood in his way, one hand upon the door.

"What are we going to do?" she said.

"I don't know," said Stephen—"get away from here as soon as we can."

"How soon can we get away?"

"I don't think we could get away tonight," Stephen said. "I've got one or two things to see about. I hope you don't mind being left. It won't do for you to go out and risk being seen. I hope Irina didn't see you."

Then Stephen took both her hands in his and lifted them to his lips. He kissed first one and then the other. Then he let them go and ran out of the room and down the stairs.

He was in a state of extreme exhilaration as he came out into the cold street. He had held Elizabeth in his arms, and she had let him kiss her hands. Of course, holding her in his arms had been more or less of an accident, but if she had been offended, she wouldn't have let him kiss her hands. The question was, Had she let him kiss them, or had he just kissed them? A moment ago he had been sure; now he wasn't. After all, how could she have stopped him? He had just grabbed her hands and kissed them. It was a very disquieting thought, and he must be more careful another time. It would be horrible if Elizabeth were to think that she couldn't trust him.

He had got as far as this in his thoughts, when he heard Irina's voice. He had come the width of three houses from Boris Andreieff's lodging and he was just about to turn the corner, when from the other side of it he heard Irina speak his name. She said, "Stefan," and he did not wait to hear what else she said.

Irina being one of the two last persons on earth whom he desired to meet at this moment, he swung round and dived into the nearest doorway. It stood recessed under a half porch, and, flattening himself against the door with his face toward it, he waited for Irina to pass by.

She did not pass. She turned the corner, still talking, and there stood no more than a couple of yards away, the center of a group which, from their voices and the sounds of their feet, must consist of some half dozen men. The street was very dark.

He pressed against the door, wondered what Irina had been saying about him, and heard a man say:

"We're not to go in?"

Irina's voice answered him:

"No, no, of course not."

Another man said:

"I don't see why."

"Haven't I told you, Alexis, I'm not sure?" said Irina.

"I thought you said you were sure." Alexis sounded a little sulky.

Stephen could hear Irina stamp her foot on the snow.

"I am sure in myself—I have told you that! From the moment I first saw her I said to myself, 'There is something wrong there. Stefan is not the man to marry like that.' And when she could not tell me the name of her village, then I began to think, indeed. And when Comrade Petroff told me about the woman he was looking for, I was sure in myself that this Varvara must be the one, so we came here after them. Then, half an hour ago, when I met Vera and she told me she had seen Boris Andreieff at the station and that he said he had lent Stefan his room, I thought at once, 'Now we have her!' Only we mustn't run any risk. She must be watched so that she can't get away."

"But still I don't see why we are to wait outside," said Alexis.

Irina stamped her foot again.

"How many times am I to tell you that it is Comrade Petroff who must identify her? You will wait on the stairs and see that she does not go out. As soon as you are there I will go for Petroff. If she is not the woman he is looking for there is no harm done—we have only paid a friendly call upon our friends, Stefan and his wife. If she is the woman, then Petroff can deal with her."

"But still I don't see——" began Alexis.

Irina interrupted him furiously.

"Do you want Stefan to break your head? He probably will if he's at home. It might be better for you not to be in such a hurry. He doesn't like being interfered with, you know."

"If it comes to head breaking, a bullet can do more damage than a fist." This was a dry voice that had not spoken till now.

They were armed. It was, of course, to be expected, but it was a death warant to any hope of getting Elizabeth away.

Alexis was saying,

"But if she is a counter-revolutionary——"

"There's no need to get your head broken until Petroff has said what she is," said Irina. "You stay on the stair till he comes. Once Stefan knows what she is, he will be on our side. He's a good communist. It is the woman who has deceived him!"

The feet moved on, tramping the snow. The voices became fainter and were lost.

Ten years in the secret service trains a man to think rapidly and to make lightning decisions. Before the sound of the tramping feet had died away Stephen knew what he must do. He began to run in the direction from which Irina and her friends had come. Irina would not run. She would go with the men as far as the door of Boris' lodging. There would probably be a little more talk. Alexis would almost certainly delay the proceedings still further. Irina rarely missed any opportunity of holding forth. It might be another five minutes before she would start to fetch Petroff. In any case he could count on getting there first. He spared no time to wonder what he would have done if he had not known where Petroff lodged. He did know, and the knowledge was to save them.

Dancer Given Dramatic Role in Second Film

James Barton Opposite Helen Mack

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—James Barton, a tap dancer gone dramatic, is taking the part of Capt. Zenas Henry Brewster in the Cape Cod story, "Captain Hurricane," at Radio studio. To look at Barton, who recently starred in "Tobacco Road" on the New York stage, one never would think of him as a young man whose claim to notice was that of a tap dancer.

As Capt. Brewster, elderly confidant of the orphaned girl played by Helen Mack in the current film story, Barton has to portray tenderness, love, determination, hate, and if you ever saw an expressive set of chin whiskers it is the set with which Barton helps demonstrate these emotions. It is the actor's second motion picture appearance, and he has a rôle which dominates the Cape Cod story.

Ed and Victor Halperin, the Chicago brothers who turned movie producers after leaving college about 15 years ago, are shortly launching a new independent film producing company with more formidable financial backing than any similar independent venture has been able to capture since the depression.

Polly Walters' second venture into movies lasted for only two days of shooting, and the girl who clicked in the New York stage run of "She Loves Me Not" is now on her way back to New York and the stage. Paramount brought her out here last Friday to play with George Raft, Ben Bernie, and Grace Bradley as second lead in "Stolen Harmony." Grace Bradley was the lead.

During shooting last Saturday Miss Walters had the only dressing room on the set, while Grace Bradley sat around on a chair, but even at that it was Miss Walters who became dissatisfied while Miss Bradley took things in stride.

Yesterday it was agreed by Director Al Werker, the studio, and Miss Walters that she would not continue in the picture, and Goodie Montgomery, daughter of Dave Montgomery [Montgomery and Stone], gets the vacated part. Goodie Montgomery had a contract with Fox about three years ago, but nothing came of it. Polly Walters also had a former film contract, staying about a year with Warner Brothers, during which she played chiefly telephone girl rôles because of her interesting voice.

Mae West worked yesterday and this morning, but called a halt on her production "Now I'm a Lady" at Paramount at noon to attend funeral services for her father, Jack West, former boxer, who died at Oakland, Cal., last Sunday. Funeral services were conducted here by Father Peter Corcoran and interment will be in Brooklyn, N. Y., in a cemetery lot where Miss West's mother was buried three years ago.

Helen Hayes has left with her 5 year old daughter, Mary MacArthur, for an automobile tour of California starting with a trip to Boulder dam, then through the snows of Sequoia and Yosemite National parks, and a look about San Francisco.

Days of Swooning Debutantes Recalled by Herma Clark

Those quaint days when debutantes solemnly painted roses on coal scuttles and tied ribbons on whiskbrooms, when they blushed easily and swooned frequently, lived again yesterday in the illustrated talk on "The Elegant Eighties" given by Miss Herma Clark of THE TRIBUNE staf in the art linen room at Marshall Field's. Scenes and personalities of the Chicago of that day were shown.

In the coterie of well known Chicago women whose families have been identified with the city for generations, who recognized themselves or members of their families on the screen, were Mrs. John G. Shedd, Mrs. William J. Chalmers, Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, Mrs. Eugene Wheeler, Mrs. Sewell Avery, Mrs. William S. Sage, and Mrs. Mary Pomeroy Green.

They Tried "Moist-Throat" Method!

"NEXT DAY OUR COUGHS WERE GONE!"

"Jackie and I coughed our heads off," says Mrs. F. Fernandes, Providence, R. I. "Doctor said 'Pertussin.' Next day our coughs were gone!"

WHEN you catch cold, sticky mucus clogs your throat's moisture glands. That's because the healthy secretions of these glands have thickened or dried. Your throat feels raw—tickly—you cough. To relieve coughing, you must "unclog" these glands and so moisten the throat. PERTUSSIN does just that. Sticky phlegm loosens. Relief—quick. Get a bottle now.

Spent Youth in Care of Others; Now She's Alone

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She's 33. The man is almost 50. She never married because of a dependent mother and invalid brother whose sole support she was. This man of 50 is well to do. She knows she will be provided for most comfortably. The man, it appears, has been in love with her for years.

He tells her that was why he never married. She was unaware of the devotion, however. He knew of her obligations all along and how she'd met them. She likes him—but that's all. If she sees him, it's all right. If she doesn't, it's all right, too.

The difference in their ages she raises as a possible barrier. Not that she feels so young and skittish, but because she hasn't a deeper affection for the man. If she cared deeply, missed the man when he is away, she'd feel she was giving him a fairer break in marrying him, and that compromise with his age would be easier.

It is a bit of a stickler, at that! For a conscientous person, which "Emily" is, no doubt. She's one of the kind who must give full measure for measure received. That's probably, Emily, because you've always given more.

Your marriage offer would seem to this old reader of it as a happy denouement to your years of sacrifice. It's nice indeed to hear of one being rewarded in promise of care after one has spent her youth looking out for others. It's pretty nice to be assured the security of a home and the admiration of a devoted man.

Personally, Emily, we'd like to see you taken over and babied and cared for and spoiled with luxury. A man who stood by for years waiting to take over the care of you, Emily, would seem a pretty safe investment. The age difference isn't whopping at your time of life. Security and a happy companionship should mean more than a passion that would sweep you off your feet.

But then, there are those who argue that women who marry for security without love are fools. So, who can advise you what to do but your very own self?

Historical Society.

"The Silent Enemy," a motion picture, and "Pilgrim Days," a travelog, will be shown in the auditorium of the Chicago Historical society on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The museum of the society will be open from 1 to 6 o'clock.

Natural Line of Eyebrows Is Best for Girls

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I've been after the young girls the last few days about their bad posture and about the way they walk. Yesterday I mentioned their excessive use of makeup—eye makeup particularly. Today I'd like to address a few extra remarks to them about their eyebrows and complexion.

I do wish there was a law against girls under 21 plucking out their eyebrows. Unless, of course, the brows were extremely bushy and met between the eyes. I see what would be such cute, cute faces, pert little noses, lovely fresh young eyes and that superlatively lovely contour of cheek and jawline common to youth. But the whole picture is marred with eyebrow tampering.

I can't imagine the reason for the wholesale destruction of that fine natural eyebrow. Why the grotesque designing such as I noted the other day? The brow was obviously plucked to begin a quarter of an inch further in than nature had originally designed. Then there was a "brush" of hair, the line immediately thereafter trailing off to a drawn-out cat whisker. Thin as that. Frequently you see the whole line no heavier than a line drawn in by a sharp pencil.

I suspect the idea is to look sophisticated—a common urge of youth. But no really sophisticated woman of the world would be found mutilating her eyebrows that way. She'd be far too aware of their decorative value for that.

Then, there is the complexion matter. If you must pile all that stuff on, for goodness sake take it off before you go to bed! Every bit of it, mascara, lip and cheek rouge, and powder. Go to bed with the face clean, or you're going to be in for complexion trouble later, mark you. Yours is the age of greatest susceptibility to blackhead and pimple formation. Keep that face clean! Scrub it clean daily!

Wash it often with soap and water: rinse it in warm water, flush it thoroughly with cold. Then, if you insist upon using the cosmetics, it won't be so bad. But neglect that under makeup cleanliness and you're almost bound to be a complexion blemish victim.

Presbyterian Moderator Will Speak Here Sunday

The Rev. Dr. William Chalmers Covert of Philadelphia, moderator of the Presbyterian church in the United States, will address the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall next Sunday. Empty Your Gall Bladder

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars!

Sleepless nights, dog-tired days, headaches, pains in all parts of the body—indigestion—gas. Do you suffer from one or all?

And have you tried every medicine under the sun, only to find yourself back where you started?

No wonder, for you, like thousands of others have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. Get at the unsuspected cause—your gall bladder. If sluggish, it won't pour into your small intestines the most important digestive juice necessary for neutralising gastric acid, quickening digestion and disinfecting the intestinal tract. If this juice doesn't flow freely, then your food sours, putrifies, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From the world's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant means to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life. Magnesia Oxoids, little white tablets that release pure oxygen. This amazing oxygen—purer than the air you breathe—plus magnesia, gently stimulates the gall bladder, neutralises burning acidity and sweeps that poison-packed bowel clean.

Take two Oxoids after each meal—and before retiring—drink plenty of water—put your gall bladder to work—and you'll jump out of your skin for joy. Such new health! Such robust vigor! Get Magnesia Oxoids today from your druggist.—Advertisement.

may Osborne, who looked very dashing in an American Beauty corded wool suit with sable furs; Mrs. Frederick Stock, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Miss Marion Kerby, and Mrs. William Spencer. Mrs. Schmidt and Mrs. Madlener both wore black, the former with green orchids and the latter with gardenias. They all went on to the symphony concert after luncheon.

Mrs. John R. Hurley and Mrs. Eugene Cary Jr., two of the more youthful members of the audience, also were concert bound. Mrs. Daniel Peterkin Jr. crocheted as she listened to Rachmaninoff, Mendelssohn, Tschaikowsky, Edward Harris, and Strauss. A novel wooden covering kept the ball of yarn clean.

Mrs. George Cragg was there with her new daughter-in-law, Mrs. Henry Cragg, a pretty young bride with red hair and a southern accent.

American Opera Luncheon Today.

An affair of social and musical interest today will be the meeting and luncheon of the American Opera Society of Chicago to be held at the Arts club at 11 o'clock. Excerpts from Rossiter G. Cole's opera, "Maypole Dancers," will be given, and the David Bispham medal will be awarded to Mr. Cole.

John Lawrence Seymour, who is on his way to New York, where his opera, "In the Pasha's Garden," will be given at the Metropolitan on Jan. 21, will be an especial guest today. Miss Emily Larned is president of the society.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. Arch W. Shaw have been waiting all winter for a lull in social activities so that they could find a free day on which to give a tea for the Phillips' daughter-in-law and the Shaws' daughter-in-law-to-be, Mrs. Talcott Griswold, Jessie Beach Crane until her marriage last summer, and Miss Catharine Noyes, whose engagement to Roger Dustin Shaw was announced last spring, are the young ladies for whom the tea will be given on Friday, Jan. 25, at the Casino.

The Society of Midland Authors is giving a dinner party Friday night for its new honorary member, Prof. James Taft Hatfield, and the only other honorary member of the society, Miss Jane Addams. Henry Justin Smith and Lorado Taft will be the speakers at the dinner, which is to be at Le Petit Gourmet.

William Montgomery McGovern is president of the society and Arthur Meeker Jr. is vice president.

Woman's Exchange Plans Fire Sale.

Before long the Woman's exchange will be having a fire sale, for although there was no fire in the attractive little shop on North Michigan avenue, just opposite the Drake hotel, there was much damage due to smoke from the fire in the florist's shop next door. Temporarily the exchange is carrying on business—serving light luncheons, too—in room 24 of the same building in which the shop is located.

Mrs. Philip Reed, president of the exchange, is going away the end of February, but she hasn't decided yet whether she will go to California or Florida.

Mrs. Lynden Evans has issued invitations for a tea from 4:30 to 5:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Adams house on the campus of the School of Domestic Arts and Science. A special guest will be Miss Isabel Bevier. Some of the hostesses assisting Mrs. Evans will include Mrs. Charles S. Williamson, Mrs. James B. Herrick, Mrs. Fremont A. Chandler, and Mrs. William S. Monroe.

An engagement of interest along the north shore is that of Miss Barbara Reynolds Tanner to John Douglas Hastings, which is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tanner Jr. of Evanston. Mr. Hastings is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Hastings, also of Evanston.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Foster Clark of Evanston and Oak Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances, to R. Wells Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Simmons of Kenilworth. Miss Clark is a graduate of Northwestern university. Mr. Simmons is a graduate of Kenyon college.

Alfred H. Turner announces the engagement of his daughter, Mary Luise, to H. Spencer Schwarz of 7065 Hilldale avenue, Rogers Park.

GIRL'S DRESS.

Printed wool crêpes are becoming to school girls and are well liked by them. This dress, made in a navy and red coloring and plain navy trim, will surely delight any girl. In wash materials, one of the Scotch plaided ginghams, or a cotton broadcloth, it will make up well. Printed challis, tweedy cottons, or percales are other suggestions.

The pattern, No. 3326, comes in sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years.

Little Known Places Goals of This Cruise

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

The winter's holiday whirl may have provided an abundance of excitement for debutante Fanny McPherson and popular Joan Everett, but it's nothing to equal the adventure that awaits them the next three months in far off corners of the world.

With her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson of Winnetka, and Victor Elting, a north shore neighbor, Miss McPherson is sailing from New York on Jan. 22 on the Stella Polaris for lands where natives still dress in tattooes and bows and arrows are the instruments of defense. Miss Everett and her mother, Mrs. John C. Everett, whose residence is at the Churchill, will be passengers on the same boat.

The trip sounds as if it had been inspired by Sindbad the Sailor. In fact one of the ports of call will be Basra, now a principal city in the kingdom of Iraq, from which Sindbad sailed on his fabulous voyages. In its rivers and canals Basra suggests Venice, but its date palms and mosques have more the appearance of the far east.

For the most part the cruise, planned by Raymond-Whitcomb, is a voyage to the frontiers of civilization where travelers are almost unknown. It will be, it is claimed, the first cruise ever to touch Persia despite its time honored background of poets and philosophers.

After sailing through the Panama canal the Stella Polaris will call first at Cocos Island, a veritable "treasure island," where as late as 1820 a dastardly Capt. Thompson brought $12,000,000 worth of plate and jewels and coin that the panic-stricken residents of Lima, Peru, had intrusted to him.

The mysterious Galapagos Islands that have figured recently in the news and take their name from a giant tortoise once plentiful there, will be a second stop before the cruise moves on into the South seas. After long, languid days in the five great groups known as the Marquesas, Society Islands, Cook Islands, Samoan Islands, and Fiji Islands, the vacationists will have a better appreciation of the South seas portrayed by Melville and Stevenson.

Putting in at Papeete, principal city of Tahiti, early in the afternoon of Feb. 15, it will be a wonder if the William Allen Robinsons [Florence Crane] and the Cornelius Cranes are not at the dock to welcome the Chicago members of the party. The Robinsons are spending three months in Tahiti's intoxicating charm and young Mr. and Mrs. Crane are going to join them the end of this month.

After the South seas there will be the East Indies, Bali, Java, the glorious Vale of Kashmir, Persepolis that Darius and Xerxes built, and gay Monte Carlo of easy money and precarious fortunes, the final port of call.

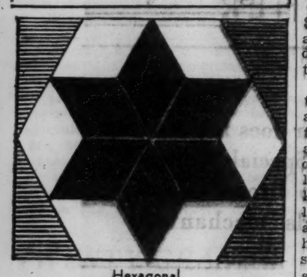
East Indian New Guinea in its 312,000 square miles is reputed to be the least known land in the habitable world. Its natives are darker than those of the Pacific with huge mops of frizzy hair and slit noses. At Port Moresby and Merauke, where the Stella Polaris calls, the tattooed natives will put on a festival for the cruise party. Sumatra still preserves the ancient custom of the matriarchate, in which descent and inheritance are in the female line.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Markin of 7 West 81st street, New York City, formerly of Chicago, announce the marriage of their daughter, Josephine, to Charles Joseph Simon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Simon of Long Beach, N. Y., on Jan. 6 at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. Dr. Samuel Levenson of Temple Beth Emeth performed the ceremony, which was followed by a reception. Mr. and Mrs. Simon will be at home at 353 West 56th street, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. V. D. Simons of 2231 East 67th street announce the marriage of their daughter, Charlotte, to Paul Hoierman on Dec. 22 at the Church of the Redeemer. The Rev. John Henry Hopkins, rector emeritus, assisted by the Rev. E. S. White, performed the ceremony. Mrs. Hoierman has had grand opera experience in Europe and with the Philadelphia company, and made her debut in Chicago with the San Carlo Opera company last October.

Closely Set Blocks Create Pretty Design



Hexagonal.

By NANCY CABOT.

Another favorite old pattern is the "hexagonal" block, composed of parallelograms, diamonds, and triangles. The quilt from which this particular design was made was set together as an all-over pieced quilt, block set to block to form a continuous pattern. The materials may be a combination of print and plain materials, or all print or all plain. The pattern is intriguing to the novice and affords great pleasure to the experienced quilt maker.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

"Two hearts."
"Two spades."
"Three clubs."
"I double!"

Which is all most exciting as far as the cards go, but what are you going to do about food at the bridge party? Smart hostesses this year are more certain than ever that they don't want to spend a couple of rubbers in the kitchen stirring up the refreshments. And waistline watchers are busy between hands, praying that their hostess of the evening isn't going to embarrass them with a four course supper and hundreds of calories for their already too, too solid flesh.

But though quantity isn't desirable, deliciousness and novelty most certainly are. In fact, the gay thing about these contract get togethers is that single fancy dishes, which are just too much when served with many other foods, may here have their innings in one or two course menus and be appreciated all by themselves.

These three little lunches which follow require a minimum of last minute hurrying about, yet are guaranteed to produce a grand slam and a barrage of compliments.

ANGEL FOOD LAYER CAKE.

1 recipe angel food cake
1 cup whipping cream
½ glass currant jelly
Bananas, sliced thin

Prepare the batter for your best angel food cake. Have ready two circles of waxed paper cut to fit exactly your tube or angel cake pan. Pour into the pan 1-3 of the batter, smooth it off, and cover it with one of the papers. Pour in another third and cover it with the second circle. Add the rest of the batter and bake as usual. When cooled the layers will separate easily. Just before serving, whip the cream until stiff and fold into it the jelly, which has been beaten until frothy. Spread this over the first layer and cover the filling with thin slices of banana. Add the second layer of cake, spreading it with filling and more bananas. Put the third layer in place and cover the top and sides of the cake with the filling, garnishing it with the rest of the banana slices. Cut in wedges or slices and serve.

HOT MUSHROOM SANDWICH.

2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 medium tin cream of mushroom soup
Thin slices of meat
Slices of bread
1 hard cooked egg
Minced parsley

Blend the melted butter with the flour, cooking gently for a minute over a low heat. Add the soup and cook until smooth and thick. Cut the crusts from the bread slices, then toast each on one of its sides. Place the meat [chicken, veal, beef, or pork] between the untoasted sides. Arrange each sandwich on a separate plate and pour over it some of the mushroom sauce. Press the yolk and white of the egg through a sieve, sprinkling it over the sauce. Top each with bits of minced parsley and serve hot. On this same plate should go potato chips, or serve a small helping of fruit salad instead.

PEANUT BUTTER FUDGE.

2 cups sugar
½ cup milk
¾ cup peanut butter
1 tablespoon vinegar

Mix together the sugar, milk, peanut butter, and vinegar. Boil slowly until a few drops in cold water form a firm ball [236 degrees F.]. Cook until lukewarm, then beat until creamy. Pour into a buttered pan and cut into squares.

INDIVIDUAL SANDWICH LOAVES.

For each loaf use three slices of bread cut 2½x4 inches. Spread the first buttered slice with chopped pickles. Add the second buttered slice and cover this with chopped ham blended with minced pickles and mayonnaise. Add the third slice, unbuttered, and press all three together. Spread over the stack a thin layer of cream cheese blended with a little tomato catsup. Garnish the top with a slice of stuffed olive and radiating "petals" of sweet pickle slivers.

MINT MEAT TARTS A LA MODE.

Prepare a fairly rich pastry and roll it thin. Cut into rounds and fit each of these into a small greased and floured cup cake pan. Spread the inside of the pastry cups with melted butter, then fill with mince meat. Arrange narrow strips of pastry across the top of each in lattice fashion, then press the ends of the strips down around the edges of the cup with a fork dipped in flour. Bake in a hot oven [450 degrees F.] for 15 minutes. Cool slightly and turn the tarts out onto individual dessert plates. Just before serving drop a small ball of ice cream on the top of each.

Gains of 15 to 20 lbs. in few short weeks are reported regularly with Kelpamalt the new mineral concentrate from the sea which gets right down to the cause of thin, underweight conditions and adds weight "2 ways in 1." First its natural minerals help produce digestive juices that alone enable you to digest the fats and starches, the weight-making elements in food. Second, Kelpamalt's NATURAL IODINE regulates the internal glands which control metabolism—the process of converting digested food into firm flesh, new strength and energy. 3 tablets contain more iron and copper than 1 lb. of spinach or 7½ lbs. of fresh tomatoes; more calcium than 6 eggs; more phosphorus than 1½ lbs. carrots; more NATURAL IODINE than 1600 lbs. of beef. Try Kelpamalt for a week. You'll be delighted with results.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

ADVANCE TREATMENT OF THE KING-SHOWING WHICH CAN FOLLOW A THREE BID.

If the bidding I am now going to describe to you seems complicated or difficult or hard to memorize, forget about it and use only the methods dealt with so far in these articles. However, if you see the logic and order of what I am about to explain, if you grasp the principle securely, so that the methods of applying it seem to you natural, inevitable, unforgettable, then I can offer you a supplementary method of slam bidding after an opening three bid which will eliminate nearly all the few "blind spots" and enable you to bid for some otherwise awkward, small and especially, grand slams with almost uncanny accuracy. Let's go.

These points must be definitly established before we go into details:

First. This bidding procedure applies only after the responding hand has made a bid which makes it clear that he has no further ace to show. For instance, if his first response has been three no trumps or [if clubs are not trumps] four clubs, or if the three bid was made in clubs, three diamonds, or if, after showing an ace, he has made a second bid denying any further ace. It is vital that there be no risk that opener should think that the responder is showing an ace when he is actually showing a king.

Second. The opener has this responsibility: When he probes for a king, possession of that king by responder must definitly eliminate a loser from opener's hand. The exception would be if he already had a sure slam in his own hand and were merely messing about with the idea of coaxing a double.

Third. The procedure about to be explained can take place only when responder has more than one king. These points being clearly understood, the responding hand may now INCLUDE THE KING OF SPADES IN ONE BID TOGETHER WITH A CALLED-FOR MINOR SUIT KING and save a round of bidding under the following circumstances:

If your partner probes for a king which you possess and that suit is lower in rank than the trump suit [the trump suit is always the suit in which the three bid was made] and you also possess the king of a suit higher in rank than the trump suit, then you should BID THE HIGHER KING BECAUSE BY DOING SO YOU ARE BIDDING BOTH KINGS IN ONE BID. This applies only to three bids in hearts, because a minor suit three bid has from the start an extra round of bidding to utilize, being destined by the opening bid to a contract of at least five. Let us think a hand aloud, then you will easily see the principle.

Sp. K x x	Di. x x x x
Ht. x x x	Cl. K x x

Opening bid, three hearts. With above hand you naturally say three no trumps. Your partner now bids four clubs, calling for the king. You now reason as follows: "I have the desired king and I now know, since my partner has called for it, that it is no duplication; it definitly eliminates a loser for him and makes the hand as safe at five hearts as it was originally at four. THE RIGHT BID NOW IS FOUR SPADES.

I can therefore afford to drive my partner to the five level; I can bid four spades, making it unnecessary for him to probe for that king in case it would help him. This will leave him free to probe for the king of diamonds if he cares to, since he can now do so by bidding five diamonds, which still permits me to sign off at five hearts."

Obviously you must not bid four spades if you have the kings of spades and diamonds, but not that of clubs. By doing so you would force him to get as high as five hearts; that may very probably be an impossible contract; both these kings may be useless to him. You may wreck the hand and cause him to go down a trick by driving him to five through bidding a card which may well be entirely useless. Only when you possess a card he has called for can you know that the hand is safe at five and thus make a bid which inevitably drives it to five. To resume:

"The responder is known to possess no unbid ace; opener probes for a king. If responder now bids, not that king, but the king of a suit higher in rank than the trump suit, he is positively showing both the king that has been called for and also the king of the suit he bids."

The Reformed 'Southpaw' May Change Back

Use of Left Hand Assures Him Mental Poise.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Two purposes are behind today's article. It will, I hope, emphasize to parents and teachers the vital importance of not changing a child's handedness. And it will give a definite answer to those who are wondering how they can correct the unfortunate results of this forcing.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I read your article on the problem of the left handed child in the Sunday paper and it interested me exceedingly, inasmuch as the instances you state have been exemplified in my particular case.

"Until the age of 10 I was a normal, left-handed child. At that age my playmates ridiculed my left handedness when playing ball, so I forced myself to use my right hand instead. Since then, as I recall it, I have never felt normal, especially in speech. Up to this very day I become nervous when speaking and do so hesitatingly, suggestive of stammering.

"Your article has set me thinking that perhaps I could regain my mental poise by again cultivating the use of my left hand only. Right now I use both hands equally well [ambidextrous]. I am 25. Do you think it is too late?"

A prominent speech pathologist, who is director of a speech clinic doing outstanding work, was kind enough to give me the following detailed advice for such cases as the one quoted.

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: The right cerebral hemisphere, as expressed through the left hand, was your strongest and most dominant side of the brain. At the age of 10 you began to develop the left cerebral hemisphere. This being the unnatural one, complex activities such as speech and steady nervous control, your nervous system began to operate under a competitive control of both hemispheres. For speech and smooth nervous activity one side of the brain only must be dominant. The shift in your handedness equalized both sides of your nervous system, thus causing your discomfort in speech and general emotional stability.

"In order to undo the harm already done I would advise you to return to strict left handedness, which in turn will mean strict unilaterality of nervous organization. Your present state of ambidexterity is not conducive to smooth action of bilateral muscles. Your speech function was, up until the age of 10, highly developed in the right hemisphere, and it would be best to give speech its former place in your nervous system. This you can do by going back entirely to the left side in all motor activities."

For those who would like a more simply expressed explanation, we have a fully written leaflet called "The Left-Handed Child in a Right-Handed World."

It will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

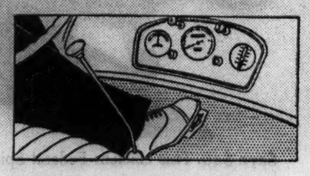
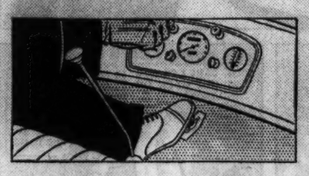
TRY THIS BETTER WAY OF STARTING YOUR CAR IN EXTREMELY COLD WEATHER

Automobile makers recommend this method of starting in cold weather, except for cars with automatic starters. Try it for a quick, easy start without danger of "flooding" by too much choking.

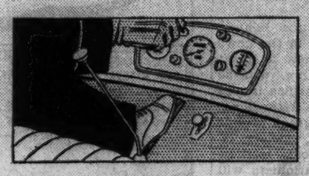
1. Leave ignition OFF. Pull choke out all the way. Push down your clutch pedal and keep it down.



2. Open hand-throttle one-third. Leaving ignition OFF, step on starter for several motor revolutions.



3. Push choke back in. Turn ignition on. Step on starter. Motor should fire instantly.*



4. Warm up motor gradually. Use choke sparingly, only enough to get smooth firing.

If your motor does not start instantly on Special Winter-Blend Conoco Bronze Gasoline, it needs mechanical service.

DETROIT WHIPS HAWKS, 2 TO 1, BEFORE 8,500

MARQUETTE IS BEATEN, 23-20, BY NOTRE DAME

Elser and Peters Lead Attack.

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Last minute work by Don Elser and a new found ability to collect free throws enabled Notre Dame to defeat Marquette, 23 to 20, before 5,800 fans tonight.

MARTY PETERS.

Elser, who was rushed into the game with five minutes of play remaining, broke up a 19 to 19 deadlock with his free throw on Cy Rubado's foul. Jimmy Rasmusen tied the score at 20-all on George Ireland's foul.

Then Elser slipped a clever backward pass under his right arm to Marty Peters, the latter scoring under the basket. Elser added a conclusive free throw to the total on Rasmusen's fourth and last foul just before the final gun.

Free Throws Decide It.

Peters led the scoring with twelve points. Capt. Ray Morstadt, Marquette forward, took runner up honors in the scoring with eight points.

Outscored from the field, Notre Dame made 9 of its 12 free throws, by far its best performance of the year in this department. Marquette made only 4 out of 11.

The lead changed hands three times in the first half. With 12 minutes gone, however, Johnny Jordan, Notre Dame guard, sank a free throw on Al Ehrig's foul to put Notre Dame ahead, 9 to 8. Notre Dame was never again headed, taking a 13 to 8 advantage at the half on Peters' two baskets.

Peters and Morstadt staged a personal duel early in the second half, Peters making four points and Morstadt five. But with the score 15 to 13 and again at 19 all, Morstadt failed to score on double free throws.

ELECT SULLIVAN

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Joe Sullivan will lead the Notre Dame football team from his left tackle post in 1935. He is the first Irish captain Notre Dame has had since 1930, when Tom Conley, present assistant coach, led the team. Johnny Law, captain of the 1929 team, also was Irish.

Announcement of Sullivan's election was made today. He failed to win a monogram his sophomore year when he was understudy to Ed [Moose] Krause, but last season he took over the varsity job and played 361 minutes, 12 minutes less than Rocco Schiralli, who led the team in this department.

Sullivan was one of the outstanding prep athletes ever produced in greater New York. He was captain of St. John's football team in Brooklyn in 1930 and 1931 and was national interscholastic indoor and national Catholic shot put champion.

He is the son of a New York policeman and cousin of Andrew Kelly, Holy Cross track star, who won the world and Olympic 400 meter championships in 1924.

MACK PRAISES RUTH'S PLAY IN CHICAGO STOP

Connie Mack was in Chicago yesterday en route home from his baseball junket in the orient with Babe Ruth, et al. The veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics gave out the same interview that he has voiced in each of his stops in Japan, China and several western American cities, that is, that Babe Ruth still is a great ball player and that he will make a good manager for some major league ball club, other than the Athletics.

Mr. Mack spoke at length of the enthusiasm of the Japanese for baseball, both as spectators and players, and told of the hero worship showered on the Babe in every city visited.

LOTT, STOEFEN IN PRO TENNIS DEBUT TONIGHT

Full Garden to See Match with Tilden, Vines.

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Professional tennis moves into Madison Square Garden tomorrow night with an all-star cast and ticket sales indicate a capacity house.

George Lott of Chicago and Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles, the world's outstanding doubles team, are making their professional debut against Ellsworth Vines and William Tilden in a series of three matches. The advance sale has eclipsed even that of a year ago, when Vines made his first appearance under the banner of Promoter Bill O'Brien against Tilden. The promoter announced this afternoon that $18,000 worth of tickets had been sold.

The fame of Lott and Stoefen as a doubles combination is responsible in large part for the heavy demand for accommodations. As the combination that kept the United States in the running for the Davis cup last year after the first two singles matches had been lost, first against Australia and then against England, and as the winners of the British title in 1934 and the American championship for the last two years, the Chicagoan and his tall partner from Los Angeles stand as the premier exponents of the doubles game the world over.

Should Be a Battle.

Matched against two such hitters as Tilden and Vines, the national indoor and outdoor champions will need to capitalize their team play to the utmost. The doubles contest holds the favored position on the program, following the opening singles match.

First Tilden will play Lott in singles starting at 8:30, and at approximately 9:30 the doubles will start in the final. Vines will engage Stoefen in singles. The fact that Vines has been playing the finest tennis of his career also accounts in part for the great interest the matches have aroused.

The young Californian, whose speed amazed Wimbledon when he won the championship there in 1932, recently won two big professional tournaments abroad and Tilden declared on his return that no player in the world could hold off Vines in the form he showed in Europe.

Troupe Tours 72 Cities.

Partly because of the fact that Vines and Tilden have had far more experience indoors and on the canvas type of court on which the matches will be held tomorrow than have Lott and Stoefen, the former are favored to win the two singles matches. Their experience, too, may bring them through in the doubles in the opening program of the tour, which will take in 72 cities, but few can conceive of Lott and Stoefen losing in doubles.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

OUR INTERVIEW.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 8.—This was the fateful day in our quest for a movie position. So, at 8 o'clock we appeared at the Fox offices, where Francis Perrett, once of Menominee, Mich., had promised to take us over for our interview with Harry Lachman, director, once of La Salle, Ill. Francis thought we better wait a little until things settled down a bit, so we visited a while, then went over to the set where "Dante's Inferno" is being produced.

Perhaps Director Lachman did not relish being interrupted, but he was cordial enough on the surface as he looked us over appraisingly while Francis explained our mission.

"Ever been on the stage?" he asked.

"Yes," we replied modestly. "I appeared in grand opera at the Auditorium in Chicago when a freshman at the University of Chicago."

"What did you do, sing?"

"Well, no," we answered. "I suppose I was what would be called a super, although it was more than that. Because of my height I was one of the dignitaries in the wedding scene in 'Lohengrin' and, all bewhiskered up, carried a banner in the wedding march."

"Success?"

"I'll say I was," we replied enthusiastically. "I brought down the house. Mounting the church steps I tripped on my priestly robes or whatever they were and stumbled through the doorway into the church."

"Anything else?" he asked in a tone which caused us to answer dubiously. "Well, I was in the ensemble scene in 'Die Meistersinger.'" Thinking we might as well start our film career, if any, with frankness and honesty, we added: "Myself and three other chaps carried the big wooden loaf of bread denoting we were bakers in that gathering of the crafts. However, when we leaned forward to hear the baritone singing to the heroine the wooden bread slipped and fell on the stage with a loud thud. The audience clapped so long they had to ring down the curtain and start the scene over again."

"Well, we've been working on this picture since the second week in December and our comedy rôles are pretty well filled, but we might use you in some mob scene."

We looked at him in horror, thinking of our neighbors of the First Methodist church in Evanston, so we protested, "But I don't think I'd like to appear in anything obscene." You see we had misunderstood his enunciation.

"I didn't say obscene. I said mob scene," Mr. Lachman answered with some asperity. "Please understand I direct only clean pictures." We thought that was very nice of him, and it's what we'd heard in advance, so we purpose to write Will Hays about it.

Just then some one shouted, "We're ready to shoot." I feared it might be us for taking up so much of the director's time, but it was the first camera men about to begin work.

As Director Lachman left for his duties he said, "Come over to the set Friday and we'll see if we can find a place for you among the seven thirtys."

We didn't know what "seven thirtys" meant, but feared it might be to report a half hour early before the usual 8 o'clock reporting time. Inquiry revealed, however, that it meant an "extra." They are paid $7.50 per day when they work if they have no lines, so perhaps the first day we're not to have a speaking part.

For information of Wake readers, we've been exposed to no temptations yet. While a bit disappointed, we'll continue to be cautious and wary. More anon.

California Impressions.

The Wake has been so busy with horses, footballers and Hollywood that we haven't got around to California impressions yet, but they will follow. There's been only one earthquake since our arrival. It occurred one morning while we were shaving, but it was such a mild temblor we didn't even cut ourself while shaving. These mild ones are quite satisfactory so far as we're concerned, and we ask for nothing bigger and better.

BEARS ARRIVE ON COAST TO BATTLE GIANTS, CARDS

Squad Dines with Legion, Then Takes Drill.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 8.—Stopping long enough to wash up after their train ride and grab a lunch of lamb chops as guests of the local American Legion, the Chicago Bears rushed to Loyola High school field shortly after their arrival in Los Angeles today and began practice for their coast series of professional football games against the New York Giants and Chicago Cardinals.

Meanwhile, the Cardinals, who have been here for three weeks, defeating the best pro lineups that Southern California has been able to throw against them, marked time and did a bit of leisurely drill in another part of town.

Bears Seek Revenge.

The Bears, who netted $18,000 on their football invasion of Los Angeles and San Francisco last January, hope to pack a lot of coast greenbacks in their wallets before they go back to the mid-west next month, but first and most acute with them, according to Manager-Owner George Halas, is the revenge motif.

The Bears want to demonstrate that it was a mistake in New York last month when the Giants overcame the Chicago team's commanding early lead and romped off with the National Pro Football league championship by defeating Halas' team, 30 to 13.

In the meantime, the Chicago Cardinals are looking for a little revenge of their own. Their coach, Paul Schissler, thinks the Cardinals now muster a strength considerably over their playing performances during the pro league campaign of last autumn, and what the Bears hope and fondly expect to do to the Giants, Schissler and his young, new team, hope they can do to the Bears.

Gate May Reach 25,000.

Beaten only once in their last 33 games, the Bears are attracting great attention from the Los Angeles sports following. A gate between 15,000 and 25,000 is expected at their game here Sunday against the Cardinals.

Red Grange introduced Beattie Feathers at an American Legion luncheon today as "the greatest ball carrier in the country. He'll give Los Angeles football fans as much to look at as Dixie Howell did against Stanford in the recent Alabama-Stanford college game."

Grange said he'd be a disappointed person, indeed, if next autumn does not see him as coach of some college eleven.

RUCKER, FORMER DODGER, SOON TO BECOME A MAYOR

Roswell, Ga., Jan. 8.—(AP)—It's Mayor Nap Rucker now.

The title has been bestowed a little prematurely, but next Monday night the veteran major league pitcher and scout will take office officially as mayor of Roswell.

Rucker, who spent 27 years in major league baseball with Brooklyn was without opposition for the post.

A few weeks ago the Dodgers, for whom he toiled 10 years on the mound and 17 as a scout, notified Nap they would not renew his contract.

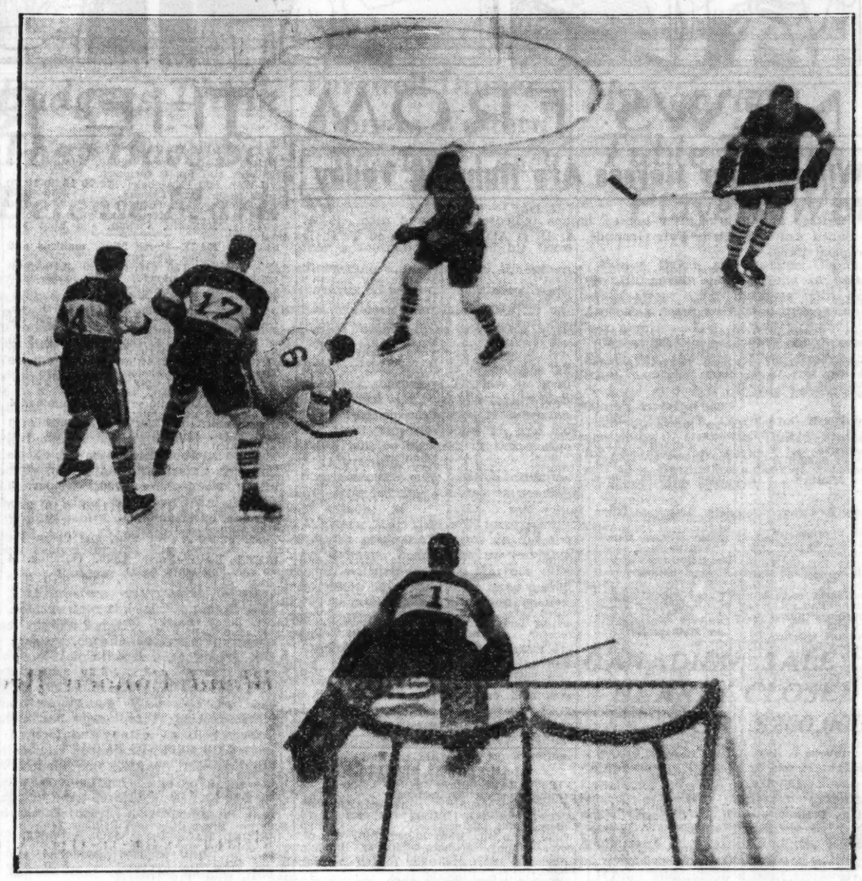
IOWA ELEVEN TO NAME CAPTAIN TOMORROW NIGHT

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—University of Iowa football letter men will elect the 1935 University of Iowa captain at a banquet to be given by President and Mrs. Eugene A. Gilmore Thursday.

Dick Crayne, Fairfield, and Dwight Hoover, Trent, S. D., are the only regulars among the 1935 senior players. Unless the squad departs from tradition either Crayne or Hoover will be named captain.

Coach Ossie Solem will award 27 major and 7 minor "I" sweaters following the banquet.

JUST BEFORE DETROIT TOOK OVER THE GAME



Laurie Aurie (No. 6), veteran Detroit Red Wing forward, slipped and fell on the puck as he tried to tie the score in the second period at a time when the Blackhawks were leading, to 1 to 0, in their game at the Stadium last night. Art Coulter (No. 17), Hawk defense man, is trying to pick the puck from under the fallen Wing, while Goalie Lorne Chabot (No. 1) protects the Hawk cage, and Marty Burke (No. 4) comes up to help out. Billy Kendall, Hawk forward, is advancing from the side. The Wings scored two goals a few minutes later and won, 2 to 1. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Riegel, Illini Center, Holds Scoring Lead

Bob Riegel, University of Illinois sophomore, is leading the Western conference basketball scoring race. The Illini center has made eight baskets and six free throws in two Big Ten games for a total of 22 points.

Norm Cottom of Purdue strengthened his position by making four baskets and two free throws in Monday night's game against Illinois. His total for two games is 19 points, giving him second place.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.
[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

JOHNNY IVORY, University of Detroit quarter back, now has a comeback for those who ridicule his name. . . . He is maintaining a "B" average. . . . Luke Sewell, Washington catcher, who probably will be with the White Sox next season, will be 34 years old next Tuesday. . . .

Gene Tunney is wintering at Hope Sound, Fla. . . . Pat Malone is tattooed with an American flag, and Rollie Hemsley with a gal who does a muscle dance when he flexes his arm. . . . The first half of the Stanford-Nebraska basketball game was played under the newly adopted Pacific coast rule which abolishes the center tipoff except to start the contest. . . . It met with general approval, the team last scored against getting the ball in its back court immediately after the basket is made. . . . Cotton Warburton of Southern California scored eight touchdowns in 1932, twelve in 1933, and only one in 1934. . . .

Some question has arisen among Chicago fans as to whether the five game spring series between the Cubs and White Sox is to be for the city championship. . . . Previously the honor hinged on the outcome of the formal fall series, by which standard the Sox are city champs by virtue of having won four straight in October, 1933. . . . Last fall the Cubs declined to challenge, and some now claim they really are champions because of the outcome of last spring's series. . . . The controversy may run into money if it is decided that the 1935 spring series is for the championship, for if the Sox lose, they will challenge in the fall. . . . Players share in the fall series but not in the spring. . . .

Northwestern university's basketball team has been invited to play in Madison Square Garden next year if it wins the Big Ten title this season. . . . All of Wisconsin's 18 hocky games are scheduled away from home. . . . Jock Sutherland, Pittsburgh coach, was told during a hard game that the opposing coach was signaling from the bench. . . . "Shall we protest?" inquired his informant. . . . "By no means," said Sutherland. "I would much rather play against the judgment of Coach Soandso than that of his quarter back." . . . Fred Harris may be the first Kansas university athlete to win nine major letters in three years of competition. . . . John Bunn, present Stanford basketball coach, won ten letters while attending Kansas, but he had the benefit of the war year, which was not counted as a year of participation. . . .

Elmer Layden's car bears the Indiana license number 101. . . . Art Haley's is 222. . . . A team of University of Illinois boxers will compete in the Chicago Golden Gloves tournament. . . . Cliff Sutter's brother, Ernest, will make his debut as a member of the Tulane tennis team next spring. . . . They say that Bill Lang of the University of Chicago basketball team is Phi Beta Kappa material. . . . The $1.65 balcony seats Boston hocky fans used to fight police to get have been reduced to 65 cents. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Notre Dame's national football champions arrived in Chicago and were greeted by a crowd of 1,000. . . . Iowa's basketball team defeated Purdue, 35 to 19. . . . Harry Greb outpointed Bob Sage in ten rounds at Detroit. . . . Ed [Strangler] Lewis was in the hospital suffering from injuries received when he was thrown out of the ring by Wayne Munn. . . . Augie Kieckhefer was defeated twice by Tiff Denton in the national three cushion billiard tournament.

SECOND PERIOD DRIVE BRINGS WINNING GOALS

Snaps Chicagoans' String.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Detroit Red Wings, long denied a victory over the Blackhawks, finally got going last night against the world's champions to the extent of winning 2 to 1 on a pair of goals made right in the middle of the contest.

The Detroit victory, witnessed by 8,500 fans, was the first of the year for an American division team over the Hawks and the second the Wings had scored in seven games with the Chicagoans, including the Stanley cup finals last year.

Though the officiating was no better than usual, those lads in the upper flights previously given to throwing everything from hymn books to herring and playing cards, responded to an appeal from the Hawk players and refrained from tossing even when the rulings seemed especially sour from the viewpoint of the Chicago partisans.

Defense Shortage Costly.

The outcome scarcely could be blamed on the refereeing, however. The goal which tied the score after an earlier one by Paul Thompson, was out of scrimmage, but the second came as a woeful result of the shortage of skilled defense men on the Chicago roster. This breakdown was no surprise to Manager Clem Loughlin who afterwards used Donnie McFadyen, a forward, as an alternative for his only two adequate defense players, Coulter and Burke.

The Hawks retain their lead in the American division by one point, despite the whipping.

There was plenty of exciting hocky in the first nine minutes of the opening period, but no real scoring threats until Thompson and Romnes got busy with some elegant team play for a marker in 9:40.

Romnes Fools Goalie.

Thompson picked up the puck two feet inside the blue line and on his left ice, then passed obliquely forward to Romnes, 15 feet to his right. Thompson broke for the cage a mile a minute as soon as he had passed, and with perfect timing, Romnes returned the puck to him. Thompson let loose six feet out from Goalie Roach and well nigh tore the back out of the cage, so completely did he deceive the Wings' off-agin-on-agin cage minder.

Two minutes later Thompson again got the disc into the Detroit net, but it didn't count as a goal because of an offside ruling. The good defensive work of the first period was reflected in the goalie stops. Chabot was called on to kick away four shots and Roach had six saves.

Pop! Goes the Ball Game.

The Wings made two goals midway in the second period to bring the score to its final tabulation of 2 to 1. Kendall had been put off for slashing, whereupon the Wings sent out five forwards. This array promptly put on a merry barrage. The Hawks stood off their short handedness until Kendall's two minute penalty was up, but just as Kendall was skating out to join the melee in front of the Hawk cage, Earl Roche batted in the tying goal in 9:20. Weiland and Lewis, who had been helping shove the rubber around Chabot's toes, were given assists.

At 11:30 of the second period the Hawks did a bit of paying for trying to operate a championship hocky team with only two defense players of skill. Wiebe had been sent on with Coulter to give Burke a little rest, whereupon Lewis and Sorrell swooped inside the defense, leaving Chabot unprotected. Chabot came out fully 18 feet in a valiant effort to bat the puck to safety, but he was a split second too late. Lewis bunted into the open cage and the Wings were ahead. Sorrell earned an assist.

Wings Go on Defense.

During the first half of the third period, the cautious Wings refused to take any chances with their lead and persistently golfed the puck even though fully manned. When Burke was sent off by Referee Hewitson on a wildly protested decision at the half way point, the Wings loosened up and two minutes of terrific hocky ensued.

Once the teams were equal handed again the Wings went back to a safety policy and ably stood off the frantic efforts of the Hawks to knot the count.

GOLDEN GLOVES HOPEFULS SHOW WARES TONIGHT

Prospective Entrants to Fight on Two Cards.

Boxing fans will receive an opportunity to watch prospective entrants in the Golden Gloves tournament in shows tonight at Community Recreation center, 4711 Madison street, and Mount Carmel High school, 6410 Dante avenue. Eight bouts are scheduled at each arena. Principals, most of whom have obtained experience in tournament competition, have expressed a desire to enter the meet which opens at White City Feb. 11.

The card at Recreation center, sponsored by the Mastro Boxing club, will be headed by three 1934 champions—Verne Patterson, Central A. A. U., bantamweight; Harold Brown, Jewish Organized Youth, lightweight, and Jesse Robinson, Illinois Athletic club and A Century of Progress, flyweight. Patterson will clash with Sam De Pasquale for five rounds, Brown faces Dennis Jones for three, and Robinson will oppose Jerry Mathieu for five rounds.

The show at Mount Carmel will be offered under the auspices of The Dads' club. Catholic Youth organization boxers will compete, chief among them being Charles Neigo, Claude Hinderlider, Ed Garvey, Jake Lampkins, Eddie Mileski, and Johnny Anderson. Neigo, 1932 Golden Gloves middleweight champion, will encounter Mike Krizmis; Hinderlider is matched with Garvey; Lampkins, 1934 Golden Gloves novice titleholder, will fight Mileski, and Anderson is paired with Joe Warren. All these combats are set at three rounds.

Barney Ross displayed good form for three rounds against Phil McQuillen at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday in his first sparring drill for a junior welterweight title defense against Frank Klick at Miami, Fla., Jan. 24. The champion didn't weigh himself after the workout but appeared to be near the stipulated poundage of 140, two more than he expects to scale against Klick. Barney will increase his boxing routine today to four rounds, two each against Geno Salvatore, La Salle, Ill., and McQuillen.

Jimmy Christy, featherweight stablemate of Leo Rodak, will make his first California appearance at Hollywood Jan. 25. . . . Rodak makes his coast debut at Hollywood Friday against Georgie Hansford, hard hitting Los Angeles junior lightweight.

The four round exhibition between Champion Max Baer and Tony Cancela, Tampa, Fla., heavyweight, at Tampa, Jan. 21, is expected to attract a capacity crowd of 6,500. . . . Billy Miller, Milwaukee, Wis., welterweight, will be out of action indefinitly due to a cut eye sustained during his eight round victory over Laddie Tonelli at Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . Young Rightmire is unable to go through with a bout against Paul Lee, scheduled Monday at Marigold until Jan. 21.

Jackie Sharkey will depart for Minneapolis tomorrow in expectation of meeting Sammy Levine there Monday. . . . Young Geno, La Salle, Ill., 130 pound boxer, will box Johnny Fitzpatrick for Pep Kerwin at Peoria, Ill., Monday. F. M.

GARDEN SIGNS OLIN

New York, Jan. 8. — [Special.]—Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, today announced he had signed Bob Olin, light heavyweight champion, for a ten round no title bout against John Henry Lewis on Jan. 18.

The bout and a tentative match between Art Lasky, of Minneapolis, heavyweight, and Jimmy Braddock, were made in odd moments while Johnston rested from his arguments with Jim Mullen and Nate Lewis, Chicago promoters, who are here seeking opponents for Max Baer in ten round exhibitions.

Braddock May Meet Lasky.

Johnston contends anything over four rounds is not an exhibition, but a prize fight, and as such violates Baer's contract with the Garden. He claims Madison Square Garden attorneys will prevent any such bouts, despite opinions by several noted legal authorities, including the attorney general of New York state, that the Garden contract is not binding in this incidence.

Braddock will meet Lasky, it was believed, if Lasky does not receive an offer from Lewis and Mullen to meet Baer in Chicago. Close followers of boxing point out that Lasky cannot turn down an opportunity to meet the champion just to keep a date with Braddock, whom Johnston described five years ago as being "washed up."

Ambers vs. Dublinsky.

The Garden's next fight venture will transpire Friday night when it offers Lou Ambers, designated by the New York commission as the No. 1 challenger for Barney Ross' title, against Harry Dublinsky, shifty Chicago junior welterweight. Ambers has never appeared in a windup bout in New York City.

Roosevelt High school's lightweight basketball team, defending champion in the Chicago Public High school league, got off to a strong start yesterday as the race opened by handing Sullivan a 29 to 8 defeat, which, next to Senn's crushing 51 to 18 victory over Amundsen, was the most one sided contest.

Lightweight teams in all four sections competed yesterday, with 14 league games being played. Phillips' lights and heavies met Hirsch in practice games.

Fenger and Parker Tie.

The closest contest involved Fenger and Parker. The game ended in a 25 to 25 tie after one overtime period had been played. George Todhunter, Fenger forward, sank a free throw in the final seconds of the regulation game to tie the score. He was allowed the free throw when Parker took four times out. Both teams went scoreless in the three minute overtime period. The teams will play off the game at a time to be decided later.

Five of the games were decided by three points or less, not including the tie game. In losing its contest with Manley, 22 to 19, Tuley missed 17 free throws.

Draper Leading Scorer.

Draper, Senn forward, was the leading individual scorer with eight baskets, while Schmidt, Kelvyn Park center, led in free throws with six. Didominico, McKinley guard, and Senka, Bloom guard, each made 14 points.

Marshall's lightweight team will make its debut today against McKinley on the latter's court.

Heavyweight teams will open their league race tomorrow and Friday night. Lane is the defending champion. Yesterday's lineups:

Boston, Mass., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins tonight won their first victory of the season over the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3 to 1, before a packed house of 15,000 at the Boston Garden. It was the fifth defeat the Leafs have suffered this season.

Dit Clapper figured in all the Boston scoring, assisting with Marty Barry on Max Kaminsky's freak goal in the second minute of play and driving two shots through Goalie George Hainsworth in the second session. Late in the final period Pep Kelly turned Art Jackson's pass into the only Toronto score, just after Happy Day missed an open net. Lineup;

SPLIT WEEK CARD IS ADOPTED BY COAST LEAGUE

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Directors of the Pacific Coast league today adopted a split week baseball schedule of twenty-four weeks, opening April 6.

They also voted to hold a post-season championship series between the pennant winning team and a team of all-stars from the seven other clubs.

The opening dates schedule two visiting teams to play a home club each week in four and three game series, instead of the former straight seven game series against one team.

Watch Iowa! Is Watchword in Big 10 Now

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Wisconsin and Illinois made a combined attack Monday night on Purdue and Northwestern, the two teams with the best pre-conference basketball records and whom many had chosen as the favorites in the Big Ten championship race. As a result Wisconsin and Illinois, beaten in their inaugural games, not only remain within striking distance of the top, but they may have opened a path for Iowa's Hawkeyes which perhaps will lead Iowa straight to the title.

Wisconsin, beaten by Purdue, 19 to 18, regained prestige by whipping Northwestern, 16 to 9. Purdue was nosed out by Illinois, 37 to 36, at Champaign in recompense for Illinois' licking last Saturday by Indiana, 32 to 28.

Purple Still Dangerous.

In the meantime Iowa has beaten Ohio State, 32 to 21, and Chicago, 39 to 29. Iowa's schedule is particularly favorable since the Hawkeyes do not play Wisconsin, Illinois, or Purdue.

In addition to Ohio State and Chicago, Iowa has two games series with Minnesota, Michigan, Indiana, and Northwestern. Indiana, by virtue of its victory over Illinois last week now looms as a possible stumbling block for the Hawkeyes. Minnesota is the only team which has not begun its conference schedule. The Gophers start Saturday night with Michigan as their guests.

Northwestern, of course, cannot be relegated to the also rans. The Wildcats were whipped by Illinois, 27 to 25, in the opening conference game in 1933, but finished the race in a tie with Ohio State for the championship. However, the game with Iowa Saturday night at Patten gymnasium quite likely will foretell the final result as far as Northwestern's aspirations are concerned. A two game handicap is more than the Wildcats can reasonably expect to overcome.

Iowa Has Best Chance.

On the other hand, if Iowa defeats Northwestern it will have fairly clear sailing, inasmuch as Ohio State has whipped Michigan and Iowa probably is equal at least to Minnesota. This line of reasoning leaves Indiana unaccounted for and the Hoosiers, by trouncing Illinois, have demonstrated that they may also dispose of Iowa. As far as Indiana's hopes for a championship are concerned, the Hoosiers have one of the most difficult schedules. Indiana plays Wisconsin, Minnesota, Purdue, and Northwestern in addition to Iowa and Illinois.

Minnesota's schedule is about a toss-up, as the teams now are rated. The Gophers play Michigan, Iowa, Chicago, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Illinois. Purdue's opponents are Chicago, Northwestern, Ohio State, and Indiana, in addition to Wisconsin and Illinois. Purdue, although beaten once, is far from out of the race. Illinois has had no more luck beating the Boilermakers at Lafayette than Purdue has had at Champaign. And Wisconsin will be at a disadvantage when it leaves its own fieldhouse.

N. U. Must Regain Morale.

Northwestern's problem Saturday night will be to regain morale after seeing its offense held to three field goals by Wisconsin. The Wildcats went in for large sized scores during the practice games and included a whirlwind attack which upset Pittsburgh's great quintet.

Lyle Fisher's average for six games was 17 points, but Wisconsin tripped him up with one field goal. On the home floor Fisher and his mates should resume scoring, but it must be against Iowa. To put off recovery to another date will just about write finis to Northwestern's championship drive.

MOSTLY about DOGS

By Bob Becker

Great Dane Is Popular.

Known everywhere as one of the biggest dogs in the world, the Great Dane does not lack for friends among American dog fanciers for several obvious reasons. There are other large breeds which may overshadow the Great Dane by the number of things or the flashy things they do, but this magnificent breed offers a combination of strength, nobility, elegance, wonderful lines, and intelligence that wins the allegiance of many dog lovers.

When you see a prudent Great Dane [these big dogs do not have the intesity of some other well known breeds], and note his size and royal mien, you do not wonder that some dog lovers have dubbed this great animal the Apollo of the dog world.

Most of us who have had intimate contact with a variety of dog breeds over a period of years immediately are impressed with one quality of the Great Dane: He is big and powerful, but like most of the giants among dogs, he has a trusty, friendly, restrained, disposition. The Great Dane can hardly be called a lively dog in the same sense that you would speak of a peppy terrier. However, he has a great deal of depth in his character—the kind of dog that makes a wonderful companion with reliable protective instincts.

Some months ago I asked a well known German dog trainer and kennel owner in Chicagoland for his description of one or two outstanding characteristics of the Great Dane. This man, who had trained many Great Danes, replied as follows:

"I think it correct to say that the Great Dane is a cautious, prudent dog. When aroused he can bring into action tremendous power and strength. However, the Great Dane does not have one of those explosive temperaments which sends the dog into action without restraint. And that is why he can be called prudent and cautious. In the Great Dane you have fine intelligence, which is controled and does not forsake the dog in an emergency."

These dogs are known for their fidelity and their companionship, and therefore make ideal home dogs, if one has room for them. Under their watchful eyes homes and property always are well protected.

For many decades the Great Dane has been used as a hunting dog in Europe, especially Germany. Originally he was known as the German boarhound. History tells us that this breed has been a favorite of many famous characters in European history. For example, Empress Elizabeth of Austria always had Great Danes. Johann Strauss, the "Waltz King" of Vienna, favored yellow Great Danes. Bismarck was another fancier of these huge dogs.

The prospective Great Dane purchaser has a chance to exercise a wide color choice. There are kennels which make a specialty of fawn colored Great Danes. It is possible to get blue [grey] Great Danes. Sometimes they are golden tan.

Badgers Think They Have Set Defense Mark

Madison, Wis., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—University of Wisconsin officials searched the records today, but failed to find anything which matched the defensive record of this year's basketball team, which has held two Big Ten opponents to 13 points in three consecutive halves, ending with the 16 to 9 victory over Northwestern last night.

Trailing 15 to 10 at the half against Purdue Saturday night, Wisconsin limited the powerful Boilermakers to four points in the last half, losing 19 to 18. Against Northwestern last night, the Badgers' tight defensive play allowed but nine points. Officials said they believed these 13 points established a new record for the Big Ten.

Badgers Need Punch.

Northwestern was unable to score a field goal in the last 18 minutes of last night's game.

However, while they were holding two of the strongest teams in the conference at bay, the Badgers were none too impressive offensively. In the two games, Wisconsin had 113 shots and made but 11 field goals.

Last night's contest recalled several other low score games, both between Wisconsin and Illinois. The Badgers defeated the Illini, 14 to 9, in the old armory here, Jan. 18, 1930, and repeated the victory at Champaign on Jan. 5, 1931, by a score of 12 to 9.

Foster Stars in One.

In the first of these games, Bud Foster, present Wisconsin coach, shot the Badgers into a 10 to 3 lead at the half with two baskets and three free throws. When Illinois cut the lead to 10 to 9, the Badgers took the ball into the back court and held it for eight minutes, while Illinois rested in the opposite half of the court, refusing to come after the ball.

Ted Chielewski held the ball for three minutes, then tossed it to Johnny Paul, who held it for two minutes. Together they stood in the back court and conferred while the crowd cheered, booed, and sang songs, and the officials rested on the side lines. A minute later, Foster and Forwards Maury Farber and Carl Matthusen joined the conference. Illinois was finally waved after the ball by Coach Craig Ruby, but went scoreless to the final gun, while Wisconsin was drawing away on four free throws.

1923 Record Best.

A year later at Champaign, Wisconsin went 13 minutes without scoring a field goal before Bobby Poser broke through. The Badgers led, 5 to 1, at the half. Illinois made only one field goal during the game, that in the second half on a long shot by Red Owen, a guard.

Wisconsin set its best defensive record in 1923 when Rollie Williams and Gus Tebell were playing the guard positions. That team held its opponents to an average of 14 points a game.

Farewell Dinner Honors Western Maryland Coach

Westminster, Md., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—A banquet originally intended to honor a football coach and his team will become a farewell for the coach at nearby Taneytown Thursday night when Western Maryland fêtes its undefeated football team and coach, Richard C. [Dick] Harlow.

The parting angle is occasioned by the recent signing of Harlow as head coach at Harvard, but the team which he brought through the 1934 season with eight victories, one tie and no defeats will be honored in the course of the evening.

The hero, of course, will be Bill Shepherd, who led the country in scoring last season.

Western Maryland will have plenty of regret at seeing Harlow go, for the new Crimson coach has an enviable record with the Green Terrors. In nine years here, his teams have scored 1,742 points against their opponents' 368. During that period they won 61 games, tied seven and lost 13.

Western Maryland officials have denied vigorously charges by Harvard student publications that Harlow has been associated with teams "known for their proselyting activities," but Harlow has remained silent. Today he stated that he will leave discussions of such to Harvard authorities.

NO JOB FOR CASEY.

Brunswick, Me., Jan. 8.—Bowdoin college officials today denied reports that Edward L. Casey, who recently resigned as head football coach at Harvard, would take a similar position at Bowdoin. Mal Morrell, athletic director, said there was no vacancy in the athletic department here.

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Demand for high grade bonds continued to raise the general level of prices today with treasury issues leading the way. Home Owners Loan 2¾s and Treasury 3½s, due in 1952, went through their old highs, but others in that group still were below old records. Volume totaled $13,671,000 par value, against $15,543,000 Monday.

Small net gains carried several standard high grade corporate issues to new highs. These included Chesapeake and Ohio refunding 4½s of 1933, Oregon-Washington Railroad 4s, Pennsylvania General 4¼s, and Consolidated 4½s, Philadelphia Electric 4½s, and Union Pacific 4s of 1968.

Several Leaders Strong.

There was a strong market in Bethlehem Steel Refunding 5s, Santa Fe General 4s, and American Rolling Mills 5s.

The market for speculative issues was halted by profit taking, although higher prices were paid for Colorado Industrial 5s, Consolidated Coal 5s, Lehigh Valley general 4½s, Montana Power debenture 5s, Pittsburgh and West Virginia 4½s, Portland General Electric 4½s, and Sharon Steel Hoops 5½s.

December Records Advance.

An advance in the average price of all bonds listed on the New York Stock exchange, from 89.85, Dec. 1, to 90.73, Jan. 1, was reported today by the exchange. On Jan. 1 there were 1,540 issues aggregating $40,659,643,442 market value listed. This compares with 1,575 issues aggregating $39,665,455,602 Dec. 1. More than half the market value of these bonds is contained in the treasury list.

Foreign bonds were quiet and the trend irregular. German government issues did not follow closely the example of the London market, where a sharp upturn was recorded.

A. M. Castle.

Investors' Guide: I would like to get a review of A. M. Castle stock. —G. J.

Answer: This $4,500,000 producer of iron and steel, primarily plates, bars, structural material, sheets, tubes, and rivets, was originally established in 1890. Its products are distributed in the middle west and in the Pacific coast territory.

Increased manufacturing activity during 1934 boosted steel mill operations and earnings were the best since 1931. For the first nine months of 1934 net income was $217,000, or $1.81 a share, against net income of just $3,000, or 3 cents a share, for the corresponding 1933 period.

In 1933 net income was $102,000, or 86 cents a share. Loss in 1932 was $161,000, against loss of $108,000 for 1931. Net income in 1930 was $365,000, or $3.04 a share.

On Dec. 31, 1933, current position was satisfactory. Working capital of $2,858,000 compared with $2,698,000 the year before. Capitalization is represented solely by 120,000 shares of $10 par stock. Dividends were resumed after a two year lapse on March 5, 1934, with the declaration of 25 cents a share. An extra of $1 a share was paid on Dec. 5.

The stock is somewhat speculative.

An Old Brokerage Custom.

Investors' Guide: I am writing to you about a matter which happened a few days ago. I sent in an order for 25 shares of Standard Gas and Electric and ordered the stock at the closing price of the day, which happened to be 4¼. The broker sent me a bill for the proceeds which included tax, brokerage fee and, the strangest thing of all, he charged me 4⅝ instead of 4¼ in accordance with my orders. Can brokers charge more than what I told them to pay for it?—P. J.

Answer: Yes. The unit of trading on the New York Stock exchange [round lots] is 100 shares. Purchases or sales of less than 100 share lots are termed odd lots. Brokers customarily add one-eight to one-quarter of a point on odd lot sales and purchases.

The broker was correct in billing you for the shares at 4⅜ instead of 4¼.

A 1792 Dollar.

Investors' Guide: How many grains of gold were embodied in the United States dollar when it first became the medium of exchange?—T. S.

Answer: The mint act of April 2, 1792, provided for coinage of gold eagles of the value of $10 containing 247½ grains of pure gold. Mint coinage, however, was small.

PLAN NEW U. S. BORROWING TO PAY HUGE BILLS

4½ Billions Needed in Next Six Months.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—In making preparations for gigantic expenditures before the end of the fiscal year, June 30, the treasury today was making arrangements to complete its 1935 borrowing program, $4,606,058,450 in new money in the next six months. Heavy new and refunding issues of securities will be authorized by Secretary Morgenthau March 15 and June 15, the regular quarterly financing periods.

Expenditures for 1935 were estimated in the budget at $8,581,069,026. In addition to the borrowing, expenditures will be financed from ordinary receipts and $263,359,878 taken from the treasury's working balance. In the period from July 1 to Jan. 5 the government has expended $3,563,072,572 for general and emergency purposes, leaving $4,927,996,654 to be disbursed before the end of June.

Doubt Full Disbursement.

Some doubt was expressed whether all this sum would be disbursed, in view of the necessary governmental red tape in getting the cash into actual action. The $4,000,000,000 work relief program of the 1936 budget, combined with the approximate $5,259,000,000 for relief and recovery to be expended this year, hardly will be in full swing before the end of the current fiscal year.

There was a possibility that a portion of the approximate eight and a half billion dollars obligated for the current year will not be expended until the fiscal year 1936.

The work relief program cannot get under way before April or May, in all probability. However the President recommended that $880,000,000 from unexpended balances be used in direct relief in order to take care of the situation until the dole system can be abolished through work relief.

Detail Maturities.

In addition to borrowing to assist in financing the deficit of $4,869,418,338 estimated for June 30, the treasury will be forced to refund maturing and called obligations amounting to $4,698,872,400. These maturities are as follows:

Type of security—	Amount.	Maturity or call date.
Discountable bills	$1,954,168,000	to end of year
2½% notes	528,101,600	March 15
4¼% Liberties	1,800,000,000	April 15
5% notes	416,602,800	June 15

This brings total borrowing of "new money" and refunding to approximately $8,200,000,000 during the remainder of the fiscal year.

For the 1936 fiscal year the budget estimated borrowing of $3,788,628,782. From the working cash balance will be taken $739,885,188, according to present estimates, while the remainder of the money necessary to meet expenditures of $8,520,413,609 will be received from ordinary receipts. In addition will be refunding offers which cannot be accurately estimated.

Cash Balance 2½ Billions.

The treasury at the present time has a cash balance of about $2,512,713,000, which includes nearly $900,000,000 in gold profits and seigniorage on silver. President Roosevelt indicated that this amount would "not be touched." The treasury statement showed a "working balance" of $1,629,519,870 on Jan. 5. This, it was stated, will be sufficient to meet all financial purposes of the government, with the exception of refunding bills, until March 15, when a large issue will be announced. Bills will be replace with other bills as they fall due.

The $1,800,000,000 in 4th Liberty 4¼ per cent bonds must be retired by the treasury by April 15. They may be taken in at any time prior to that date. Some market authorities anticipate that some of these bonds might be retired before March 15. Market conditions were said to be favorable to a refunding issue at this time.

BILL PROPOSES NEW SETUP FOR CENTRAL BANK

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.] — Congressional sentiment in favor of the creation of a central bank in this country found another expression today in a bill introduced by Representative Somers of New York, designed to create a National Bank of the United States, and "to provide an adequate and stable monetary system in order to regulate the price level and the purchasing power of money within the United States, and to regulate the activities of all banks."

The bill would confer on the government the "absolute and unconditional ownership and control" of the twelve existing federal reserve banks. It carries an appropriation to purchase the capital stock of the reserve banks at book value. The rights, powers, and duties of the reserve banks would thereafter be vested in the National Bank of the United States. All private banks could operate only under the rules and regulations of the national bank.

British Woolworth Firm Pays 80% Dividend in '34

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Net profits of almost £5,000,000 and dividends of 80 per cent for the last year were reported today by F. W. Woolworth & Co., Ltd., which operates 598 "three and six penny" stores throughout the British Isles. Gross profits for 1934 amounted to £4,879,950, an increase of £354,600 over 1933 figures. A final dividend of 50 per cent was declared on ordinary five shilling shares, bringing the year's total to 80 per cent. Despite such large dividends there was an undistributed balance of £5,614,454 to be carried on next year's accounts, an increase of £118,400 compared with last year.

Budget Points to Inflating Bank Credit

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Further inflation through a big expansion of bank credit has been rendered almost inevitable by President Roosevelt's budget message.

The expenditure of two and a half billions by the government in excess of its income during the six months ended next June 30 and the estimated four and a half billion dollar expansion of the federal debt during the fiscal year to end June 30, 1936, probably means loading the banks with at least seven billions more of government bonds.

Other investors and institutions will buy some of the new government offerings, but if the experience of the last two years means anything, most of the bonds will have to be absorbed by the banks.

* *

The President's figures are only estimates. If he compromises on the veterans' bonus and other spending schemes demanded by congress, the increase in the national debt will be far in excess of seven billions in the next eighteen months.

The banks will buy bonds. There is no doubt about that. They are already hard pressed to find investments for their idle funds and the further increase in the national debt will crowd them with still more funds begging for employment. With the government already owning one-fourth of the capital of the nation's banks and with the federal reserve board and the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation cracking down on the bankers they are not only helpless to resist being loaded with more bonds but are even helpless to call attention to the ultimate dangers of such a program.

* *

New offerings will only be a part of the mammoth financing to be done by the treasury during 1935. Before the end of the year the treasury must refinance 5 billion 240 millions of maturing bonds and other indebtedness. In addition, the refinancing of 3 billions 865 millions of other paper will be optional.

Controling the investment policies of not only the commercial banks but the Federal Reserve banks as well, the treasury is expected to have no difficulty in selling as many bonds as it desires. So effective is its control that it is even expected to force the banks to accept lower rates of interest and to exchange their holdings of short term paper for long term bonds.

During 1935 the biggest business in the country will be the business of government borrowing the savings of its citizens and spending them in an attempt to bring about prosperity. The money that the government spends returns to the banks in the form of deposits and the I. O. U.s that it gives form the basis for an expansion of bank credit.

In this way the politicians have discovered that it is possible to make two dollars grow where only one grew before. How long this type of inflation can proceed before the pleasant feeling of slightly rising prices and moderately increased sales turns into distrust of money and a flight from dollars into goods is an open question.

Most financial men agree that by clever handling and the right propaganda this program can be carried along successfully until the national elections of 1936. But they fear that when the budget is balanced as ultimately it must be—the combined shock of reduced government spending plus heavy tax increases may produce a severe bump and that the longer the inflation program is continued the worse the bump will be.

AWARD CONTRACT FOR KNOXVILLE POWER SYSTEM

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The city of Knoxville took definite steps tonight to build a municipal power distribution system which will use electricity purchased from the Tennessee valley authority and directly compete with the Tennessee Public Service company, local utility.

City council awarded a contract for construction of the first unit of the municipal system to Hess & Barton, electrical contractors of Pittsburgh, Pa., and authorized City Manager W. W. Mynatt to advertise for bids for the remainder of the system. The Pittsburgh firm's bid was $197,575.

The city's action followed litigation which blocked efforts of the Tennessee valley authority to purchase electrical properties of the Tennessee Public Service company in and near Knoxville for $6,088,000. The TVA entered into an arrangement last July 26 to purchase properties of the Tennessee Public Service company. It planned to turn them over to Knoxville and other nearby communities with an agreement that the TVA be repaid out of operating revenues.

COMMERCE GROUP STARTS "BUREAU OF 1935 EVENTS"

Establishment of a new bureau to promote for Chicago a steady series of attractions of national importance is a main point in the 1935 program of the Association of Commerce. This was announced yesterday by George W. Young on his reëlection as president along with his entire 1934 staf of officers. Such spectacles as the Army-Navy football game will be sought by the new bureau. The 1935 plans also call for an enlarged convention bureau, encouragement of improvement in the city's transportation facilities, and solicitation of larger and more frequent trade expositions.

Farm Chief Urges Tree Shelter Belt for Each Home

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 8.—(AP)—E. H. Everson of South Dakota, president of the National Farmers union, said here today that he believed a tree "shelter belt" around each farm more practicable than the proposed federal program. He proposed a federal subsidy to individual farmers to do their own tree planting and expressed the belief that the most attractive subsidy would be tax exemption for land used for tree planting.

More at Work, Pay Is Better in Last Year

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—More people were at work during 1934 and at better pay than in 1933, according to a report on industrial conditions issued today by the national industrial conference board. Despite rising prices during the year the average purchasing power was 7 per cent greater than in 1933, the report says.

The survey covers the first eleven months of 1934, figures for December not being available yet. It is shown that industrial employment during this period was at all times above the average for 1933, while the average of total man hours was about 14 per cent greater than the average for the preceding year.

Wages Rise Since March, 1933.

Comparisons of figures for March, 1933, when activity was generally very low and the banking holiday was in effect, with November, 1934, show that average weekly earnings of all workers have increased about 38 per cent, for unskilled workers about 32 per cent, and for women about 43 per cent. Like comparisons show that average hourly earnings have increased nearly 30 per cent. Pay rolls for November, 1934, were 83 per cent above those of March, 1933.

The average number of hours worked per week was practically the same for November, 1934, as in March, 1933, the former being 33.9 hours per week and the latter 32.1 hours, an increase of only 5.6 per cent.

Average hourly earnings of 59.4 cents in November, 1934, were above the average for 1929, when the figure was 58.9 cents, according to the board. The movement of real weekly earnings, in which changes in money earnings are related to changes in the cost of living, showed that employed workers enjoyed higher purchasing power in 1934 than in 1933.

The board's index of living costs gradually moved upward through 1934 but the report states that weekly earnings kept sufficiently ahead to place purchasing power above 1933.

AAA CLOSES DEAL FOR MOLASSES TO FEED LIVE STOCK

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Arrangements are being completed to provide approximately 60,000,000 gallons of blackstrap molasses for live stock feed purposes under a commercial arrangement between the AAA and a syndicate of importers.

The molasses would be sold to live stock producers at a base price not exceeding 7 cents per gallon. Supplies would be taken from molasses now in this country, and the syndicate would be reimbursed later by cane molasses to be brought in from Porto Rico, Philippine Islands, and possibly Hawaii.

Chicago Board of Trade Expels Lewis A. McAtee

Lewis A. McAtee, Rantoul, Ill., was expelled from the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday after a hearing before directors of the exchange. Directors found McAtee guilty of violating the exchange rules and the expulsion was voted under the rule which covers enforcement of "just and equitable principles of trade."

GENERAL MOTORS 1934 SALES REACH 5 YEAR PEAK; 42% ABOVE 1933

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The General Motors corporation today reported sales of 1,240,447 units during 1934, the highest volume since 1929. Sales to domestic consumers and those to domestic dealers alone were at the highest point since 1930, the report showed.

Total sales of the corporation for the year—that including overseas sales—were 42.7 per cent over the 869,035 unit total for 1933, while sales to consumers, at 927,493, were 22.7 per cent over the 755,778 units sold to consumers during 1933. Dealers during the year took 959,494 cars and trucks, an increase of 31.6 per cent over the volume of 729,201 cars the year before.

December sales to dealers in the United States alone totaled 28,344 units, against 11,191 in December, 1933, and 39,048 in November last year. Sales to dealers here and abroad totaled 41,594 during the month, against 21,295 in December, 1933, and 61,037 in November, 1934.

Sales to consumers during December stood at 41,530 units, compared with 11,951 in December, 1933, and 62,752 in November, 1934.

FURNITURE SHOW BUYING MAY BE BEST IN YEARS

Merchandise buyers who arrived in Chicago by the thousands Monday to attend the opening of eight major home furnishings shows started their 1935 purchasing yesterday in a volume that gives promise of breaking all records for recent years.

At the American Furniture Mart, where attendance at the twenty-second semi-annual exhibit is the largest since 1924, sales were reported to be the best in years. The Merchandise mart disclosed an increase in attendance of 562 over last January, at 1,337, with leading exhibitors enthusiastic over results of the first two days.

With more than 1,000 buyers in the Stevens hotel, purchases have exceeded last year by 50 per cent. At the Palmer house exhibitors at the Chicago Lamp show prophesy 1935 will be a banner year for the lamp industry.

A proposal for a year's extension of the National Industrial Recovery act from June 16, 1935, was approved by the National Retail Furniture association in the Furniture Mart. The association recommended the act include legislation governing minimum employé wages, hour restrictions, and regulation of child labor.

3 CHICAGO BANK PAYMENTS HELD OVER YEAR-END

Three of the state bank "dividends" listed for 1934 in the report submitted by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett and published Jan. 2 have not been paid. It was explained yesterday that the payments were authorized before the year ended, but that there was delay in making out checks.

Checks for the 5 per cent repayment by the South Shore State bank, raising its total return to 20 per cent, will be made today. They amount to $26,437. The Papanek-Kovak State bank will issue checks for $23,192, making a 7 per cent increase in returns to a total of 52 per cent. The initial declaration of 5 per cent, or $14,527, to depositors of the Montrose Trust and Savings bank will become tangible the first of next week when checks are mailed.

SUGAR "LONGS" PROTEST BASIS OF SETTLEMENT

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The protective committee for holders of December, 1934, sugar contracts, headed by Carlos G. Garcia, today addressed a letter to the board of managers of the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange to protest "the present action of the exchange in not fixing higher penalties for wilful failure to deliver."

In support of this claim, the committee alleges that twenty-three days have elapsed since the shorts were acknowledged to be in default, and that the shorts took advantage of the exchange by provoking emergency measures and a suspension of further trading in December contracts, which "might have gone to 3 cents a pound."

Elevated Roads in N. Y. Speed Auto Trafic

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Crowds attending the annual automobile show here this week approach the exhibition in the Grand Central Palace through a congestion of pedestrians and taxicabs that is not conducive to automobile ownership.

PAUL HOFFMAN.

The polished lacker and chromium 1935 models, alert and responsive vehicles with contours smacking of speed and power, please the eye, but the hand reaches for the pocketbook only when opportunities for using the car are in proportion to price tags.

"There isn't much chance to demonstrate here," said Paul Hoffman of South Bend, president of Studebaker, in driving away from the Grand Central Palace this afternoon.

Pace Quickens Suddenly.

The chauffeur jogged the automobile north over streets as crowded as Chicago's Michigan avenue at rush hour. At 72d street the car mounted a ramp to return south on the west side elevated highway.

"Facilities like these," said Mr. Hoffman, "make automobile ownership worth while."

The speedometer registered 48 miles an hour. Mile after mile was covered without a change of pace on a roadway free from pedestrians, cross trafic and parkers. The congestion of the surface streets was bridged with the exception of one gap to Canal street and the entrance to the Holland tunnel under the Hudson river.

"With such express highways west, northwest and southeast from the loop," said the South Bend manufacturer. "Chicago's automobile population would increase 33 1-3 per cent. The value to present owners of a million cars in Chicagoland would be materially enhanced."

After passing through the tile walled tube under the river, the demonstrator continued with the fast flow of trafic into a depressed highway that passed under the surface street congestion of Jersey City. Then it mounted another elevated highway, still avoiding the hazards and delays of cross trafic and congestion, to reach Newark, N. J.

Believes Expense Justified.

"It's time that automobile manufacturers give as much attention to street and highway development as railroad men do to their roadbeds," Mr. Hoffman commented. "These elevated highways are expensive, but the expense is well justified economically by the saving in operation costs and operators' time, not to mention the value of reducing accidents."

Large capital investments have been made in the New York metropolitan area in trying to overcome the geographic handicap to trafic of having a forest of skyscrapers jammed onto Manhattan island. For the west side elevated highway $16,000,000 has been spent and it's not complete. The Pulaski skyway, the elevated structure in New Jersey, cost $18,000,000. A tri-borough bridge, to link Manhattan with the Bronx and Queens, is under construction with federal aid for its $50,000,000 total outlay.

RUN OF 187 MILES IN 3½ HOURS, PLAN OF UNION PACIFIC

Salina, Kas., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Union Pacific's streamline train will be operated between Salina and Kansas City, a distance of 187 miles, on a three and a half hour schedule, officials of the road announced here today.

The train is to be put into regular service Jan. 31 after a series of test runs are completed.

Stops are to be made at Topeka, Manhattan, Junction City, Abilene, and possibly one or two other points, officials said. The distance from Salina to Kansas City is 187 miles.

Commonwealth Edison Rate Case Resumes Today

The Commonwealth Edison company rate hearing being conducted by Charles E. Byrne, commissioner of the Illinois commerce commission, was postponed yesterday to today.

DECREE IN OIL CASE IS DAMPER ON STOCK MART

Leaders Are Steady, Others Decline.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 8.—Stocks backed and filled in rather aimless fashion throughout the major part of today's session, but wound up irregularly lower. Most of the leaders idled around their previous levels, some of the more prominent of them, including American Telephone, U. S. Steel, General Electric, and Westinghouse, finishing unchanged from yesterday.

The oils were sold rather persistently on visions of price cutting on increased production, due to the Supreme court's decision invalidating that section of the NIRA under which the government was attempting to control crude oil production. The weakness of this group had a dispiriting effect on the market. Traders found food for some gloomy forebodings in the government's tremendous spending program in the name of recovery and the knowledge that the returns will begin to come in shortly in the form of some eye opening tax bills.

Radical Legislation Feared.

The overhanging threat of radical legislation by congress when it begins to strike its stride continued to give pause to the more cautious element of the trading fraternity and still others remained steadfast in their determination to adhere to the sidelines pending further light on the road ahead.

There was a sprinkling of moderately bullish items in the day's news, including one or two dividend announcements of some importance and the emphasis which a number of bank stockholders' meetings served to place on the improved conditions in the banking structure of the country. But this side of the picture was pretty much ignored in favor of the downright bearish developments and the grist of uncertainties.

Some of the oils sold down a point or more before a late afternoon rally came to their aid. Texas Corporation, Amerada, Simms, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and Consolidated Oil attracted the bulk of the selling orders.

Chemicals Under Pressure.

Chemicals were under rather heavy pressure and Allied Chemicals dropped nearly two points. Du Pont suffered almost as great a loss and lesser issues of the group went down with the leaders.

The automobile show now in progress here aroused no enthusiasm for the motors. General Motors, Chrysler, Mack Truck, Nash and others sustained losses running to nearly a point.

In the utilities group Consolidated Gas was a bit wobbly on further proposals for rate cutting.

U. S. Steel was a rather strong spot in the early dealings, but succumbed to the weight of the general list in the afternoon.

Railroad shares were sluggish and inclined to lower levels in the morning but braced up on the final hour rally. Atchison and some of the lower priced issues, notably Western Maryland, stood out in such buying as the division attracted.

Coca Cola put on a little performance of its own during the later dealings, running up more than three points to the best price since 1931.

SUE TO LIQUIDATE BANK OF REPUBLIC TRUST ACCOUNTS

A suit to complete liquidation of National Bank of the Republic trust accounts carried by the Central Republic Trust company until the latter ceased business was filed yesterday in Circuit court by Attorney General Otto Kerner on behalf of State Auditor Edward J. Barrett.

The National Bank of the Republic, its successor, the Central Republic Trust company, and the Reconstruction Finance corporation were made defendants. The bill asks the court to adjudicate claims, which are set forth as exceeding the face value of securities held in the trusts.

The auditor holds deposits of $547,703 in accordance with requirements for the banks doing trust business, and asks the court to determine who is entitled to how much of the deposits, against which the claims ultimately would be asserted. The court also is requested to require all creditors to file claims and name a receiver if necessary. Some of the claims filed allege illegal investment of certain trust funds.

PULLMAN SHOWS BETTER RESULTS THAN FOR 1933

The Pullman company, sleeping car affiliate of Pullman, Inc., yesterday reported a reduction in loss incurred during November, compared with November, 1933. The deficit for the month was $328,593, compared with a loss of $495,525 in the corresponding month of the preceding year.

A considerable improvement was shown for the first eleven months of the year with net income of $238,466, compared with a deficit of $1,337,269 in the corresponding period of 1933. Gross revenues in November were $3,310,113, against $2,748,809 in November, 1933, while for the eleven months gross totaled $40,276,290, against $34,883,404.

Court Approves Dividend "Losses" on Short Sales

Charlotte, N. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Dividends on stock sold "short" and charged against the seller's brokerage account may be deducted from reportable income as "ordinary and necessary expenses," the Fourth United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today. The board of appeals had ruled such dividend charges be added to the cost of the stock subsequently purchased to complete the transaction.

Industry Heads See No Change in 'Hot Oil' Curb

Decision of the United States Supreme court holding invalid provisions of the National Industrial Recovery act relating to control of oil production is not expected to disturb more tranquil conditions resulting from the federal curb placed on the handling of "hot oil" from east Texas fields, in the opinion of Chicago oil leaders.

Officials here said yesterday that new Texas legislation will enable state authorities to step into the breach and assume control over production which federal officials will have to relinquish under the decision.

Most oil leaders expressed hope that the decision will not affect operation of the petroleum code. They said that if such should be the case undoubtedly there will be some substitute for the code which, they asserted, has done a great deal for the industry.

Sees No Threat to States.

Edward G. Seubert, president of Standard Oil of Indiana, commented: "We do not believe the decision interferes with the state rights to control 'hot oil.' New legislation in Texas has recently been enacted which gives state authorities a much stronger hand than they formerly had."

Henry M. Dawes, president of the Pure Oil company, said:

"Comments of lawyers lead me to believe the defect in legislation which led to the decision is one which could be cured very quickly by act of congress. I do not understand that it has any effect on general provisions of the code, but is only definite as applied to that section which authorizes the President, at his discretion, to regulate shipments of oil and its products in interstate commerce. If this clause in the law were made mandatory instead of discretionary, the object and intent will be maintained."

May Have Code Substitute.

J. G. Sinclair, in charge of Shell Petroleum activities in the Chicago area, while declining to discuss the decision from the "hot oil" point of view, said that in the event the petroleum code is thrown out he believes something will have to be set up to take its place.

L. M. Foster, president of the Chicago Individual Brands Petroleum association, said he does not believe the Chicago district will suffer in the immediate future from the introduction of "hot oil" from Texas. He said recent stabilization work has brought the Chicago situation under control.

EASTERNERS FEAR RULING.

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Oil executives here today declined to comment on the Supreme court's decision upsetting federal control of oil production. They feared the court's ruling probably would result in increased production of crude oil in excess of quotas fixed by federal and state authorities and that such production heretofore characterized as illicit would now be legal.

Since quotas are based on estimated consumption it was pointed out excess production would disturb the balance between supply and demand with the result that the price structure of the oil market might be weakened.

DOLLAR STRONG AGAINST GOLD BLOC CURRENCIES

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The dollar today recovered all of its loss of Monday after the budget had been more fully digested by traders here and abroad. Gains were made at the expense of gold bloc currencies.

French francs were hard hit. They former sold off 1⅝ points early, recovered, and then broke to 6.61½ cents. All of the gold bloc currencies were under pressure. In Paris the dollar gained 3¼ centimes, closing at 6.609, compared with 6.623 in the previous session.

At the closing price of the franc the dollar was worth $1.0027, based on the new par of the franc, against $1.0007 yesterday. Calculated on the old par of the franc the dollar was valued at 59.19 cents, compared with 59.10 cents.

In London bullion brokers reduced the price of gold 1 penny to 142 shillings a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.84, based on the opening of sterling at $4.90¾.

A gain of $700,000 through the release from earmark of that amount of gold was reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. There were no other gold transactions.

PROTEST CHANGE IN ILLINOIS RAIL RATE TERRITORY

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—George W. Shafer, chief transportation rate expert of the Illinois commerce commission, yesterday announced a meeting of manufacturing interests in the Illinois Freight association territory in Chicago tomorrow to act on a recent interstate commerce commission ruling that affects the local interests in freight rate making.

The decision, according to Shafer, shifts the advantage of Illinois in relation to northwest points to eastern points. The effect of the present order, it was stated, would be to put a large portion of Illinois east of the Indiana-Ohio state line for rate making purposes.

Among those cities whose manufacturers would be adversely affected, Mr. Shafer said, are Chicago, Decatur, East St. Louis, Springfield, Peoria, Moline, and Rockford. The rate expert is understood to be drawing up a petition for presentation to the interstate body for amendment of the ruling.

Rumor Cohen or Bane May Follow Pecora in SEC Job

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The names of Benjamin V. Cohen and Baldwin Bane cropped up in the lead of a number of candidates to succeed Ferdinand Pecora as a member of the Securities and Exchange commission in Washington rumors today. Mr. Pecora has been picked by Gov. Lehman for elevation to the New York Supreme court to succeed Justice Edward R. Finch. Concerning rumors of his successor responsible officials of the SEC said that they had no inkling of who it would be.

FIRST NATIONAL FREE FROM U. S. RULE—BROWN

Chicago Bank Head Denies Meddling.

Stockholders of the First National bank were told by President Edward Eagle Brown yesterday at the annual meeting that the federal government has in no way interfered with management of the bank or made "suggestions," as has been the case with many other banks which have sold preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

E. E. BROWN.

"They have left us absolutely alone to follow our own judgment," said Mr. Brown in answer to several stockholders' questions. The stockholders amended the bank's articles to take care of the RFC's reduction of dividend rate on the $25,000,000 in preferred stock it holds. The original rate of 5 per cent was cut to 4 per cent the middle of last year, and will be 3½ per cent for five years from Feb. 1, after which it will return to 4 per cent.

Adds to Sinking Fund.

In return for the rate concession, however, the bank agrees to set aside the difference as an addition to the original sinking fund requirement for retiring the bonds. Under this the bank was to take out 40 per cent of its net income, but not to exceed 5 per cent of the amount of preferred stock outstanding, beginning Jan. 1, 1936. The requirement now becomes 6½ per cent for the five year period.

Answering another question, Mr. Brown said that none of the twenty-four directors reëlected was named by the RFC, and that all were in office before the stock was sold. A. B. Johnston, a vice president, was chosen director, but resigned in the board session which followed the stockholders' meeting, leaving the post to be filled by the board if it wishes.

Several Promotions Made.

Promoted from assistant cashiers were J. H. C. Templeton to vice president and Austin Jenner and Philip M. Riesterer to assistant vice presidents. Clarence R. Elchenberger and Harvey J. Schluter were named assistant cashiers, and Paul H. Dunakin and Leslie C. Gilbertson were chosen personal trust officers.

Two other loop banks held annual meetings yesterday. The City National Bank and Trust company reëlected all directors. The latter, in turn, named W. G. Sturm and C. S. Tuttle new trust officers and J. J. Bickel Jr. an assistant trust officer. C. E. Ahrensfeld was chosen assistant cashier.

H. Belin Voorhees, vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was added to the directorate of the American National Bank and Trust company. This increases the board to nine members.

Holds Other Rail Posts.

Mr. Voorhees also is president of the B. & O. Chicago Terminal, vice president of the Alton railroad, and a director of the Terminal Railroad association of St. Louis and the Kansas City terminal. The only other change in officers or directors was the addition of Leslie H. Klawans as trust officer. The bank also voted to transfer $100,000 from undivided profits to surplus.

The Chicago City Bank and Trust company, 63d near Halsted street, reduced its directorate from seventeen to sixteen. Present officers and directors remain, with Christian P. Zacher, real estate man, added to the board. One director resigned and one died during the year.

The Drovers National bank added George A. Malcolm, vice president and cashier, and Dale E. Chamberlin, vice president, to its board. No changes were made in the Drovers Trust and Savings bank.

University State Gains Deposits.

The University State bank reëlected all directors and reported a 170 per cent increase in deposits during the year—from $1,300,000 to $3,500,000.

The new Milwaukee Avenue National bank named Edmund J. Szumnarski, attorney, as an added director. C. D. Oakley, cashier, was made vice president and cashier.

The South Chicago Savings bank made no changes other than election of Guy A. Nelson, vice president, to

WESTINGHOUSE VOTES DIVIDEND OF RADIO COMMON

Am. Smelting Resumes Rate on 2d Preferred.

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Resumption of dividends on the second preferred stock of American Smelting and Refining company and a further disbursement of its holdings of Radio Corporation common stock by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, featured today's dividend announcements.

Directors of American Smelting voted $3 a share on the 6 per cent preferred stock, the first payment since June 1, 1932, when $1.50 a share was paid. This dividend will reduce accumulations to $13.50 a share.

Westinghouse declared ¼ share of Radio common as a dividend to each holder of its common and preferred stock. At the same time the company announced an optional dividend of $3.50 on the preferred stock to holders who would rather have cash than the one-quarter share of RCA common.

Dividend Full Payment.

The dividend, including the optional feature, constitutes full payment of the preferential dividend for 1935 to which holders of preferred are entitled.

The payment, which will be distributed to holders of 79,974 preferred shares and 2,582,181 common shares, compares with a dividend of one-half a share of Radio common a year ago. Provided preferred holders accept shares instead of the option, the dividend amounts to approximately $872,000 at the current rate of RCA stock. As the quarter share dividend represents only $1.31 at current market values, preferred holders will most likely use that option. Should all preferred stockholders use the option, dividend disbursements would amount to about $1,046,554.

Best & Co. Boosts Rate.

Best & Co. announced a dividend of 50 cents a share on common stock, compared with 37½ cents a share made three months ago. Melville Shoe corporation declared an extra disbursement of 50 cents on common, in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 50 cents.

Wilcox Rich corporation voted 20 cents on class B stock. A similar payment was made in the previous quarter.

Directors of the Bon Ami company declared the usual extra dividend of 50 cents on class B common in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of 50 cents on the class B and $1 on the calss A. All dividends are payable Jan. 24, to stock of record Jan. 18.

COTTON PRICES IN CHICAGO ADVANCE 1 TO 3 POINTS

Reports indicating that government selling of cotton was practically completed brought in fair buying of cotton futures yesterday, but the aggregate trade was not large. According to official announcement the cotton pool now holds 1,627,000 bales of spot cotton and 21,000 bales of futures. A rally of around 10 points from the inside level came toward the last with net gains of 1 to 3 points in Chicago for the day while New York was 5 points higher to 1 point lower. New Orleans had a holiday.

Spot cotton closed 5 points higher with New York at 12.90 cents per pound. Prices follow:

U. S. TREASURY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 8.—The following is a statement of the condition of the United States treasury on Jan. 5, 1935:

Income to date this year	$1,898,500,000

BUTTER AT NEW SEASONAL HIGH; EGG FUTURES RISE

Butter futures advanced to new high levels for the season on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, closing ⅝ to ½ cent per pound higher. Eggs gained ⅛ to ⅜ cent per dozen.

Butter advanced despite news which should have had a bearish influence. A fairly large quantity of New Zealand butter was reported purchased in New York and the government was reported to have rejected all offerings on the 2,000,000 pounds asked. New Zealand butter has been quoted around 15½ cents in London. The U. S. tarif is 14 cents per pound and the New York market yesterday for extras went up ½ cent to 34¼ cents. Egg news generally was favorable and new buying appeared.

Sales: Butter, 115 cars; eggs, 99 cars. Prices follow:

NATIONAL CITY NET RISES; CHASE PROFIT DECLINES

Aldrich Attributes Drop to Reduced Income.

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Divergent earnings trends were shown by the nation's two largest financial institutions—the Chase National and National City banks—in annual reports issued today at stockholders' meetings. Chase National reported net income of $16,509,309 for 1934, against $25,298,094 for 1933, while the National City showed a profit of $14,623,463, an increase of $2,112,255 over that of the preceding year.

In his report, Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of Chase, attributed declining profits to the reduced rate of income obtained last year. The average return on the bank's loans and investments during the year, he explained, was only 2.55 per cent, contrasted with an average of 3.41 per cent in 1933. After payment of preferred and capital stock dividends the bank added $9,651,465 to unidivided profits, while the City bank transferred $2,500,000 to reserves and $3,185,792 to profit and loss.

German Loans Reduced.

Aldrich reported that present German and Bavarian government credits constitute 52 per cent of its short term total. He said there had been a reduction since 1930 of $97,000,000 in total German credits owed Chase, made at a $9,750,000 loss to the bank.

Earnings of the First National bank during 1934 averaged approximately $1,000,000 a month, or $12,000,000 for the full year, Jackson E. Reynolds, president, told stockholders. The board of directors was increased to eleven members with the election of Harry Payne Bingham, Mr. Reynolds said.

Directors of the National City bank declared 50 cents a share on common stock, 50 cents a share on the 5 per cent preferred and 40 cents a share on the 4 per cent preferred held by the RFC, all payable Feb. 1 to stock of record Jan. 12.

Net earnings of the Corn Exchange Bank Trust company for 1934 totaled $3,376,000 Walter E. Frew, chairman, told stockholders. He explained the bank had settled its Harriman National bank litigation for $177,268. The original claim was around $300,000.

Explains Bank's Stand.

Critics of the banking fraternity and those who complain that banks are reluctant to lend money were forcefully answered by James H. Perkins, chairman of National City, in his report to stockholders.

"The impression has arisen that banks have not wished to loan money," Perkins said. "Some of these criticisms suggest such a lack of knowledge regarding the real ownership, responsibilities and operation of a bank that it may be proper to deal with them at the risk of repeating what are elementary facts.

"Reduced to simple language, it is the function and duty of the officers to lend funds to our 700,000 depositors in such a way as to safeguard their money and to earn a return on the investment of the 87,000 shareholders. None of the money belongs to the officers. It is depositors' and shareholders' money."

RAIN IN WHEAT BELT WEAKENS FUTURE PRICES

New Crop Deliveries Lose Minor Fractions.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Soaking rains over a large part of the wicier wheat belt, including some portions which nats been in direct need of moisture, served to weaken prices on the new crop futures of wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday.

May wheat, an old crop future which expires before any of the present winter wheat crop is harvested, showed continued strength and after an early decline the price rallied to close unchanged from Monday's last quotation. July wheat, considered a new crop future, ended a quarter of a cent lower and the September contract dropped an eighth of a cent a bushel.

The condition and prospects of the new wheat crop, on which the harvest will start next June, is not a price factor on the May future. Further steady removal of hedges in this future was reported yesterday on the part of consuming interests.

Flour Business Improves.

Flour business was reported to be improving in Minneapolis and Kansas City, and a continued broadening in demand is anticipated. Meanwhile, shipments of grain out of the terminal markets continue in good volume and receipts are at a record low rate.

A further depletion in market stocks in wheat and corn is certain as there is no prospect for any heavy movement of grain to market until the new crops are ready. In the meantime foreign countries will be used for a supplemental source for feed grains.

The distinction which traders now are making between the May and July wheat future was evidenced by the widening of the price spread yesterday. July wheat increased its discount by ¼ cent and is now selling 7⅝ cents under the May contract as compared with 6 cents a week ago.

Corn Market Is Strong.

The corn market was comparatively strong yesterday. Shippers sold 81,000 bushels to go out of this market and cash prices were steady. Final prices on futures were unchanged to ¾ cent a bushel higher.

Closing prices on the May futures with comparative figures follow:

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Week ago (Dec. 31).
Wheat	$1.01⅝	$1.01⅝	$0.98⅝
Corn	.91⅝	.91⅞	.89¼
Oats	.54⅝	.54⅝	.53
Rye	.75⅝	.76⅛	.75⅝

Prices here had no support in foreign markets yesterday. In Liverpool wheat was weak again. The anticipated revival in foreign demand for wheat has failed to materialize, although it is argued that Europe will eventually have to increase its purchases of foreign wheat.

In Winnipeg the market was dull. An early decline was attributed to a rumor that the government was planning to remove its pegs in the market. When this story was refuted the market recovered and closed virtually unchanged.

LARD FUTURES MOVE LOWER AS PROFIT TAKING DEVELOPS

Liberal profit taking developed in lard and bellies yesterday with the easier tone in corn and hogs having some effect on sentiment. Demand broadened on the decline, however, and a rally from the inside figures came toward the last with lard closing at net losses of 2½ to 10 points while bellies were 2½ points higher to 7½ points lower. Deliveries on January lard contracts were 150,000 pounds. Despite the setback both lard and ribs are selling close to the best levels of the season with commission house buying developing on the declines. Spot lard closed at 12.32 cents; loose, 12.55 cents; leaf, 12.75 cents, and bellies, 16.45 cents per pound. Prices follow:

Note—Above prices include processing tax at 2.47c per lb on lard and 2.62c per lb on bellies taxed on produce made since March. This tax is rebated on produce exported, but names according to the amount due to the fact that the tax was gradually advanced.

HOGS RECOVER EARLY DECLINE; CLOSE IS STEADY

Hogs recovered an early break of 5 to 10 cents here yesterday and erased all the loss in the ensuing rally. Average closing prices were steady with Monday's final level.

Prices at most leading markets continued to rise, but the advance over the entire country is the most uneven in market history. The wide discrepancy is attributed to conditions created by the drouth.

Packers in some regions are invading the big open markets for supplies, and this has resulted in many points west of Chicago gaining 10 to 25 cents above the general level here. Under normal conditions hogs at such points are generally from 25 to 50 cents under the Chicago price.

Packers yesterday at ten leading markets paid $10.30 to $10.85 for top grade hogs, of which $2.25 went to the government for processing tax.

Further gains were scored in cattle and lambs. Top lambs to city butchers at $9.35 equaled the highest mark of the season, while the bulk of the day's crop of good grades sold around $9.25.

Steers averaging 1,111 to 1,268 pounds topped at $11.50, to Swift and New York butchers, while bulk of the supply changed hands at $6.50 to $11. Calves recovered 25 to 50 cents of the recent losses, with top selected vealers back up to $8.
